Draft Champions Mode

What Is Draft Champions?

Draft Champions is a brand-new way to play Madden NFL 16. It is a free-to-play game mode that builds in the excitement of a fantasy football draft with on-the-field Madden NFL action. Players in Draft Champions can choose to compete in a solo draft against the CPU or in a head-to-head (H2H) draft. Players start by picking a coach, which gives them their playbooks and team style. From there, the fun begins and they will draft 15 rounds of players before playing with their team. The more you win, the greater the rewards you can earn!

Draft On

TIP

Check your base team for sleepers — they may change your draft plan!

Keep an eye out for legends; drafting one is an excellent way to give your team an identity.

From the main menu, select the Draft Champions panel to get started building your team. Once you select solo or head-to-head, you can enter a draft and start selecting your team. The game will give you a starting roster with base players who generally have around a 68 to 70 Overall rating. You won't have enough selections to fully create a lineup, so keep an eye on these players, as they will see the field at some point. All of these players have strengths and weaknesses, so try to get the most out of them if they make the lineup. Know which positions you need elite talent at and which ones you don't value unless something great comes up. If you grab an elite QB but keep a base left tackle, will you have enough time to consistently throw downfield? This is what makes Draft Champions so compelling. Remember that there are no wrong answers.

TEAM STYLES

TIP

Your coach will be the biggest factor in your team's style. Each coach grants +50 to style on offense and defense.

Choosing between a coach with a good playbook and one with a good style is one of the toughest decisions in Draft Champions: Lean towards playbook!

Building up your team style is a great way to get your team some boosts during gameplay. Keep an eye on what items you are starting to collect and start to build out a lineup. By flipping over an item, you can see how much style it will add to your team. Make sure to get your players in their proper positions to receive the boost. Styles and boosts work the same way as in Madden Ultimate Team, so test them there and find one you are comfortable with. This way you can experiment with the effects of style. For example, is a plus-50 boost enough or do you like to go higher?

AFTER THE DRAFT

After the draft is complete, you can adjust your lineup and play your Draft Champions game. You can also evaluate your coaching and equipment like uniforms and stadiums. Taking a few seconds to adjust your lineup can pay off in a big way once you hit the field. Make sure you get all the talent you selected into the best positions to make plays. If you selected two HBs, consider moving one to receiver if he has a high Catch rating. If you selected two OLBs who play the same side, move the backup to the other side to replace a base-level player.

All the small tweaks will help you get the most from the lineup once you get on the field. Using the Compare Items option in the Lineup screen is a great way to evaluate players' abilities and see who matches your team's play style. Finding good Formations is crucial to success. For example, you want a formation to spread out the defense if you went heavy on receivers, but you'll need different options for pounding the ball if you went with a halfback and strong offensive line. Check out play-calling sheets in the Teams chapter to help find the best plays in your playbook.

Your opponent will have some great players but will also be weak at a few positions. Try to target them and get your best talent matched up against their weaker positions (but know that they will do the same). Using the matchup stick in-game is a good way to keep an eye on these potential ratings mismatches.

The game will keep you up to date on your wins and losses. Don't worry if you take a loss, because that just means you get to do another draft! If you keep racking up the wins, you will keep earning better rewards. If you chose the solo challenge route, you need to win three games before you lose one to earn rewards. If you chose head-to-head, you must win four games before you lose one. Once you lose, you get your rewards depending on how many games you won, and then you draft a new team all over again.

Offensive Styles

- Short Pass style boosts Catch in Traffic and Pass Blocking to improve your ability to complete short to intermediate passes.
- Long Pass style boosts Route Running and Pass Blocking and improves your ability to complete intermediate to deep passes.
- Ground and Pound style boosts Trucking and Run Blocking, thus increasing your effectiveness with a power running game plan.
- Speed Run style boosts Elusiveness and Run Blocking, increasing the effectiveness of a running game plan built around quickness.

Defensive Styles

- Zone Defense style boosts Play Recognition and Zone Coverage, so there's an increased chance of success when you call zone coverage plays.
- Man Defense style boosts Play Recognition and Man Coverage for an increased chance of success when you call man coverage plays.
- Pass Rush style boosts Pursuit and Block Shedding, so players blitzing the QB are more likely to escape blocks.
- Run Stuff style boosts Tackling and Block Shedding, so defenders have a better chance of shutting down plays.

TIP

You will be given a heads-up if a player in the draft matches your coach's style.

TIP

Don't forget to optimize your lineup for the 4-3 or 3-4 defense depending on which coach you selected and his playbook.

Draft Champions Mode

Top 5 Tips for Draft Champions

Draft Champions is a brand-new mode that puts every player on equal ground when putting their team together. Since the rounds are totally random and no two drafts are the same, your results will vary. You may feel very confident about your team after one draft and the next time feel like you made a mistake. No matter what, your team will be able to win games on the field, so stay cool and be ready!

5 HAVE A PLAN

TIP

Taking on a human opponent is one of the biggest challenges. In general, they tend to draft their favorite players or skill positions and leave the offensive line weak.

Knowing what type of team you want to build is extremely important when starting a draft. Although you never know which players will appear, you can ask yourself a few questions about your play style to really have an advantage.

- Is my defensive playbook a 3-4 or 4-3?
- Would I rather be a run-first or pass-first player?
- Which position is the most valuable to me on offense?

TIP

QB is the most important position in Draft Champions; however, if you favor a run-heavy style and get an elite offensive line, your HB could be your most important player.

- If a certain elite player is available, will I select him even if I already have that position covered and a need at another spot?
- Who would be a fun player to user-control on defense?
- Should I draft based on ratings or based on name recognition?
- How much do I value whether or not a player matches up with my team style?

The best part is that even if you don't have quite the draft you planned for, you will still have a solid team that can win games.

4 SET YOUR LINEUP

TIP

You can always pause the game and make more changes to your depth chart if something isn't lining up like you expected.

Now that you have drafted your squad, make sure to get them set up in the optimal positions before heading into a game. By taking the extra second to review your lineup and make adjustments, you can double-check your strengths and weaknesses. If you doubled up on a position, now is the time to make a move and see if you can find a spot in the lineup for both. Picking up two guards or LBs at the same position isn't a big deal since you can shift them around. You won't gain the style boost, but they will likely be better than your base player.

3 TEST EVERYTHING AND KEEP NOTES

TIP

Make sure to write down if a certain playbook fit your style, and note any specific plays from it that you liked. Chances are, most offensive concepts and defensive plays can be found in multiple playbooks, so the knowledge really helps over time!

One of the best parts of this mode is finding some talented players that seem to play even better than their ratings! On the flip side, not every elite player will catch every single pass thrown his way. Keep a notebook next to your desk and mark down any time a player makes a big play for your team. If you utilize players out of position, make a note if you feel they improved or declined. Generally, as long as the player fits into the role of the new position, it was worth it to swap positions even if it wasn't his natural listed spot.

2 KNOW YOUR HOLES

TIP

Evaluate your base team before making any selections! A few solid players can be used in your lineup despite their average overall rating.

With only a 15-round draft and 22 starting spots, your team will ultimately be weak somewhere. Don't be discouraged if you didn't get to load your team up quite as you could in Madden Ultimate Team! Your backups will play a big role in the game, and they all have strengths and weaknesses. Focus on bringing out their best talents by getting them in good positions for their skill sets!

1 TAKE YOUR TIME

TIP

Once you are on the field, the stars under certain player rings indicate who the best players are, so look for them!

The draft is easily the best part of the new experience, so take your time and enjoy it. You have unlimited time to make a pick, so relax and use all the information available to you. At each new round, review the players you have already selected and make sure to look for some of those deeper hidden ratings on the back of the card. It will take a few rounds, but eventually you will get confident enough to make the pick without having to flip the cards. Until then take a deep breath and take your time!

Remember: There is no wrong pick. Even if you feel you messed up 15 times in a row, your team's Overall rating will still be high enough to win a game against someone who made 15 "perfect" selections. "Scheme over team!"

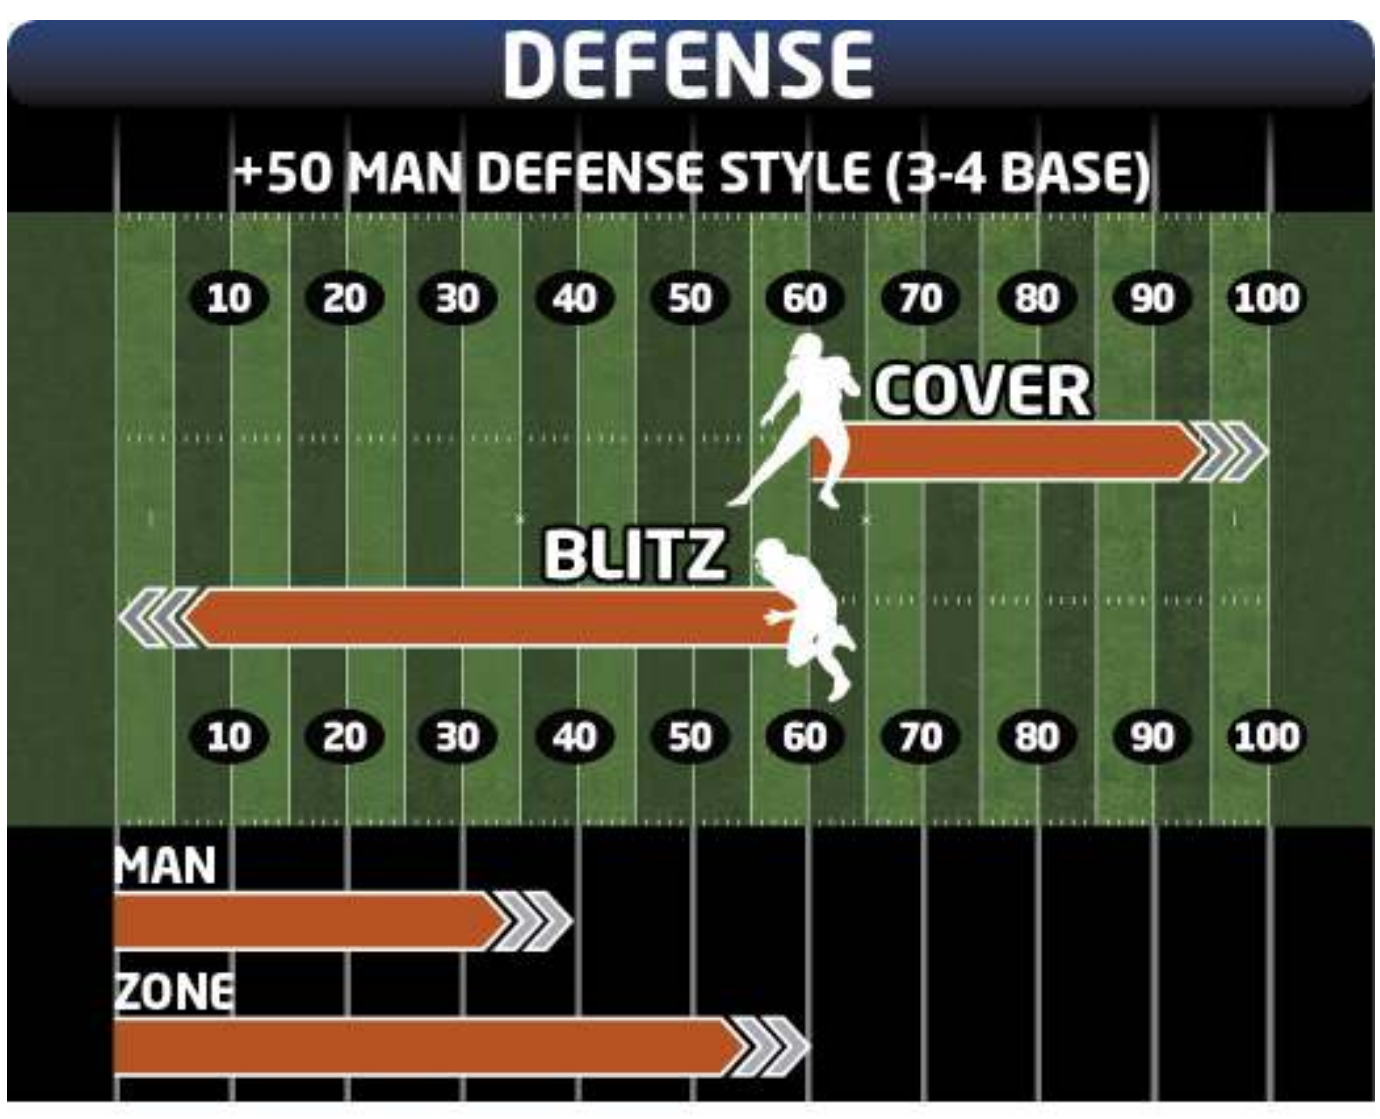
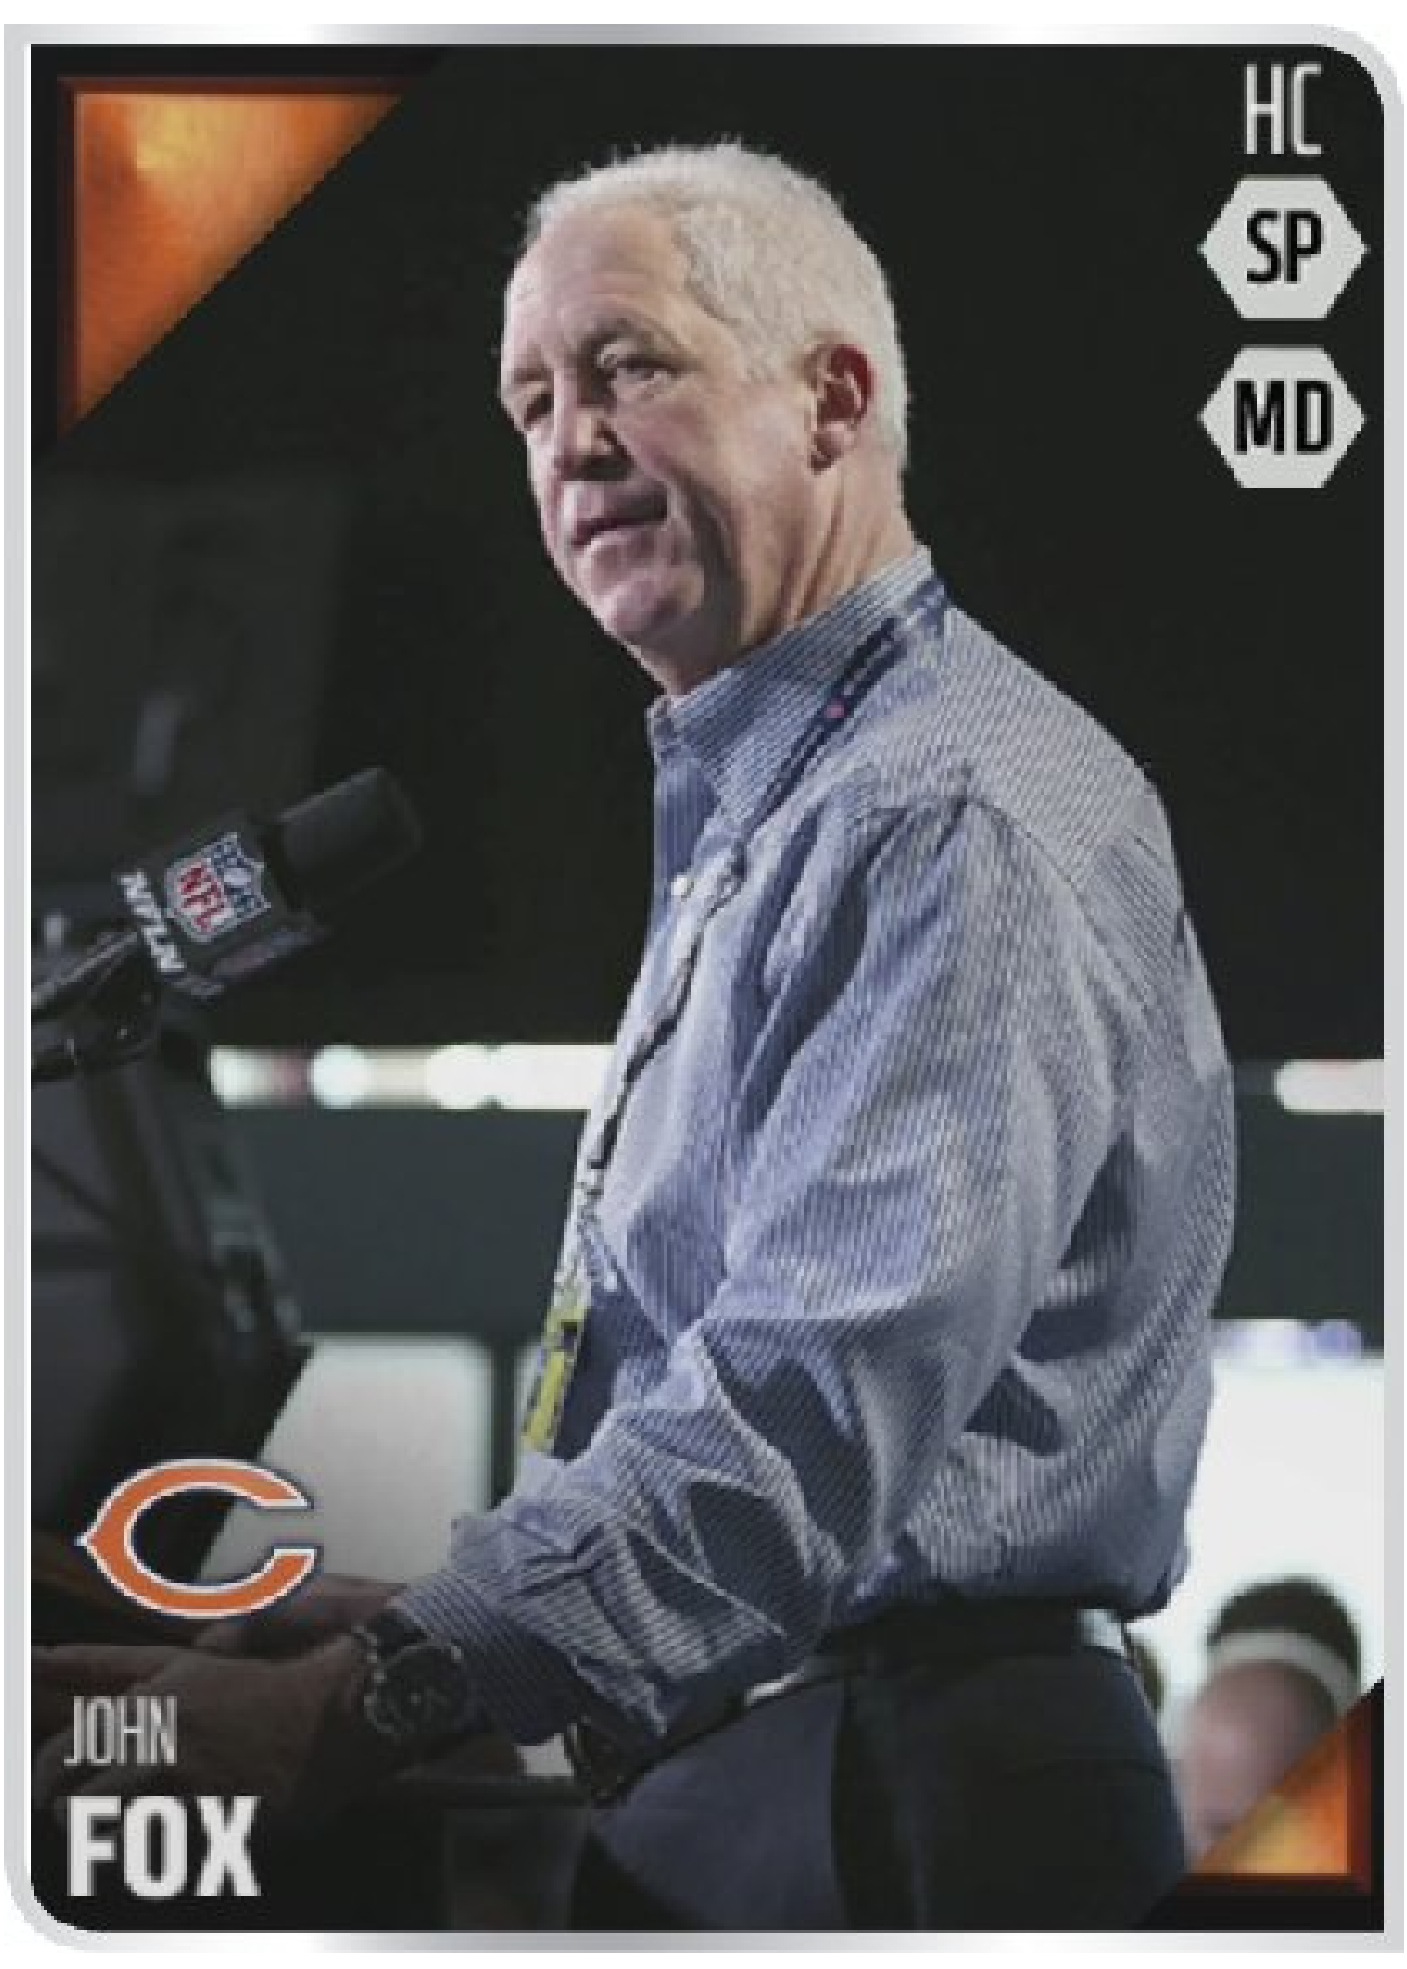
Draft Champions Mode

Chicago Bears





Offense

The Bears' playbook has seen some big changes in Madden NFL 16 and is now a balanced playbook with plenty of chances for big plays downfield. Run-first players will need an all-around HB, while pass-first players should aim for a big receiving target.

Key Formation

Singleback Tight Flex is the optimal formation to start out in, especially if you get a balanced TE who can run-block and hit the seam. If you can't block your opponent's pass rush, drop back to shotgun.

Key Player

QB with 95+ Throw Power

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Close, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Y-Trips Bear, Tight Flex
- I-Form: Pro, Flex Twins, Tight
- Strong: Pro, Tight Pair
- Weak: Twins Flex
- Pistol: Ace, Slot Wing, Y-Trips
- Gun: Split Offset, Doubles Wk, Y-Trips Wk, Trio, Bunch Wk, Snugs Flip, Dice Y-Flex, Trey Open, Empty Trey, 5WR Trio

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (SPD, TRK, CTH)
- WR (6'3"+ RTE, SPC)
- QB (THP, DAC, PAC)

PRO TIP

No matter what style you want to run, having a big arm to unleash an attempt downfield once per half will keep the defense hesitant to cram the box.

Defense

The Bears have changed over to a 3-4 playbook and will really benefit from pass-rushing defensive ends who won't need to drop into zone too often. No matter what, you will still want a solid MLB who is built for zone coverage.

Key Formation

The Bears' Nickel 2-4-5 Prowl is a great defensive formation that can really give the offense headaches. Start with the Cover 2 Drop and see if all the commotion before the snap doesn't throw your opponent off for a while!

Key Player

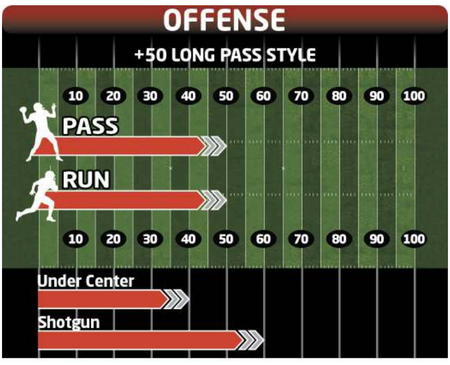
MLB with 85+ Play Recognition

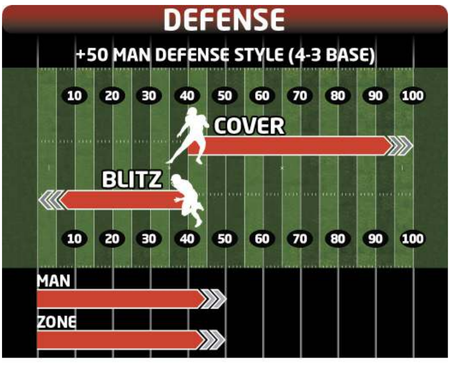
Formations

- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over, Even, Bear

Draft Champions Mode

Cincinnati Bengals





Offense

The Bengals' offense is optimized for either a power or speed back, which makes it versatile. If you get a power back, stick with the under-center run Formations. If you find an elusive player, get him out in space for screens and counters from shotgun.

Key Formation

Gun Trips Y Iso will let your best offensive playmaker get a chance downfield!

Key Player

WR/TE with 85+ Spectacular Catch

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Y-Trips, Snugs Flip, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Close, Pro Twins
- Weak: Pro Twins
- Pistol: Strong Twins
- Gun: Split Slot, Ace Offset, Ace Twins Offset, Doubles Offset, Y-Trips Bengal, Trio, Bunch Wk, Double Stack, Normal Y-Flex Tight, Trips Y Iso, Trey Open, Empty Trey, Empty Base Flex
- Wildcat: Bengal

- WR (SPD, RTE, SPC)
- QB (THP, MAC, DAC)
- HB (SPD, CTH, ELU)

PRO TIP

The Bengals' playbook has some solid one-on-one routes if you can land a star WR, but make sure your QB has the throwing power to get the ball downfield!

Defense

The Bengals' defensive book contains lots of versatility for a 4-3 playbook. By dropping defensive ends into coverage and sending LBs on blitzes, there is plenty of confusion to be created.

Key Formation

The 46 Normal is perfect for slowing down the run and testing your opponent's passing game. Move your defensive linemen around to find them good rushing matchups!

Key Player

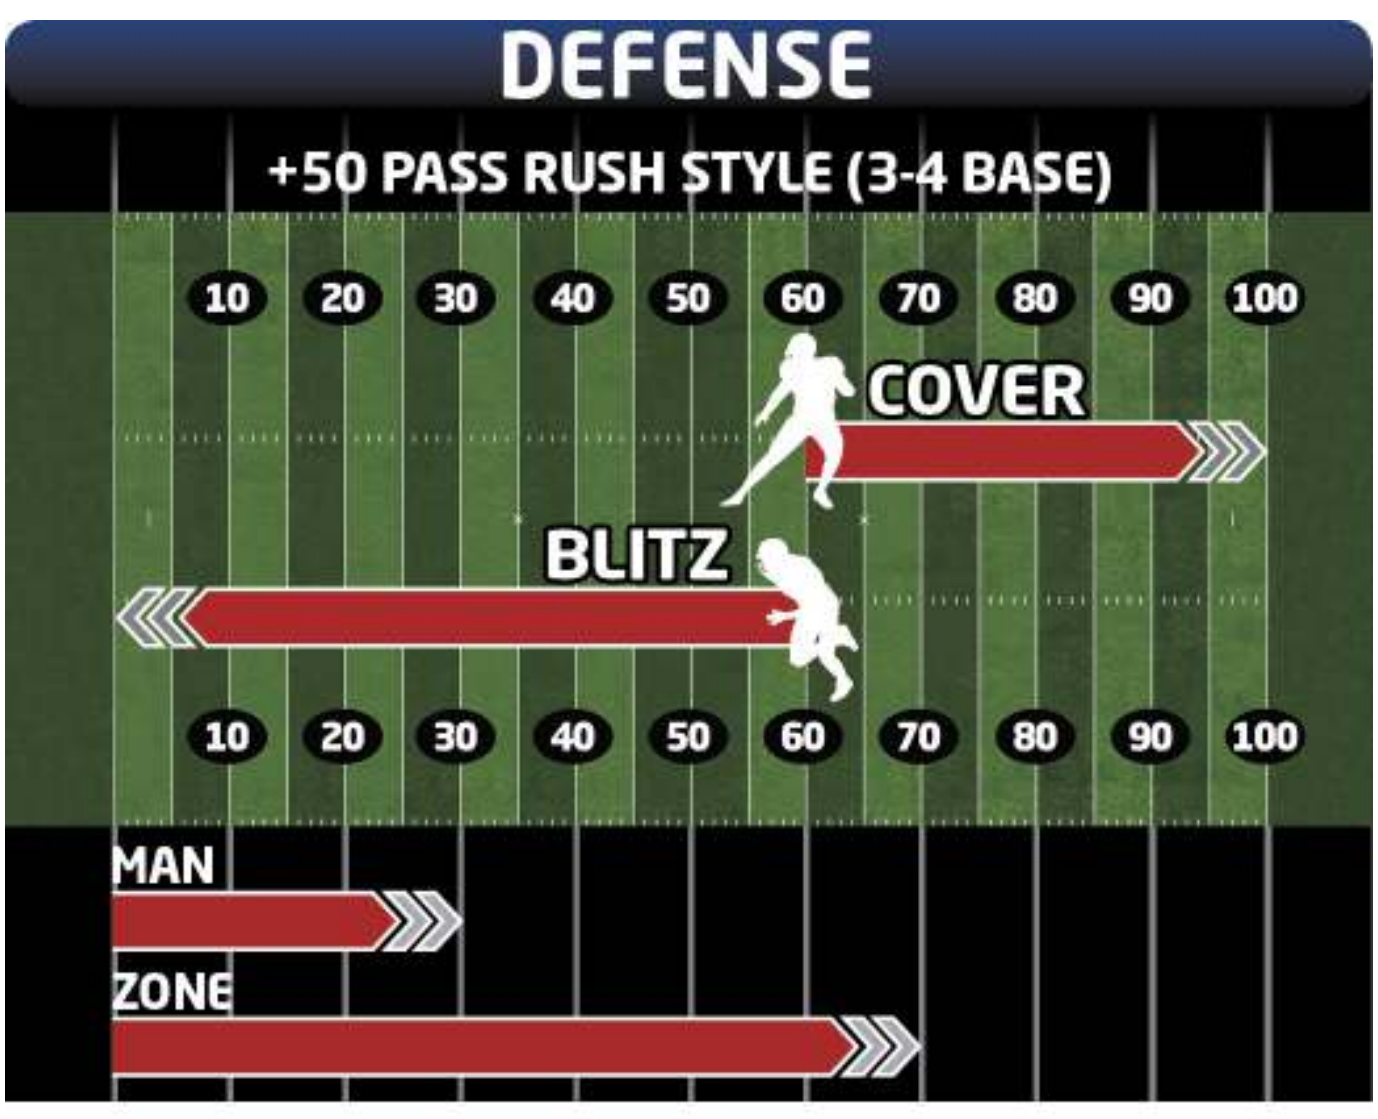
DT with 85+ Finesse Moves

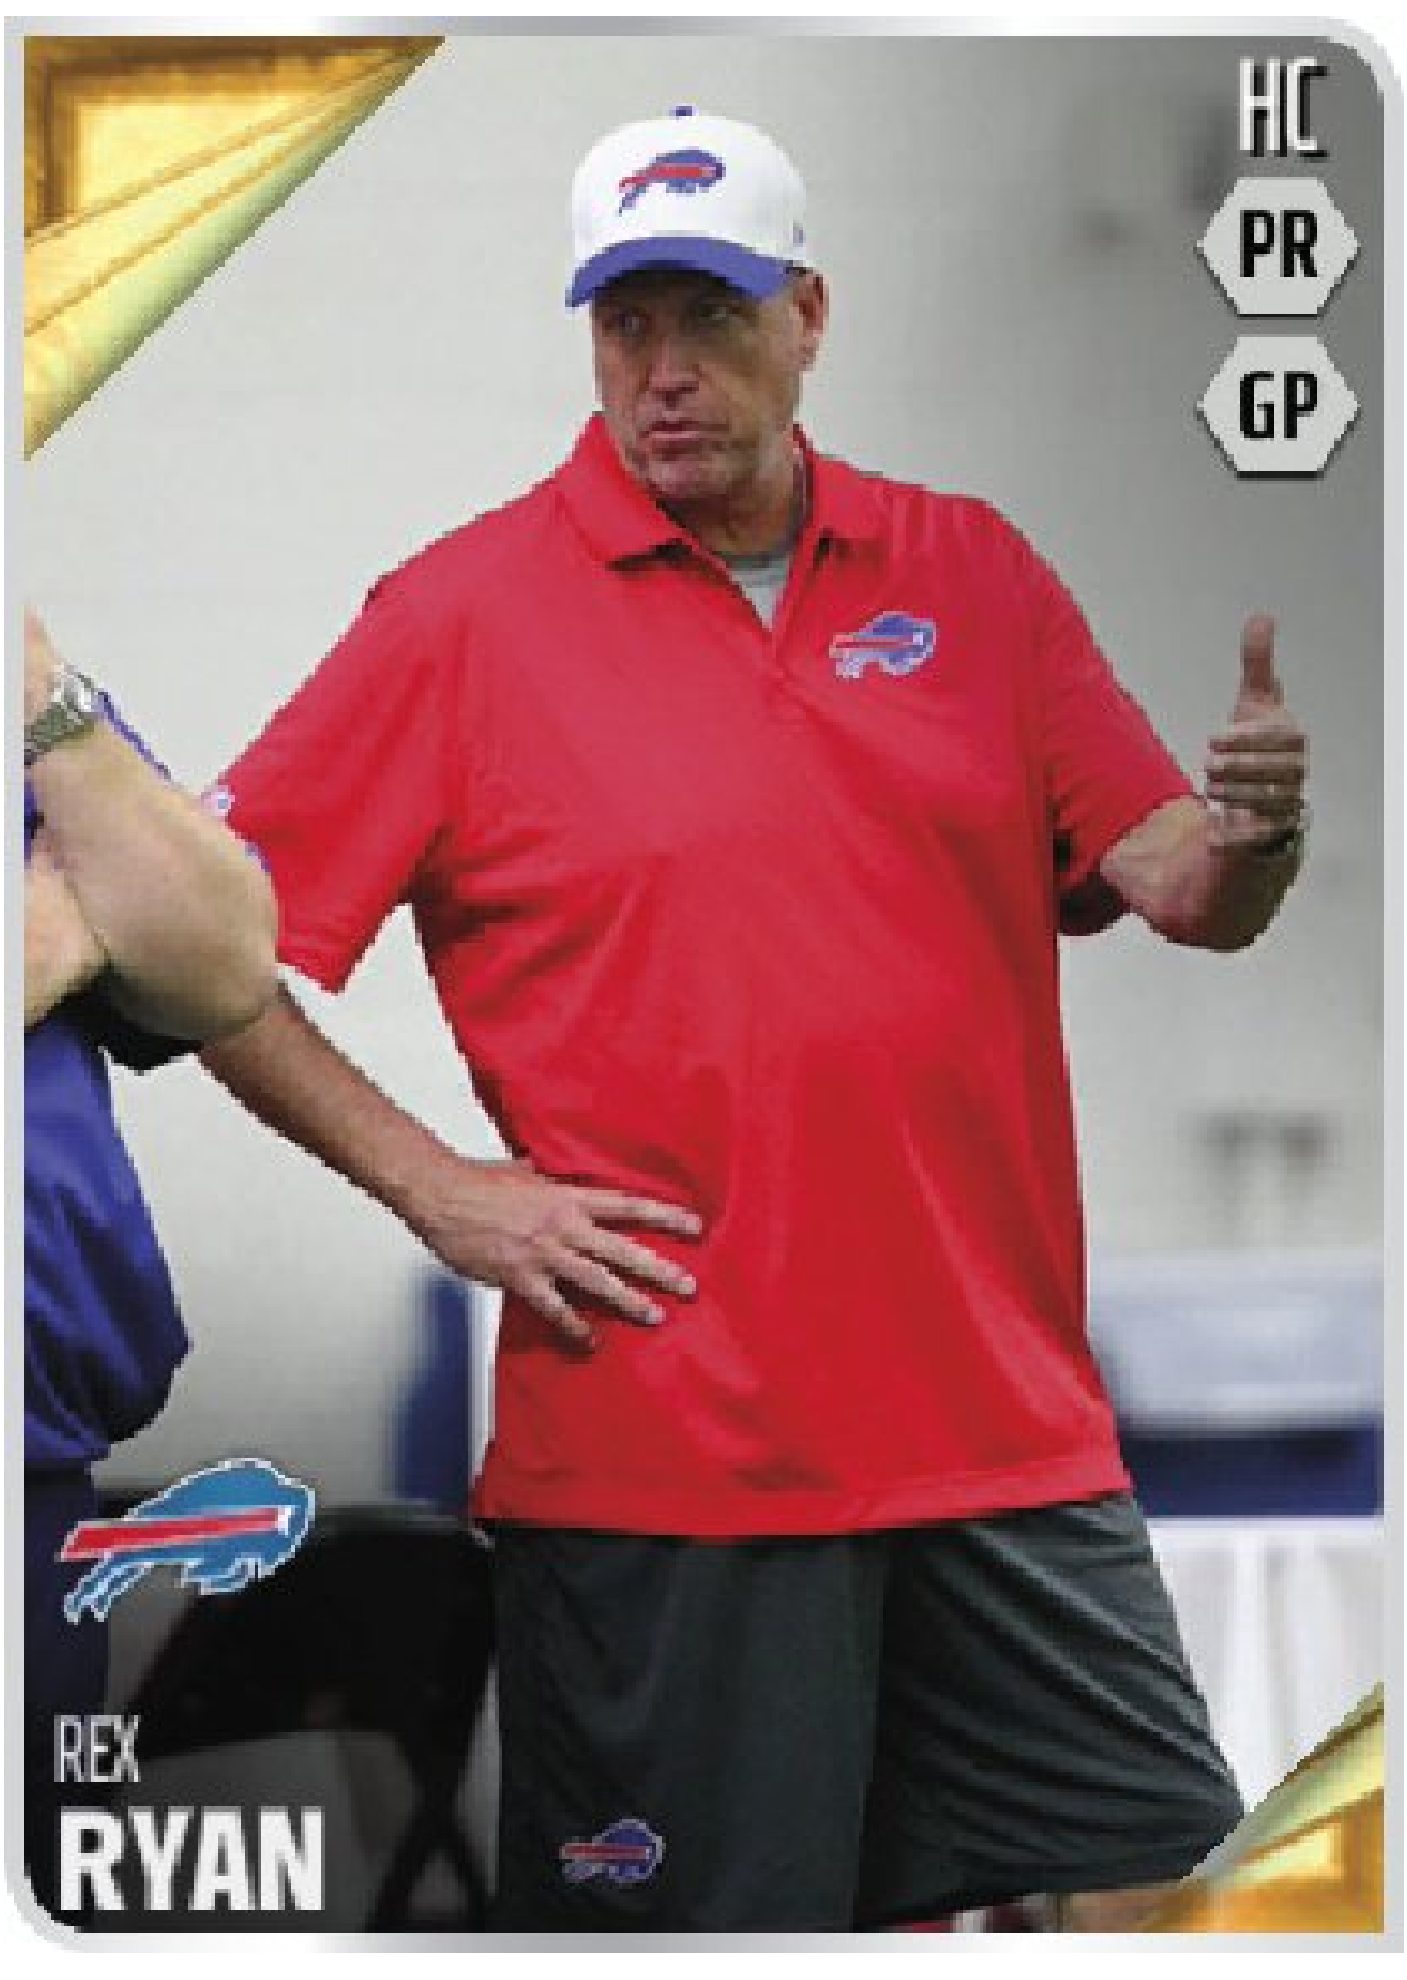
Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9

Draft Champions Mode

Buffalo Bills





Offense

The Bills' offense is perfect for players who like to mix two HBs into their game plan. If you can commit to running the ball and keeping your backs fresh, you will have great success.

Key Formation

Buffalo has an excellent formation with the Dbls Wing Offset Wk. This allows you to run inside or outside to set up quick throws to the edge. Use this formation to get your fastest playmakers a mismatch on the outside.

Key Player

HB with 90+ Speed

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Pair, Ace, Ace Close, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Flex, Bunch Ace, Bills Doubles
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Tight Pair
- Weak: Pro
- Pistol: Full House TE, Full House Base, Strong Twins, Weak Twins, Ace Twins
- Gun: Doubles, Dbls Wing Offset Wk, Y-Trips Wk, Trio Offset Wk, Bunch HB Str, Spread Flex Wk, Trey Open, Empty Trey Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (SPD, ACC, ELU)
- WR (SPD, ACC, RLS)
- QB (ACC, PAC, MAC)

PRO TIP

Look for a mobile QB rather than a pocket passer, especially if the difference in Overall rating is within a few points.

DEFENSIVE Draft Targets

- OLB (ZCV, PRC, PUR)
- SS (PRC, SPD, ACC)
- DT (STR, BSH, PMV)

Defense

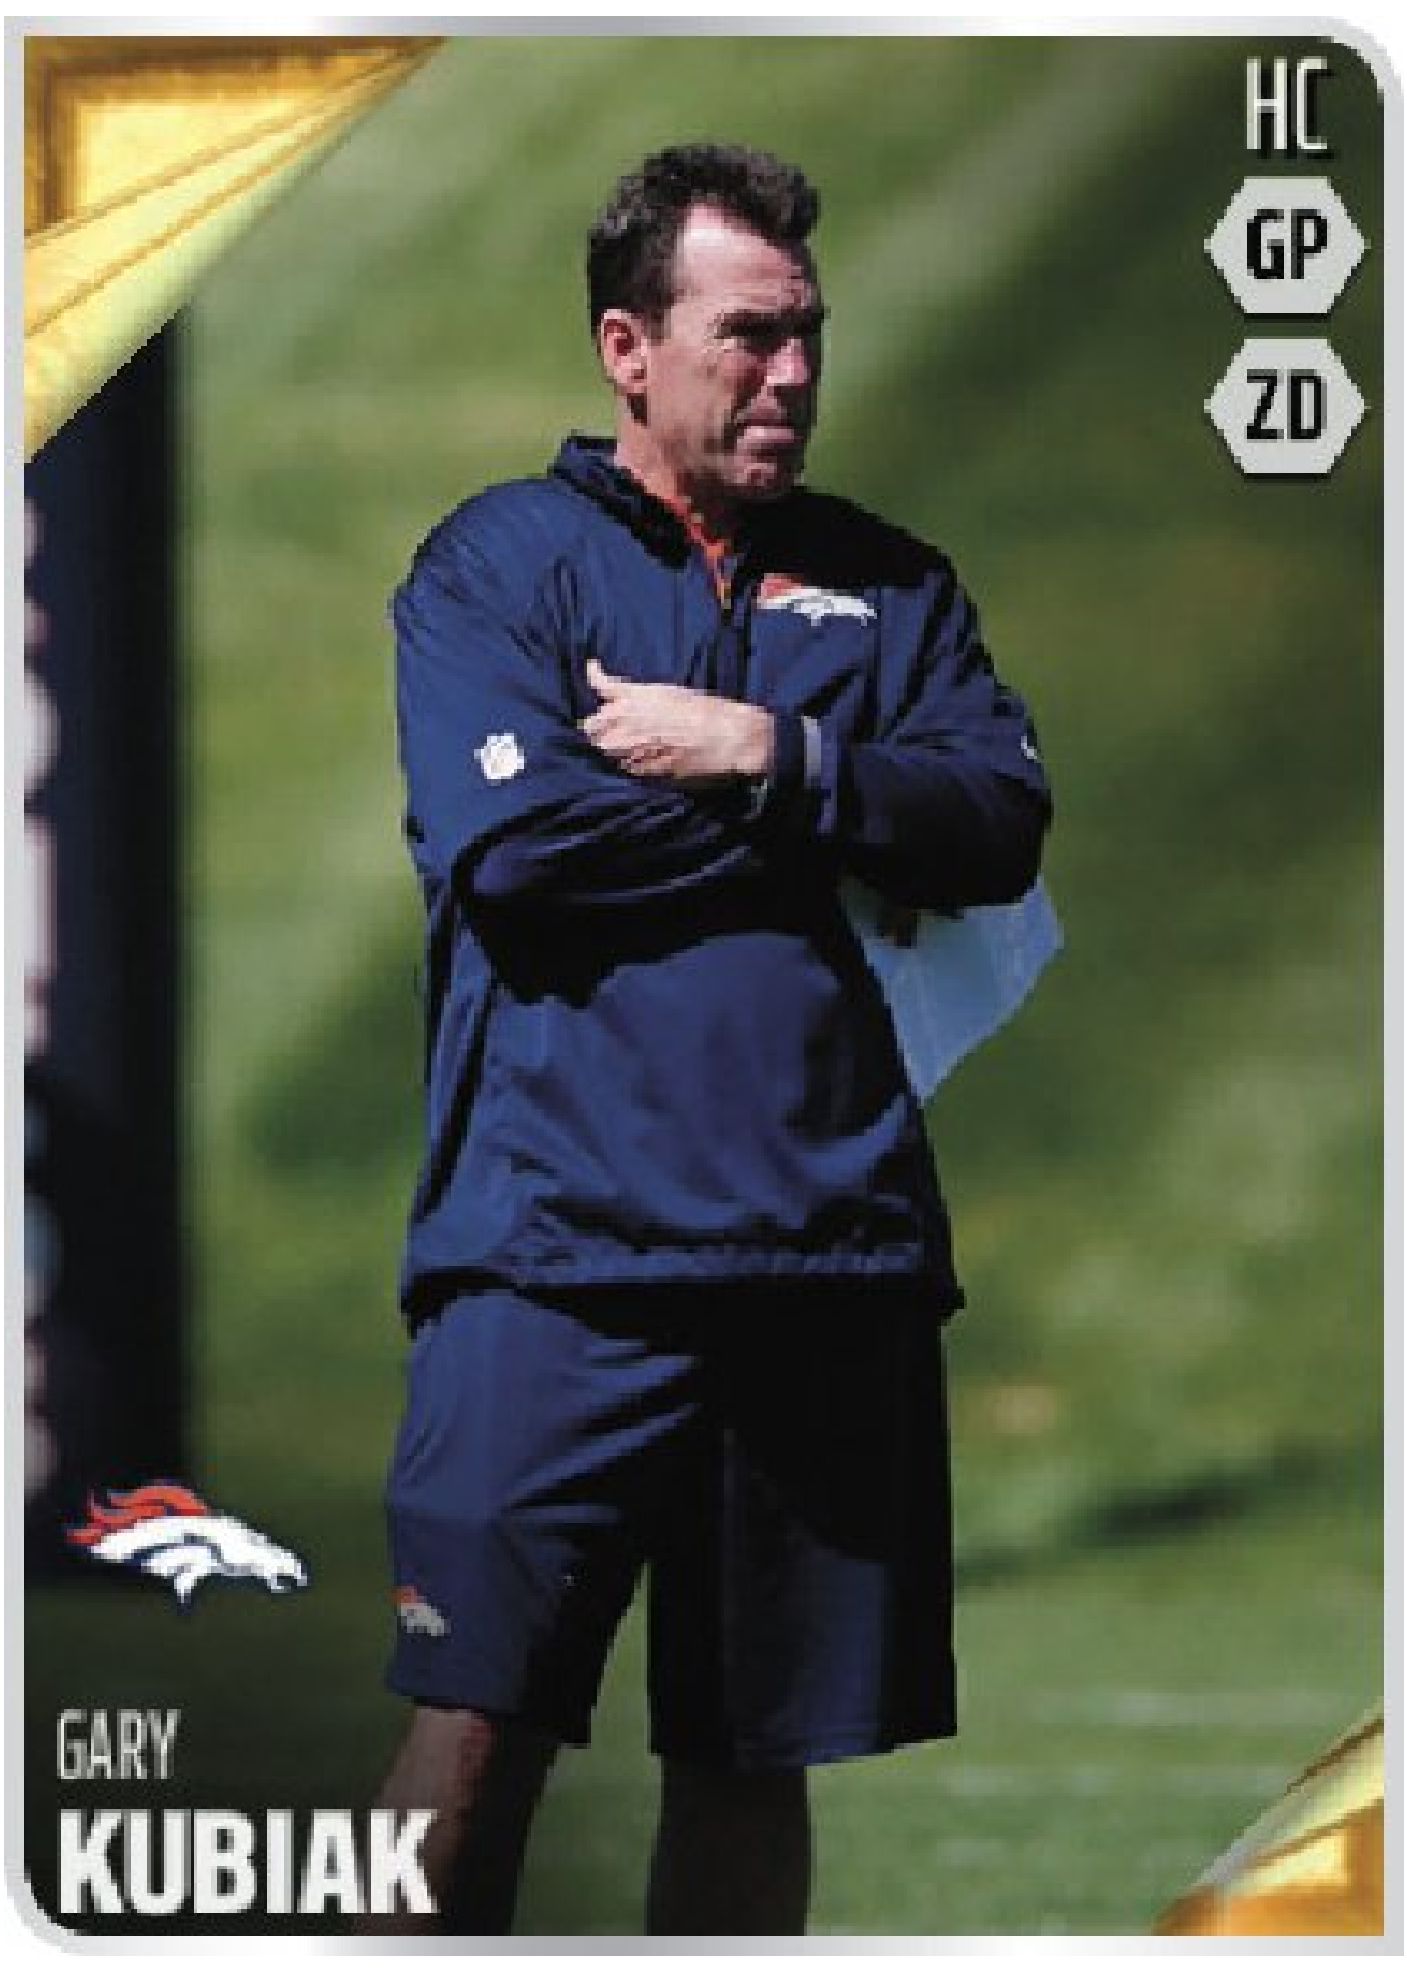
The Bills' playbook has always been built around solid defensive linemen and fast edge rushers. However, add more blitzes to your game plan with a new coach in town.

Key Formation

Look to the Nickel 2-4-5 Even as a formation where you will be able to get the most out of your lineup. The 3-3-5 Wide is also an option if you are more comfortable and want to shut down the edge rush.

Draft Champions Mode

Denver Broncos



Offense

The Denver offense has some unique formation names, with “dice” and “deuce” showing up, but don’t be fooled, because it is one of the best playbooks for passing downfield in Madden NFL 16.

Key Formation

Pistol Bunch TE forces the defense into a tough alignment against the offense and allows you to take any area they leave weak! Start out by targeting the flats early and often until they commit to slowing you down. Short passes not only set you up for later in the game, but one broken tackle can turn a short gain into a first down.

Key Player

WR with 90+ Route Running

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Z, Deuce, Deuce Pair Twins, Dice Slot, Y-Trips
- I-Form: Pro, Tight
- Strong: Close
- Pistol: Ace, Ace Twins, Bunch TE, Slot Wing, Y-Trips, Trips
- Gun: Deuce, Dice Slot, Dice Slot Wk, Y-Trips HB Wk, Bunch Wk, Snugs, Dice Y-Flex, Empty Trey, Empty Bronco

- WR (6’3”, RTE, SPC, ACC)
- TE (RTE, ACC, SPD)
- QB (THP, SAC, DAC)

PRO TIP

This playbook has multiple receiving options from every formation; however, any time you get one-on-one coverage, take a chance downfield if you have a good matchup.

Defense

The Broncos use a 3-4 defensive scheme in Madden NFL 16 and have great coverages that allow for CBs to play physical man coverage. This is a fairly rare style, but it can be a tough matchup for players who don’t face heavy man coverage.

Key Formation

The Nickel 2-4-5 Dbl A Gap formation is a little aggressive, but it lets you bring serious pressure on third down. If your opponents didn’t build heavily on the offensive line, they are in trouble!

Key Player

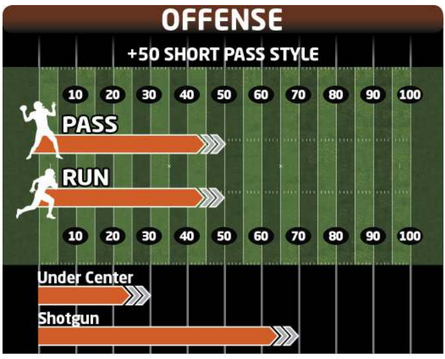
CB with 90+ Press

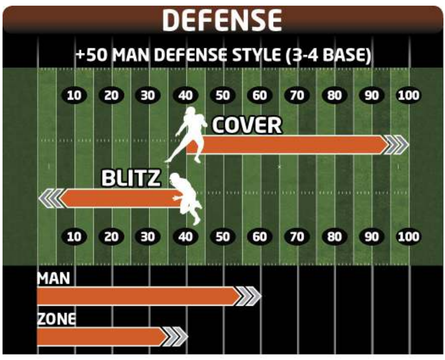
Formations

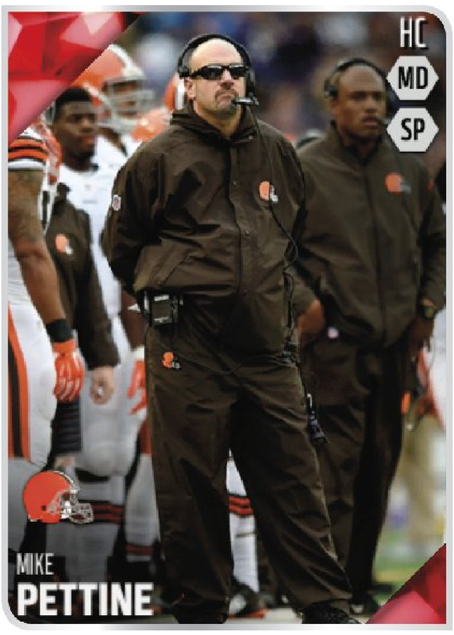
- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over, Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Cleveland Browns







Offense

The Browns have a pretty versatile offensive playbook with the ability to build schemes from under center, pistol, or shotgun. Your final scheme will vary heavily depending on what players you find in the draft.

Key Formation

Gun Split Close Browns is one of the best Formations in the game, especially for players who want to throw the ball. Look for a halfback who can catch out of the backfield and a big, safety-valve style tight end, who will really help make this formation tough to stop.

Key Player

QB with 88+ Short Accuracy

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Y-Trips
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close
- Weak: Pro, Pro Twins
- Pistol: Strong, Ace, Slot Wing
- Gun: Split Close Browns, Doubles, Wing Trio Browns, Trips TE, Bunch Offset, Tight Doubles On, Snugs Flip, Spread, Trey Open Offset, Empty Browns, Empty Y-Flex
- Wildcat: Trips Over

- WR (SPD, CTH, RTE)
- QB (PAC, SAC, ACC)
- LT (IPB, STR, PBK)

PRO TIP

Effective use of play action and new rollouts will make the Cleveland offensive playbook much more successful.

Defense

The Browns' defensive scheme is best with strong players built to stop the run on the defensive line. This means the pressure will come from the OLB positions, especially if the secondary can stick with their matchups for a bit after the snap.

Key Formation

Nickel 2-4-5 is a crucial formation to optimize. If you can stay in this most of the game, your opponent will be forced to make solid reads!

Key Player

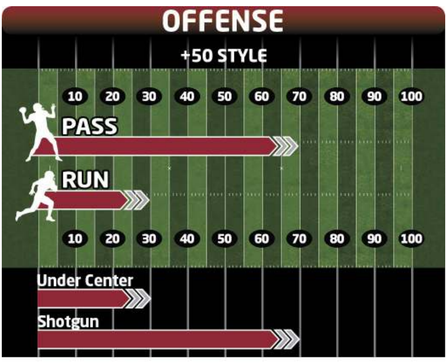
CB with 85+ Man Coverage

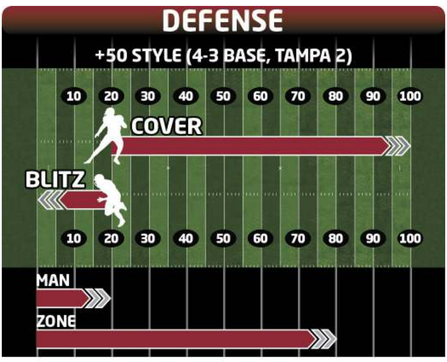
Formations

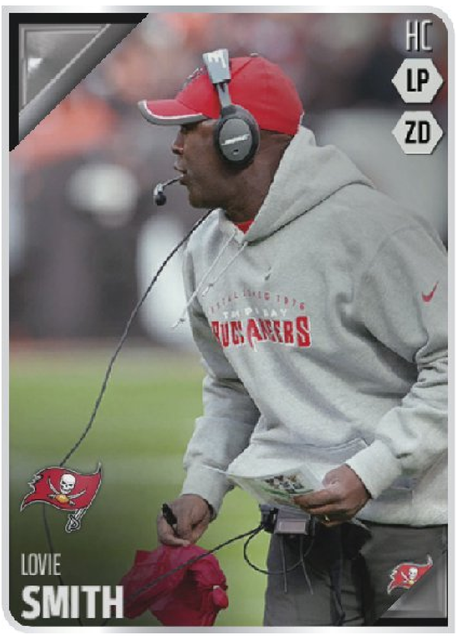
- 3-4: Odd, Predator, Over, Over Ed, Bear

Draft Champions Mode

Tampa Bay Buccaneers







Offense

If you select the Bucs' playbook, you will live and die by the big passing play downfield. If you feel comfortable with the new aggressive catch in Madden NFL 16, this playbook is perfect for you.

Key Formation

The trio alignment in Gun Trio Buc is very tough for defenses to line up against no matter what type of talent you end up drafting. If you get your big WR, make sure to take a shot deep with PA Shot Wheel!

Key Player

Finding a big WR in the draft can pay off. If your opponent didn't land an elite CB, they will be forced to double-team your receiver nearly all game.

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Y-Trips, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Twins Flex, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close
- Weak: Pro, Pro Twins

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- WR (6'3"+, CIT, SPC, RTE)
- QB (DAC, THP, MAC)
- WR (6'3"+, CIT, SPC, RLS)

PRO TIP

If you don't get a great offensive line, create more time in the pocket by blocking both of your backs in certain Formations.

Defense

Tampa has a nice mix of 4-3 Formations that can be used against a balanced offense. If they are run-heavy, get into the 46 Bear Under. If they are pass-heavy, the Big Dime can be a solid formation to get faster players on the field.

Key Formation

Big Dime 4-1-6 is a unique formation that should help slow down pass-heavy teams without sacrificing too much in the run game.

Key Player

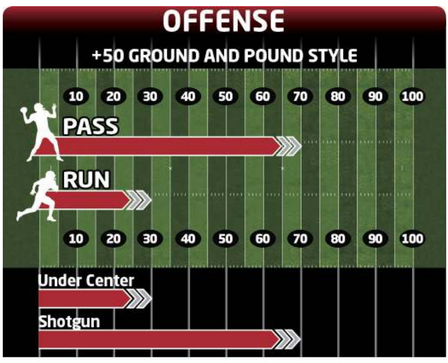
MLB with 80+ Zone Coverage

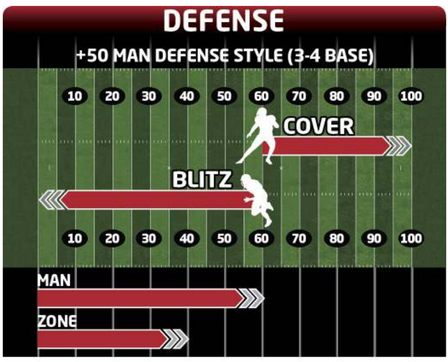
Formations

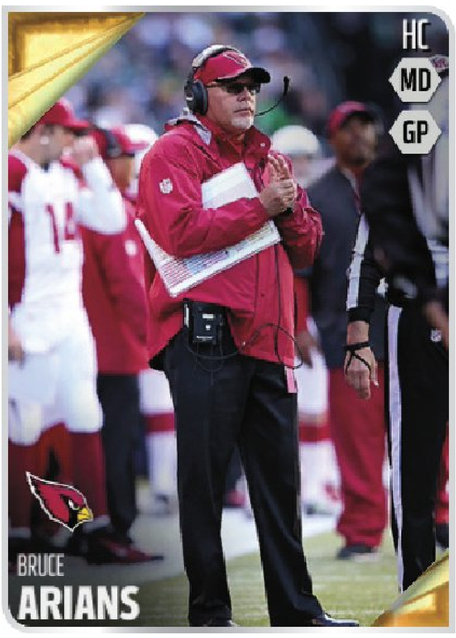
- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide
- 46: Bear Under

Draft Champions Mode

Arizona Cardinals







Offense

The Arizona Cardinals' offense is loaded with big passing plays for players who like to attack downfield. While this isn't the style for everyone, a confident passer can really tear up defenses that don't build up their secondary. Consider drafting some linemen, too, to allow your QB the time he needs in the pocket.

Key Formation

Gun Flip Trips is an excellent formation with every concept needed for a successful attack. Use the plays with built-in auto-motion to switch between attacking the corner and over the middle. Your opponent won't be able to tell what is coming next!

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- QB (THP, DAC, MAC)
- LT (STR, PBK, RBK)
- WR (6'3"+ SPC, CIT)

PRO TIP

If you don't land a big-time WR in the draft, use a tight end! They have similar size and should be able to go up for the new "high-point" throws with aggressive catch.

Defense

The strength of the Cardinals' defensive playbook is the LB corps. Since you can have up to five on the field at any time, you can never go wrong selecting just one more! Grab a big DT if available, but otherwise try to stack your LBs.

Key Formation

The Nickel 2-4-5 Prowl will provide the blitzing firepower and confusion you need to get your opponent off the field on third down. It is best with man coverage, so look for good Speed and Man Coverage ratings in your back seven.

Formations

- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over, Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Key Formation

Gun Trips Y-Flex Tight formation will consistently be a tough matchup for man coverage due to the tight alignment. A TE who can run crisp routes will deliver first downs all game long.

Key Player

If a second tight end catches your eye during the draft, don't hesitate to select him, because you can always find a spot in the lineup for him.

Defense

The Chargers have a solid 3-4 playbook that requires good strength from the defensive line with fast finesse rushers at outside linebacker.

Key Formation

Big Dime 2-3-6 Will positions your secondary players in unique spots and hopefully will confuse the offense. Don't sleep on a solid FS/SS combo!

Key Player

- QB (SAC, PAC, MAC)

PRO TIP

Aim for an all-around TE if one becomes available; you can always play him at WR if you need to air it out.

Defense

The KC defensive playbook is another 3-4 base, so having a solid corps of LBs can't really hurt you. While picking strong defensive linemen isn't the fanciest move, they will really help stop the run!

Key Formation

Nickel 2-4-5 Dbl A Gap puts tremendous pressure on the offensive line of your opponent. Send blitzes early and often!

Key Player

OLB with 85+ Block Shedding

Formations

Draft Champions Mode

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- QB (DAC, SPD, THP)

- TE (CIT, RBK, SPD)

PRO TIP

If you build a dominant lineup for the power run game, try the I-Form Tackle Over until your opponents prove they can stop it!

Defense

The Colts' defensive book is set up for quick finesse rushers to attack off the edge. This can leave them vulnerable to the run on early downs but really makes a lead valuable.

Key Formation

The Nickel 2-4-5 is your most balanced formation, and it can be crucial if an opponent is looking to scramble or run off the edge. Bring a safety down by calling "show blitz" if an opponent starts to run at your weakest OLB.

Key Player

MLB with 85+ Zone Coverage

Formations

Draft Champions Mode

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- TE (RBK, CIT, RTE)
- QB (SAC, PAC, ACC)
- HB (TRK, AGI, SPD)

PRO TIP

The Dolphins' playbook is another that only improves with the presence of a mobile QB. You don't need a speedster, but the ability to pick up a first down when scrambling on third and 5 is important.

Defense

The Dolphins have all of the traditional defensive Formations of a 4-3 playbook, so generating pressure without using too many exotic blitzes will be important. If you play an opponent with a spread passing game who loaded up on receivers, use the Dollar 3-2-6.

Key Formation

The 46 Bear Under provides a unique look to most defenses and can shut down the inside run if the 4-3 Wide 9 isn't getting it done!

Key Player

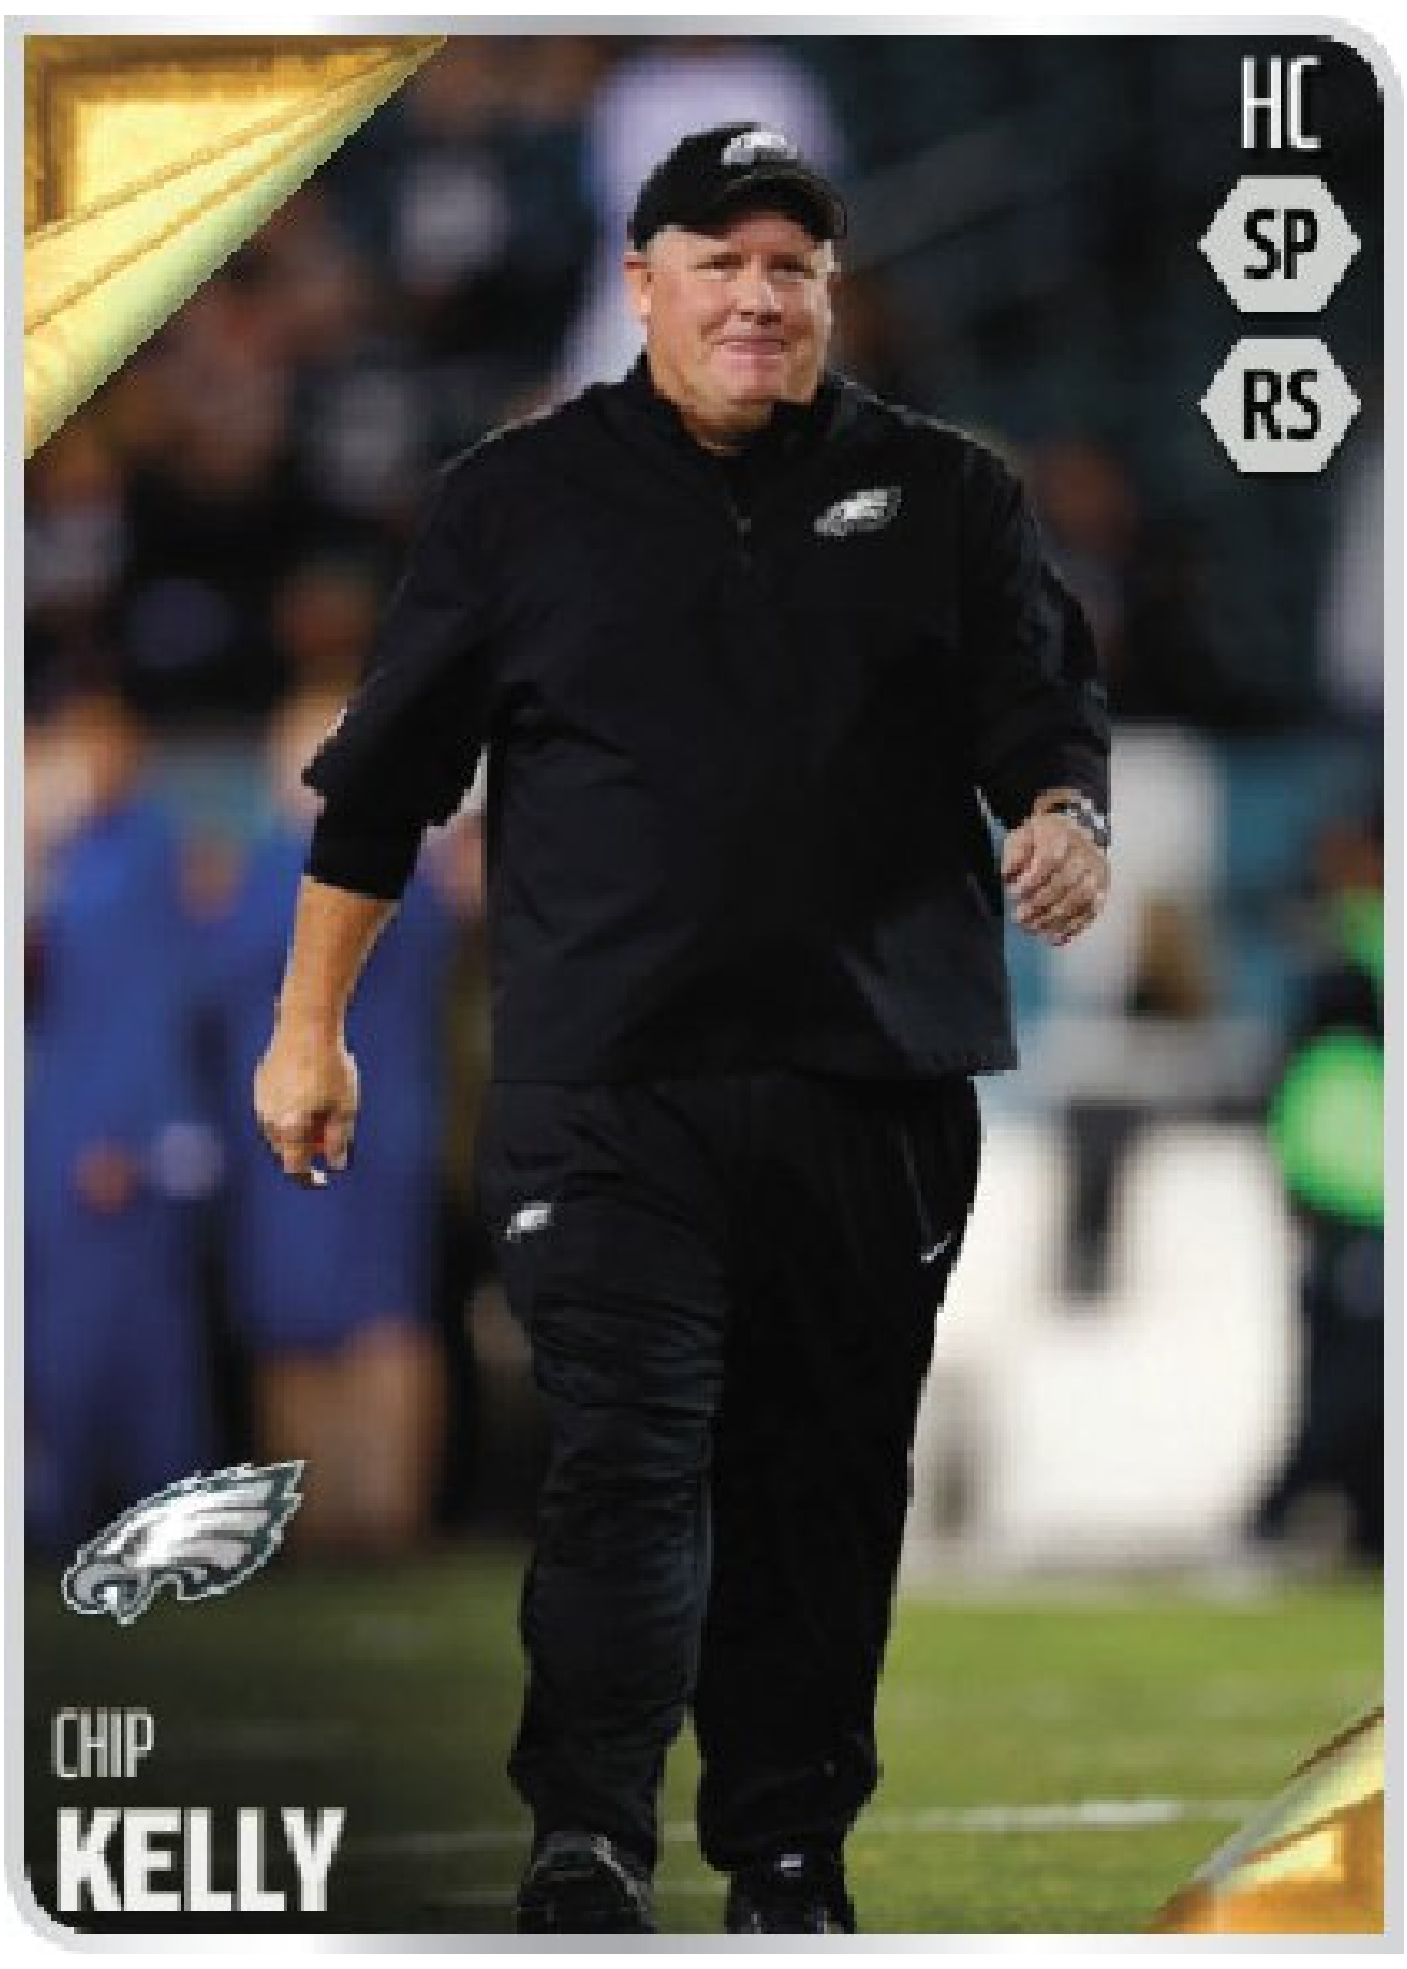
DT with 90+ PMV

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 46: Bear Under

Draft Champions Mode

Philadelphia Eagles



Offense

The Eagles' offensive playbook is a unique one in Madden NFL 16 and contains far and away the most shotgun Formations. You must be comfortable passing and running from shotgun to have optimal success.

Key Player

HB with 80+ Catch

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Wing Trips Open
- Weak: Pro
- Pistol: Doubles

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (CTH, AGI, ELU)

- WR (6'3", SPD, SPC)

PRO TIP

You don't need much throw power or speed at QB, but it doesn't hurt if the right player shows up!

Defense

The Eagles have a solid 3-4 defensive playbook and also rely on multiple LBs moving around to create confusion.

Key Formation

The 3-4 Predator allows an LB to rush from the DE position and hopefully outmaneuver a slower tackle with acceleration or finesse. Don't use this set on a running down, because this player won't be your strongest option.

Key Player

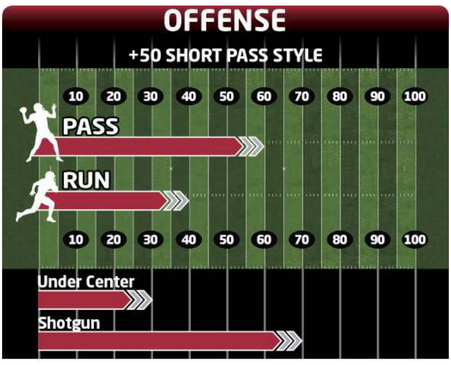
OLB with 87+ FMV

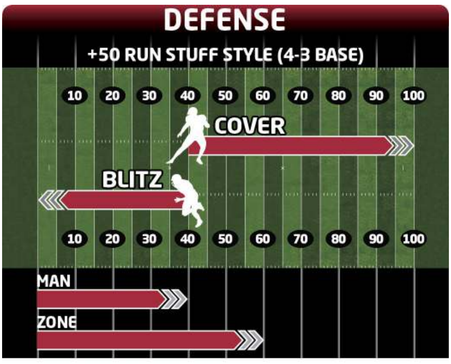
Formations

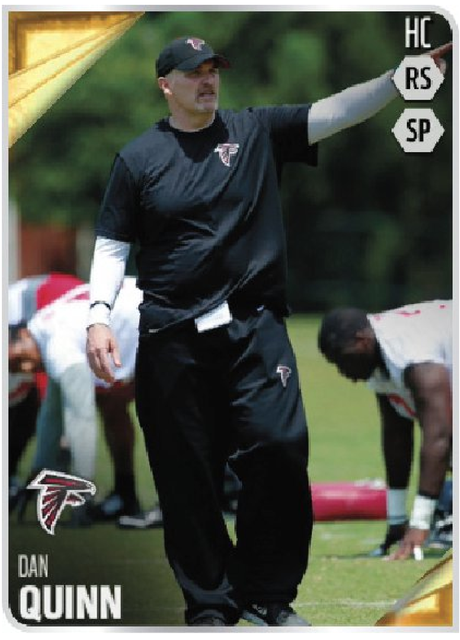
- 3-4: Odd, Predator, Over, Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Atlanta Falcons







Offense

The Atlanta Falcons playbook is excellent for players who want to air the ball out! While it requires an elite WR and solid offensive line, you can certainly win some shootouts with this playbook.

Defense

The Falcons have really expanded their defensive schemes to allow for multiple DEs/LBs to rush and drop into coverage at different times.

Key Formation

Nickel 2-4-5 is a perfect point to build from for this playbook. If you end up slightly off either way, you will still have plenty of options!

Key Player

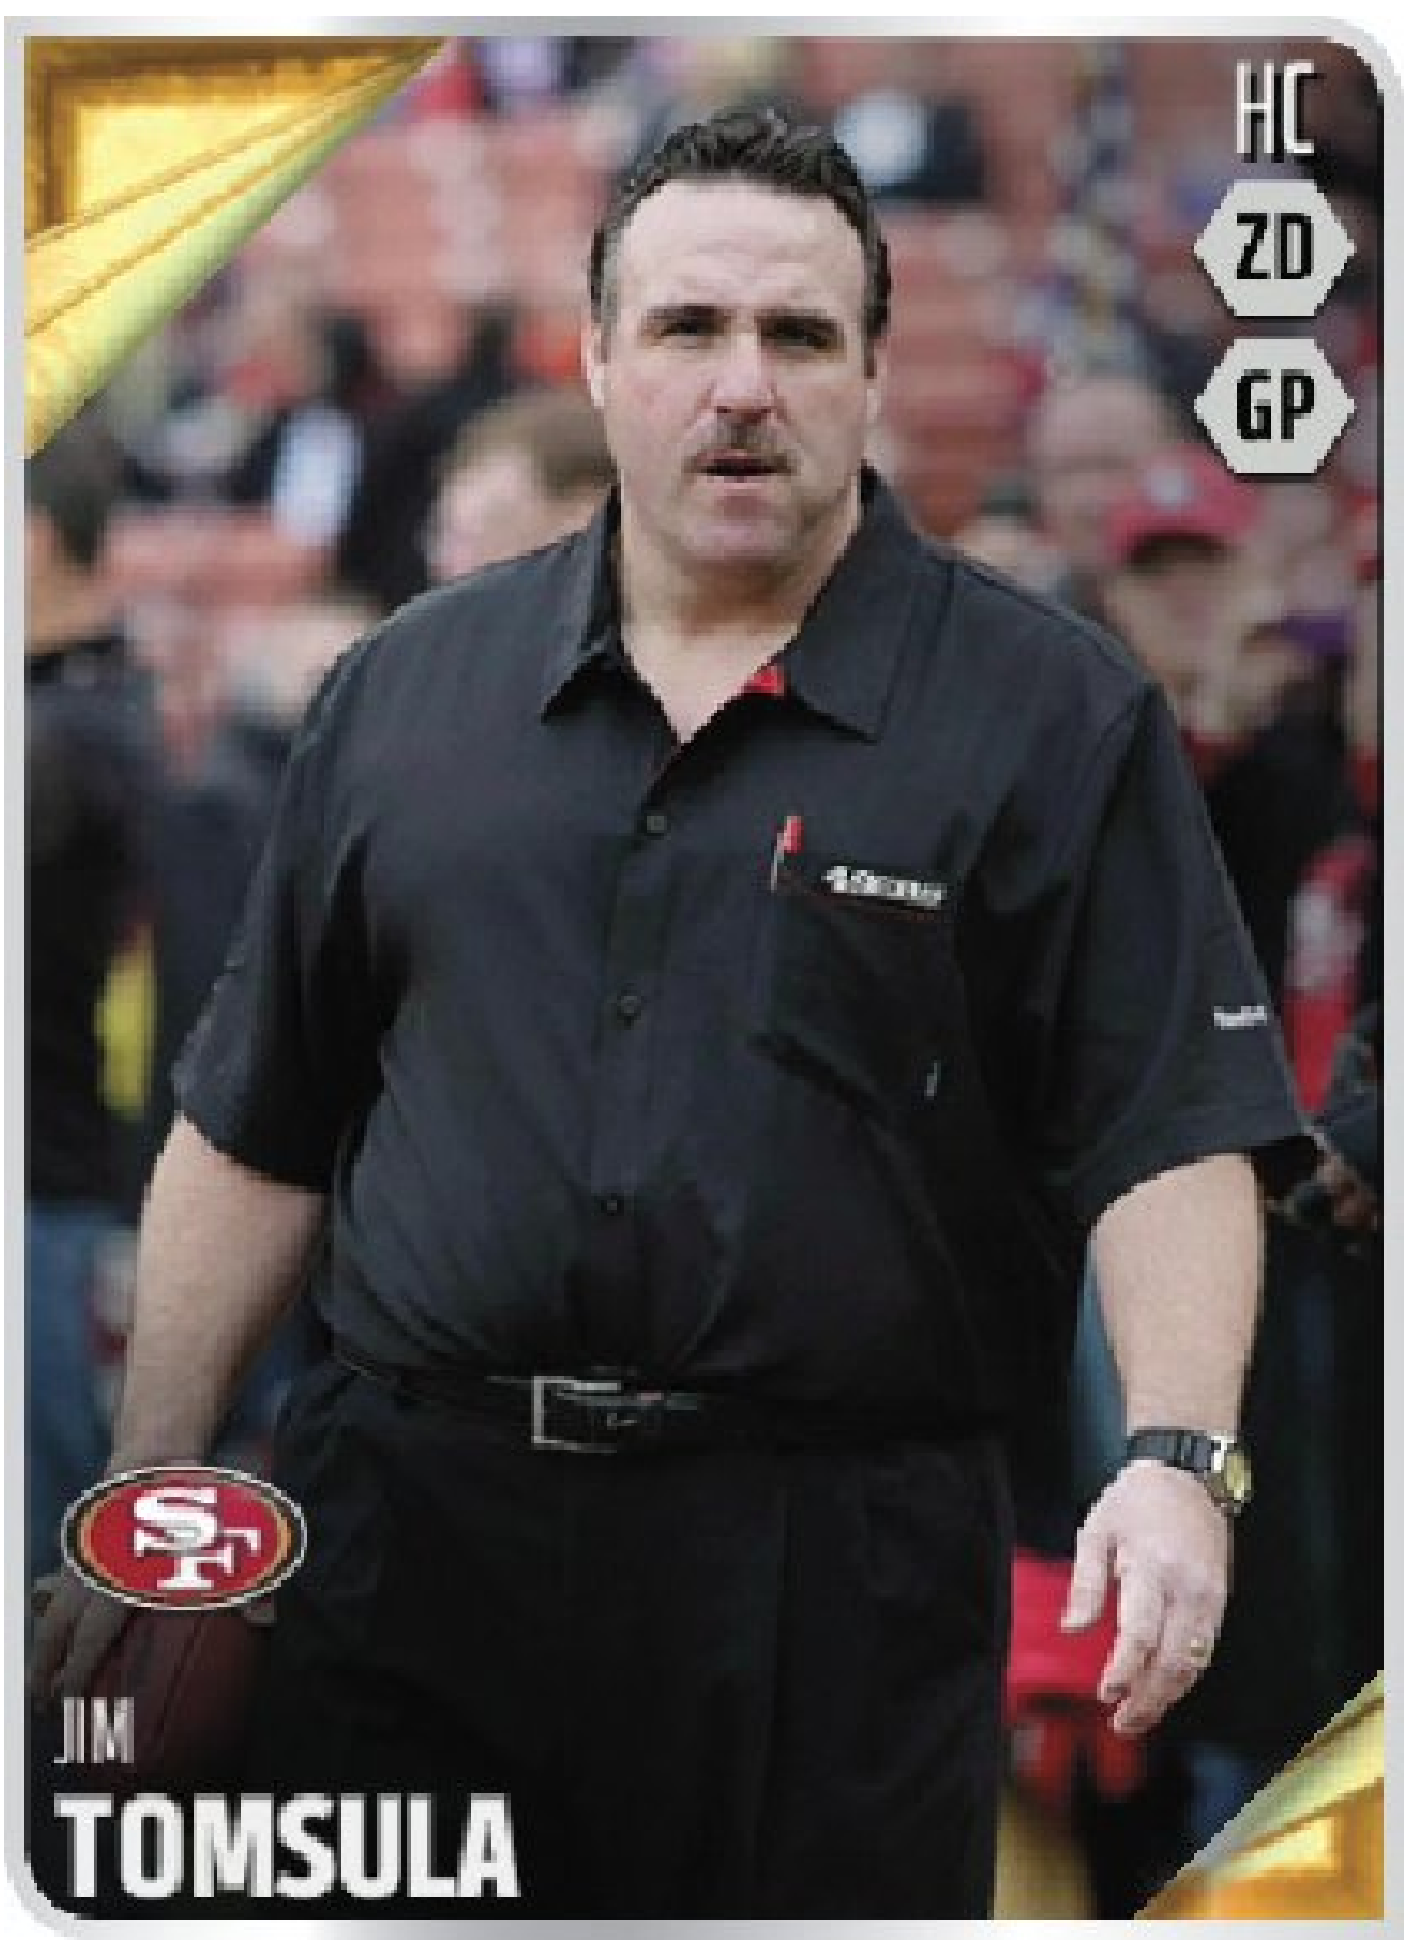
DE with 75+ Zone Coverage

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 46: Bear Under

Draft Champions Mode

San Francisco 49ers



Offense

The 49ers' playbook is mainly best for players who want a power rushing attack. However, players who enjoy using a mobile QB and the shotgun running game can still find success if they can strike the right balance.

Key Formation

Pistol Full House TE is the best example of what this playbook has to offer. A solid power rushing attack with easy throws if the defense gets greedy.

Key Player

HB with 90+ Trucking.

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Z, Ace, Ace Close, Ace Pair Flex, Doubles, Y-Trips, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Tight Pair

- QB (SPD, THP, SAC)
- TE (SPD, ACC, RTE)

PRO TIP

Picking up a mobile QB for this scheme is important if you want to run the ball from pistol or shotgun.

Defense

The 49ers' defense is best when constructed with two different linebacker types. Look for two balanced defenders at the MLB position with a strong OLB on one side and a quicker pass rusher on the other! One of your MLBs and your pass-rushing OLB will be on the field nearly every down, so go elite.

Key Formation

The 3-4 Odd is a great starting formation to see if your opponent can beat your zone coverage with passing, and it doesn't give up too much in the run game.

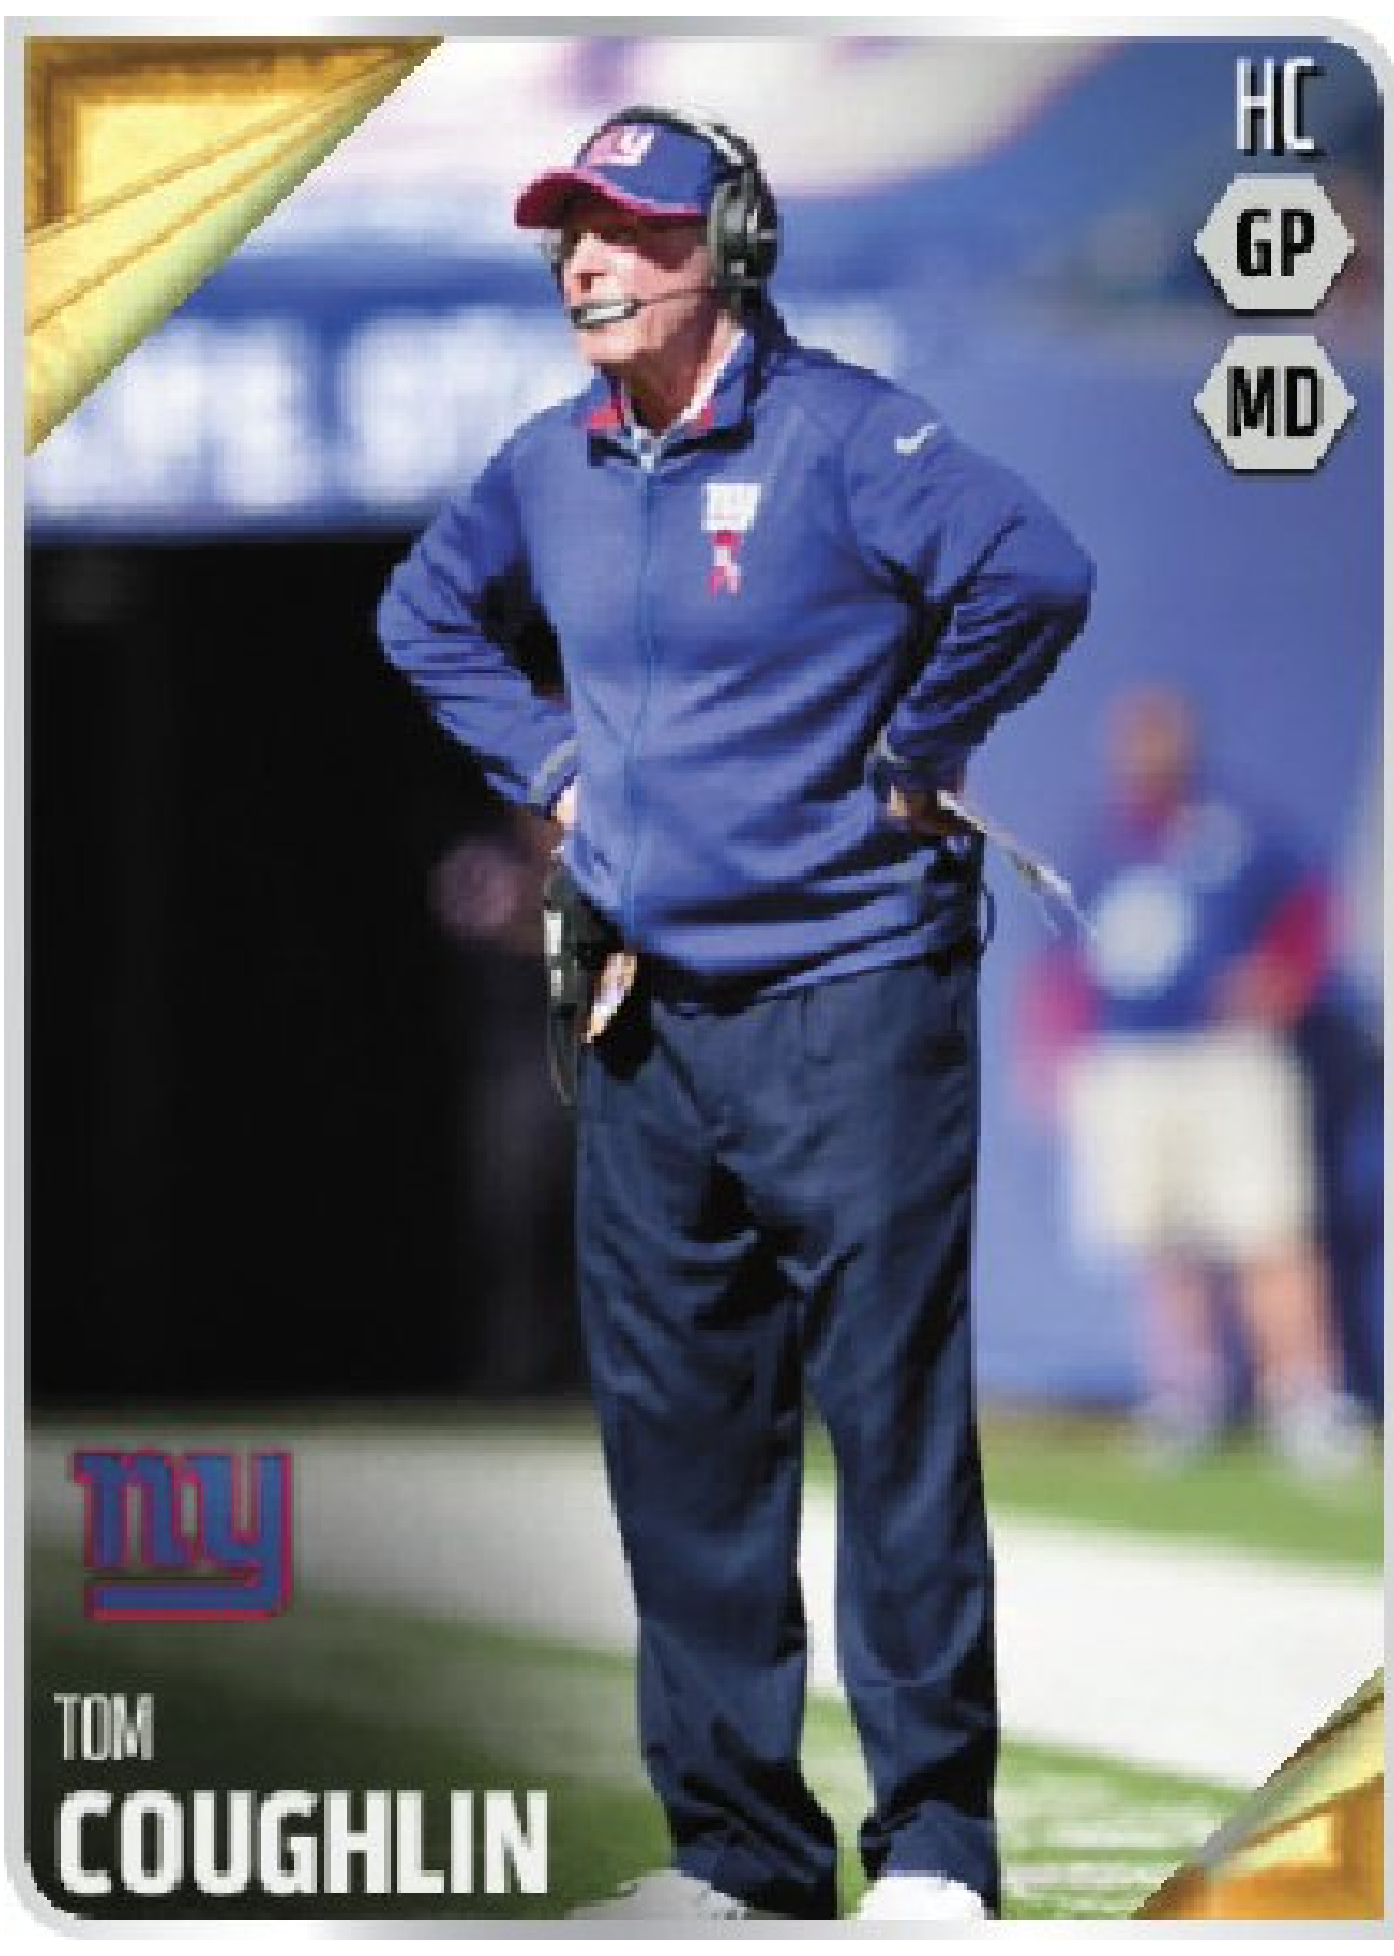
Key Player

OLB with 85+ Acceleration

Formations

Draft Champions Mode

New York Giants



Offense

The Giants' playbook has been completely overhauled in Madden NFL 16 and is perfect for players who like to utilize quick throws and the tight end position.

Defense

The Giants' defensive playbook is a solid 4-3 that relies on the ability of multiple pass rushers as the bread and butter.

Key Formation

Nickel NASCAR allows you to get DTs out of the game and DEs into unique spots along the line. Look for speed/size mismatches at the guard spot and get your best pass rusher in there!

Key Player

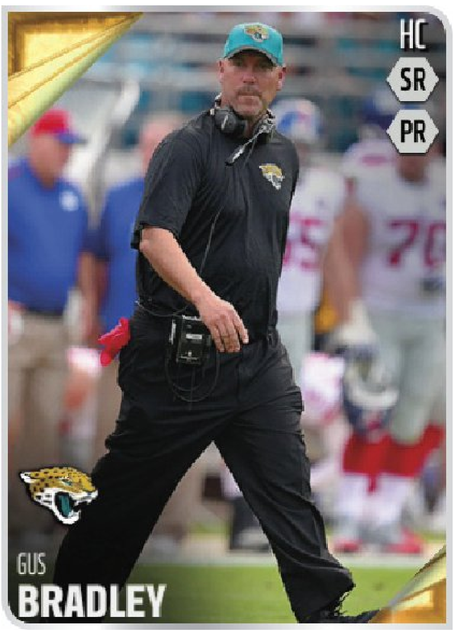
DE with 90+ FMV

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 5-2: Normal

Draft Champions Mode

Jacksonville Jaguars



Offense

The Jaguars' offensive playbook has some very solid shotgun Formations, which don't require a ton of great pass-blocking up front. Hit your quick passes to HBs and TEs before going deep, or your QB could be in trouble.

Key Formation

Gun Bunch Quads is one of the most distinctive Formations in the game and should crush zone defense. If you master multiple concepts, you can stay in this formation for a good chunk of the game against defenses deficient against the pass.

Key Player

HB/WR with 90+ Agility

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Z, Ace, Ace Twins, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro
- Weak: Pro Twins
- Pistol: Weak, Ace, Slot Wing

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- WR (ACC, AGI, CTH)
- TE (RBK, CIT, STR)
- QB (SAC, MAC, PAC)

PRO TIP

The Jaguars' playbook has plenty of ways to get the ball to an athletic player in space. Master the RAC move to become a master of this scheme.

Defense

The Jaguars' playbook is built around a 4-3 defensive scheme. They don't have tons of flash in their plays, but if you can get a good pass rusher at either DE or OLB, he won't go to waste.

Key Formation

The 46 Normal is a great way to shut the run game down early. It's a nice perk of the Jaguars' defensive book. If your opponent completes some passes, drop down to the Dollar 3-2-6.

Key Player

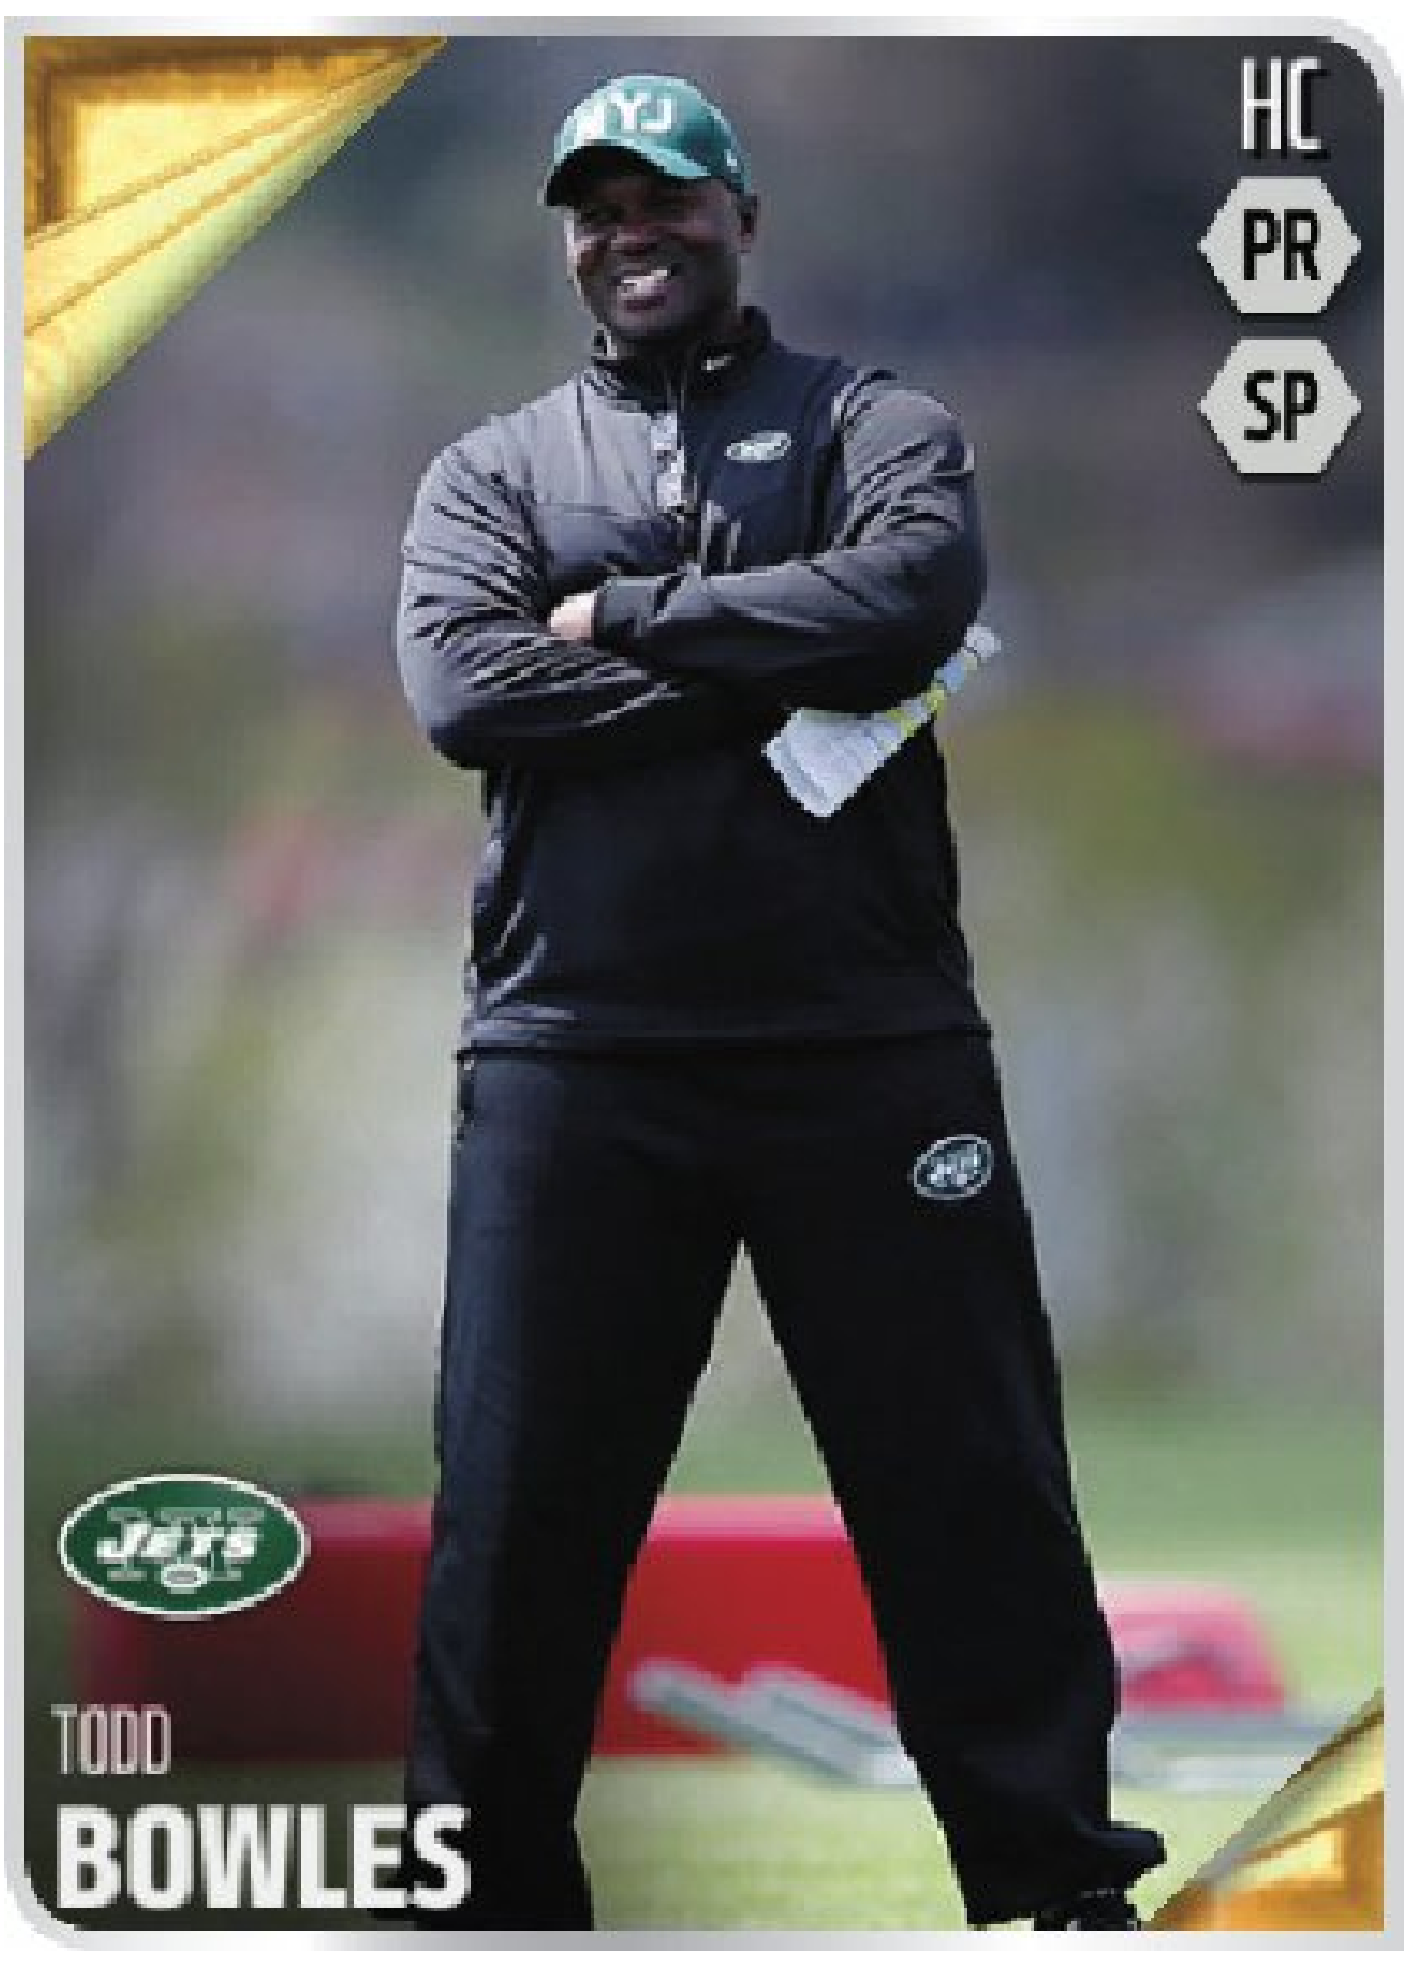
DT with 85+ Block Shedding

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 46: Normal

Draft Champions Mode

New York Jets



Offense

The Jets' offense won't have you winning shootouts, but it works well in combination with their aggressive defense. If you can grab a lead, it will put too much pressure on your opponent. The offensive line is an underrated area in Draft Champions. Not many players love selecting the big guys up front — until they get into a game and control the line of scrimmage, resulting in a win.

Key Formation

Singleback Wing Trips is just one example of the Jets' new spread-style offensive playbook. Approach it as a run-first set before looking to the quick pass.

Key Player

HB with 90+ Trucking

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Ace Pair Twins, Bunch Ace, Doubles, Y-Trips, Wing Trips
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight
- Strong: Pro, Twins Flex, Tight Pair
- Pistol: Strong Slot, Slot, Wing Trips
- Gun: Split Jet, Doubles, Y-Trips Offset, Bunch Wk, Snugs, Spread Y-Slot, Y-Trips Open, Trips Y-Flex Tight, Trips Open Left, Trey Open, Empty Jet, Empty Spread, Bunch Quads

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- C (STR, RBK, IPB)
- LG (STR, PBK, RBK)
- LT (STR, PBK, RBK)

PRO TIP

Although you may expect to see power run sets, it is a fairly spread-heavy playbook.

Defense

The Jets have one of the most aggressive blitzing playbooks in all of Madden NFL 16. Take advantage of these plays on third and long to generate sacks and even some turnovers!

Key Formation

Rely on the 3-4 Solid early in games to shut down the run. Be sure to pass-commit if you think your opponent is going to call play action, and try a play like Trio Sky Zone.

Key Player

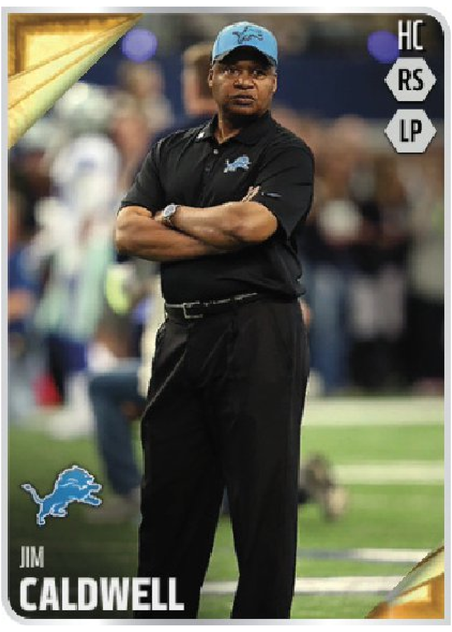
CB with 90+ Man Coverage

Formations

- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over, Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Detroit Lions



Offense

The Lions' offensive playbook is built around the passing game and is one of the best to take advantage of the all-new catching in Madden NFL 16! Although the playbook requires a big WR and a strong-armed QB, any opponent who didn't get an elite pass-rushing or cover CB will be out-matched.

Key Formation

Gun Split Lion is a great early test for your opponent. Isolate your best WR on the outside and see if you have a favorable matchup. You can always check down to your HBs or keep them in to block if you notice an elite defensive pass rusher.

Key Player

6'4"+ WR with 90+ Spectacular Catch

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Flex, Doubles, Y-Trips Lion
- I-Form: Pro, Twins Flex, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close
- weak: Pro
- Pistol: Strong, Ace, Slot Flex Lion, Y-Trips
- Gun: Split Lion, Ace Twins, Doubles, Y-Trips Wk, Snugs Flip, Spread Y-Flex, Trey Open Lion, Empty Lion, Empty Trey

- WR (SPD, CIT, SPC)
- QB (THP, DAC, MAC)
- WR/TE (SPD, RTE, CIT)

PRO TIP

A smaller WR with great route running (RAC!) can shift this book to more of a short-passing one that occasionally takes big shots downfield.

Defense

The Lions' defensive playbook is built around getting a solid pass rush from the defensive line. This allows gold-level LBs to stay unblocked and to make plays. Since nearly all the Formations use four defensive linemen, you can't afford to come up short here, but the composition isn't a huge deal.

Key Formation

The 5-2 formation can really lock down the run, even if your opponent went heavy on the offensive line in the draft.

Key Player

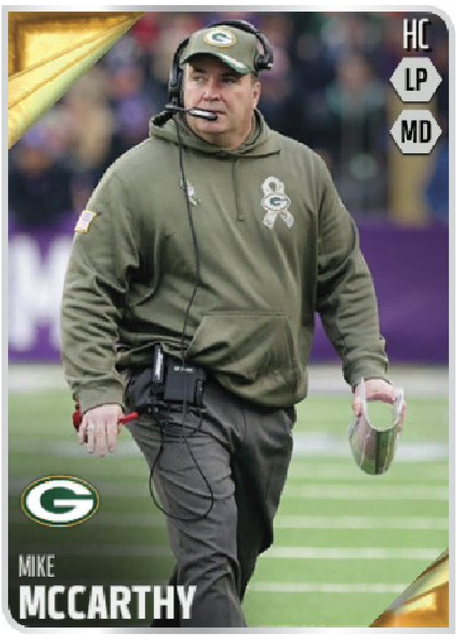
DT with 85+ Power Moves

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 5-2: Normal
- Nickel: Normal, Double A Gap, Wide 9

Draft Champions Mode

Green Bay Packers



Offense

The Packers' offensive playbook favors the passing game, but the right power back can really find some nice holes from the shotgun sets. Don't draft two big WRs unless an amazing opportunity appears; instead look for one that can be elusive across the middle and run after the catch (RAC).

Key Formation

Gun Doubles Flex Wing is an excellent formation that provides not only a running threat but the ability to block for a deep attempt downfield.

Key Player

QB with 93+ Throw Power and 85+ Medium Accuracy

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Twins, Ace Pair, Doubles Pack, Tight Flex, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Slot Flex, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close
- Weak: Slot
- full house: Wide
- Pistol: Slot Flex Packer, Y-Trips
- Gun: Doubles On, Doubles Flex Wing, Y-Trips Wk, Wing Offset Wk, Bunch Wk, Normal Y-Flex Tight, Double Flex, Trips Y Iso, Pack Trips, Empty Trey, Flex Trey

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- QB (THP, SAC, DAC)
- WR (RLS, RTE, SPD)
- HB (TRK, SPD, CTH)

PRO TIP

The ability to control the pass type is huge in Madden NFL 16, and the Packers' book will really benefit from an accurate QB.

Defense

The Packers run a 3-4 style playbook with strong defenders up front. These players generally come off the field on rushing downs, so don't invest too much unless an elite DT is there who can be an every-down player. Selecting LBs doesn't really hurt you, as you can stack five on the field in most situations, as long as they are versatile.

Key Formation

The Big Dime 2-3-6 is an excellent formation for passing downs and will really punish an opponent who didn't invest in an offensive line. Make sure to grab an extra CB or safety to maximize your effectiveness.

Key Player

OLB with 85+ PMV

Formations

Draft Champions Mode

Carolina Panthers

Offense

The Carolina Panthers have not only one of the most fun playbooks in Madden NFL 16, but also one of the most effective in the hands of a skilled player who enjoys running the ball.

Key Formation

Pistol Full Panther: This formation can utilize all the talent you are targeting and really foil opponents who don't bolster their front seven during the draft.

Key Player

A mobile QB is essential to getting the most out of this offensive playbook. However, you also want some depth at HB, which is tough with only 15 rounds!

Formations

- I-Form: Pro, Tight Pair
- Strong: H Pro, H Twins
- Weak: Pro Twins

- Wildcat: Slot Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- QB (SPD, PAC, THP)
- HB (CTH, ACC, SPD)
- FB (TRK, RBK, IPB)

PRO TIP

This is one of the few playbooks where drafting a fullback might pay off big. If your opponent doesn't invest in the defensive line, you may be able to run all game.

Defense

This is a very solid 4-3 defensive book with some pretty standard coverages that can be tough to beat! Unless your opponent drafted multiple WRs, you should be able to play 4-3 man-to-man coverage and feel pretty confident in many situations early in the game.

Key Formation

Nickel 2-4-5 Dbl A Gap is a great way to bring pressure if you aren't feeling a more passive coverage set like 4-3 Wide 9.

Key Player

Drafting a stud MLB and allowing the CPU to let him make plays is very important with this playbook. For players who don't fear user-controlling a safety or who would rather control a defensive end, this is a great move.

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 5-2: Normal
- Nickel: Normal, Double A Gap, 4 D Ends

Draft Champions Mode

Defense

The Patriots' playbook is one of the most versatile in the entire game and features both 3-4 and 4-3. Drafting a strong OLB is crucial to the Patriots' success on defense! This player needs to be a hybrid rusher who can stand up in the 3-4 or drop down on early downs and hold up at end in the 4-3.

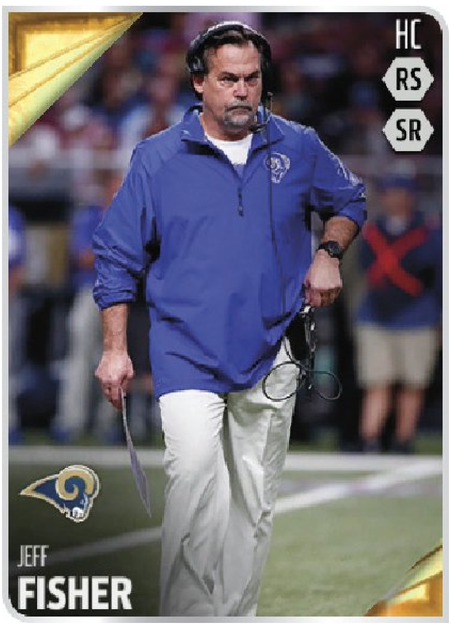
OLB with 85+ Strength

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Under Odd, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- Nickel: Normal, Double A Gap, 4 D Ends

Draft Champions Mode

St. Louis Rams



Offense

The Rams have a nicely balanced offensive playbook that allows a power running back to really take over games. They also have a few Formations and plays that allow a quick WR to get the ball in space and hopefully make some defenders miss.

Key Formation

Gun Tight Offset TE is a great formation that allows you to take advantage of a big or fast player at tight end who will be a matchup nightmare for the defense. Use the HB Counter, HB Slip Screen, and 0 1 Trap to turn it into a great base formation.

Key Player

TE with 83+ Speed

Formations

- Singleback: Ace, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Bunch
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Twins Flex, Twins Over, Y-Flex, Tight Pair
- Weak: Pro, Close, Tight Twins
- Pistol: Wing Trio
- Gun: Split Ram, Doubles Offset Wk, Y-Trips Offset, Wings Trips Wk, Bunch Wk, Tight Offset TE, Normal Y-Flex Tight, Split Ram, Trey Open Offset, Empty Base

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (TRK, SPD, CTH)
- WR (SPD, AGI, ACC)
- QB (PAC, DAC, THP)

PRO TIP

You can get away with nearly any type of QB in this offense, but when in doubt, look for high Play Action and Deep Accuracy ratings.

Defense

The Rams' defensive playbook is built around their defensive ends. While you may worry about drafting four DEs and leaving weaknesses elsewhere, remember that you can also use DTs and OLBs who are solid pass rushers in your scheme.

Key Formation

Nickel 4 D Ends is a great formation on passing downs if you can stop the run early and get your opponent into a third and long!

Key Player

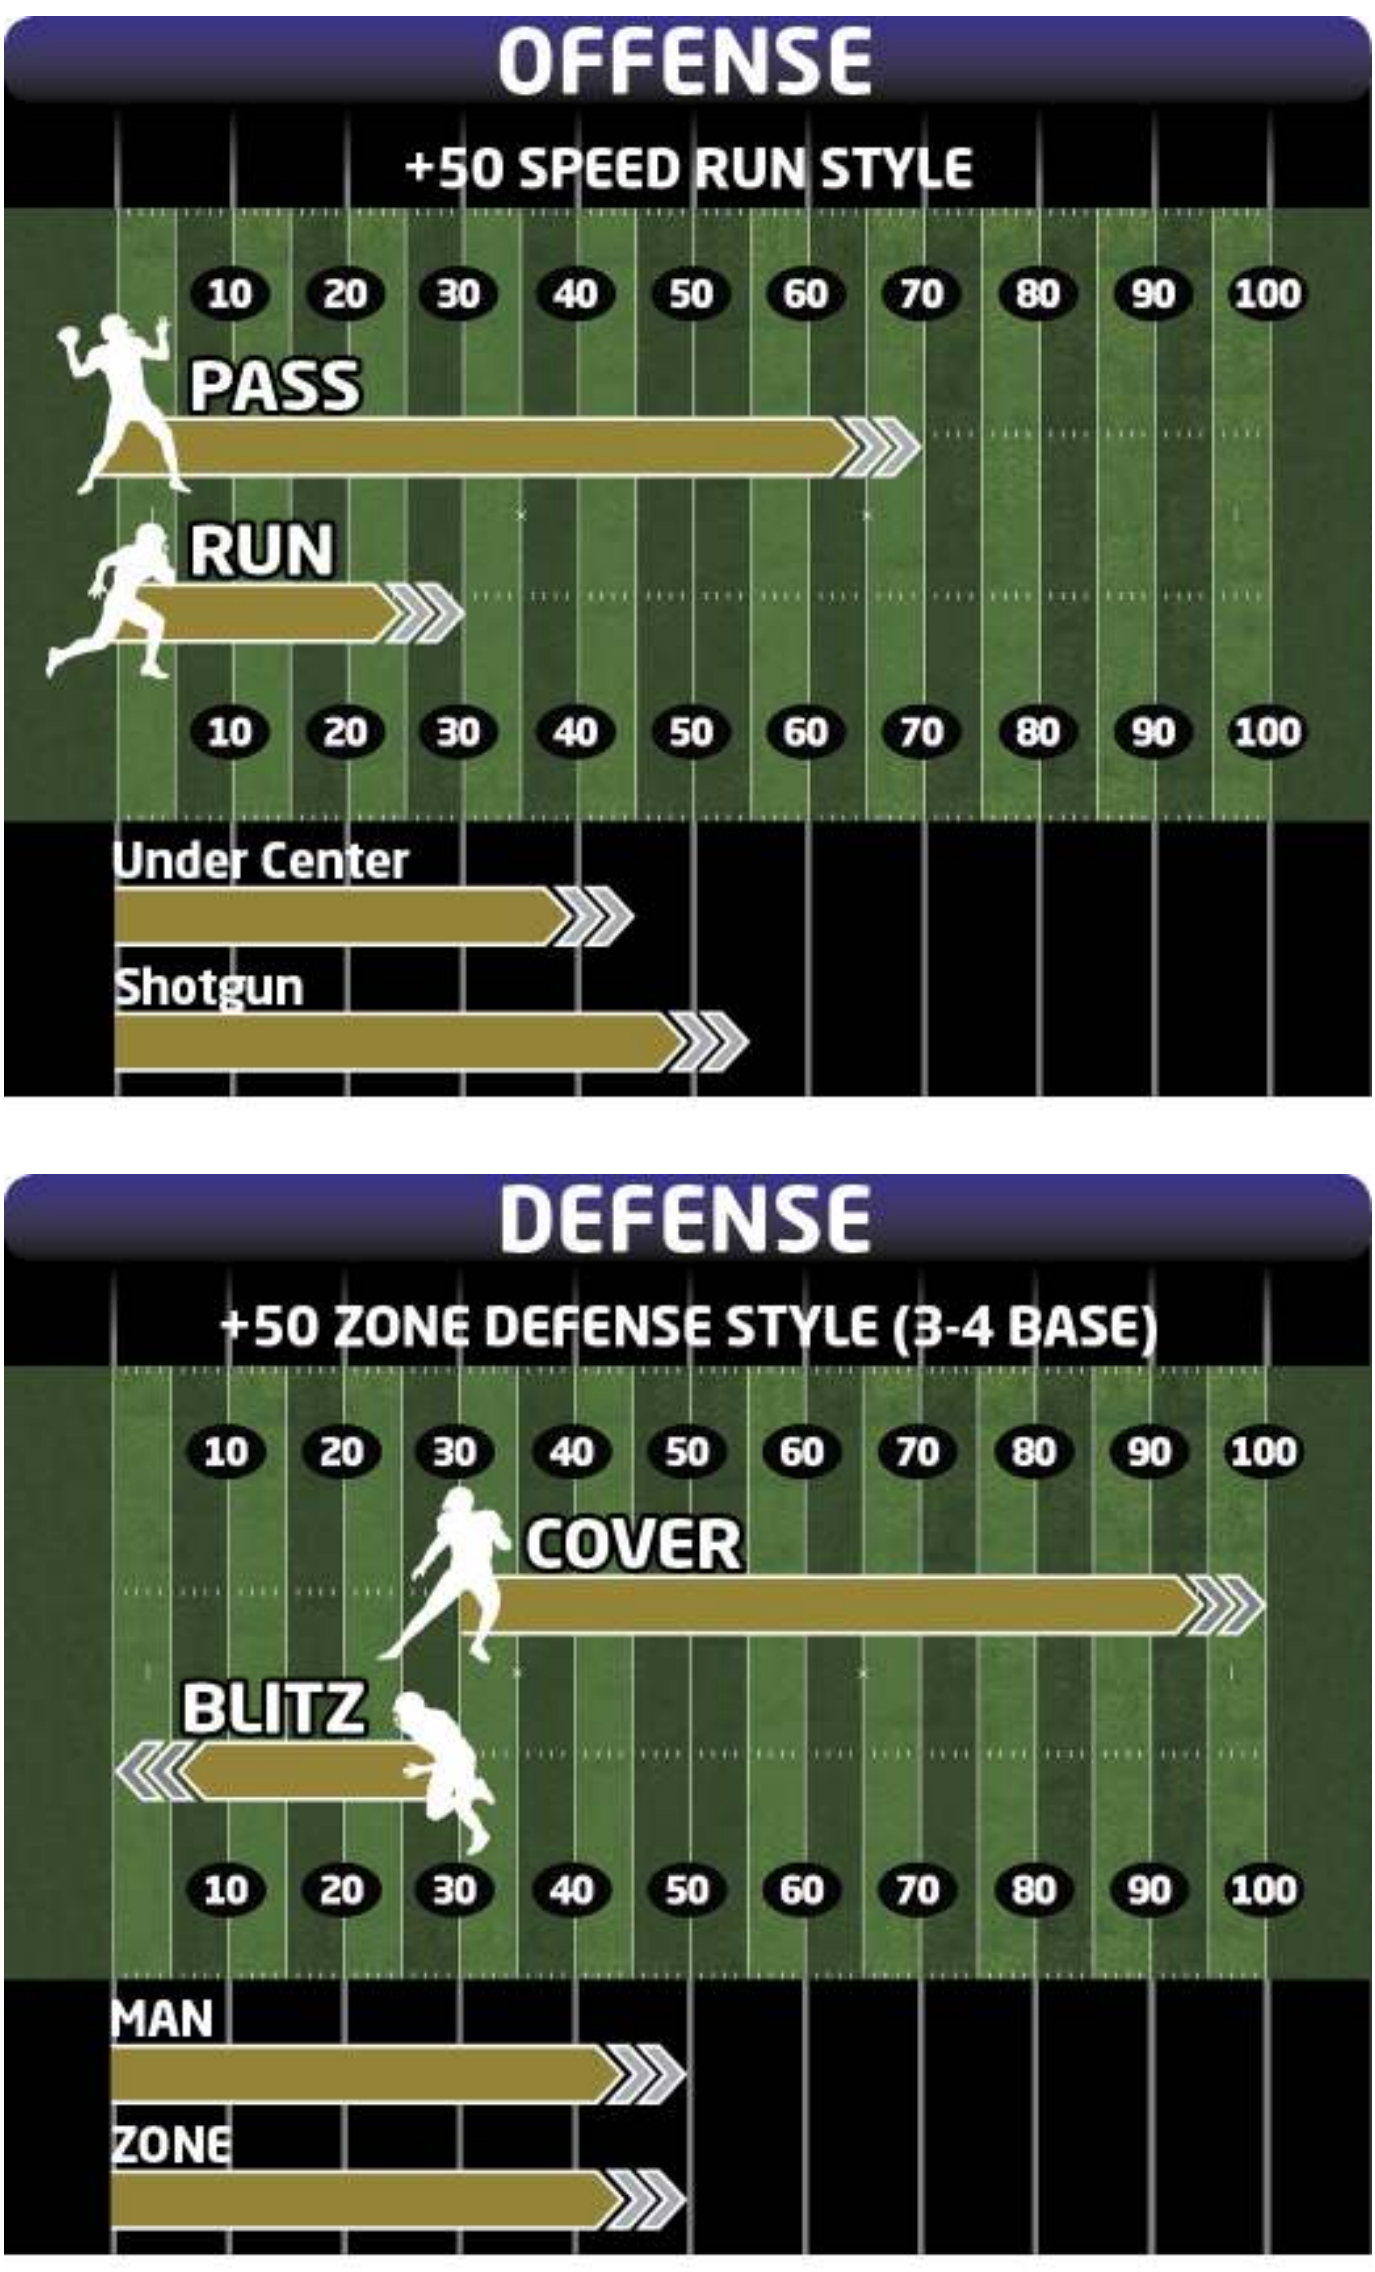
DE with 90+ Power Moves

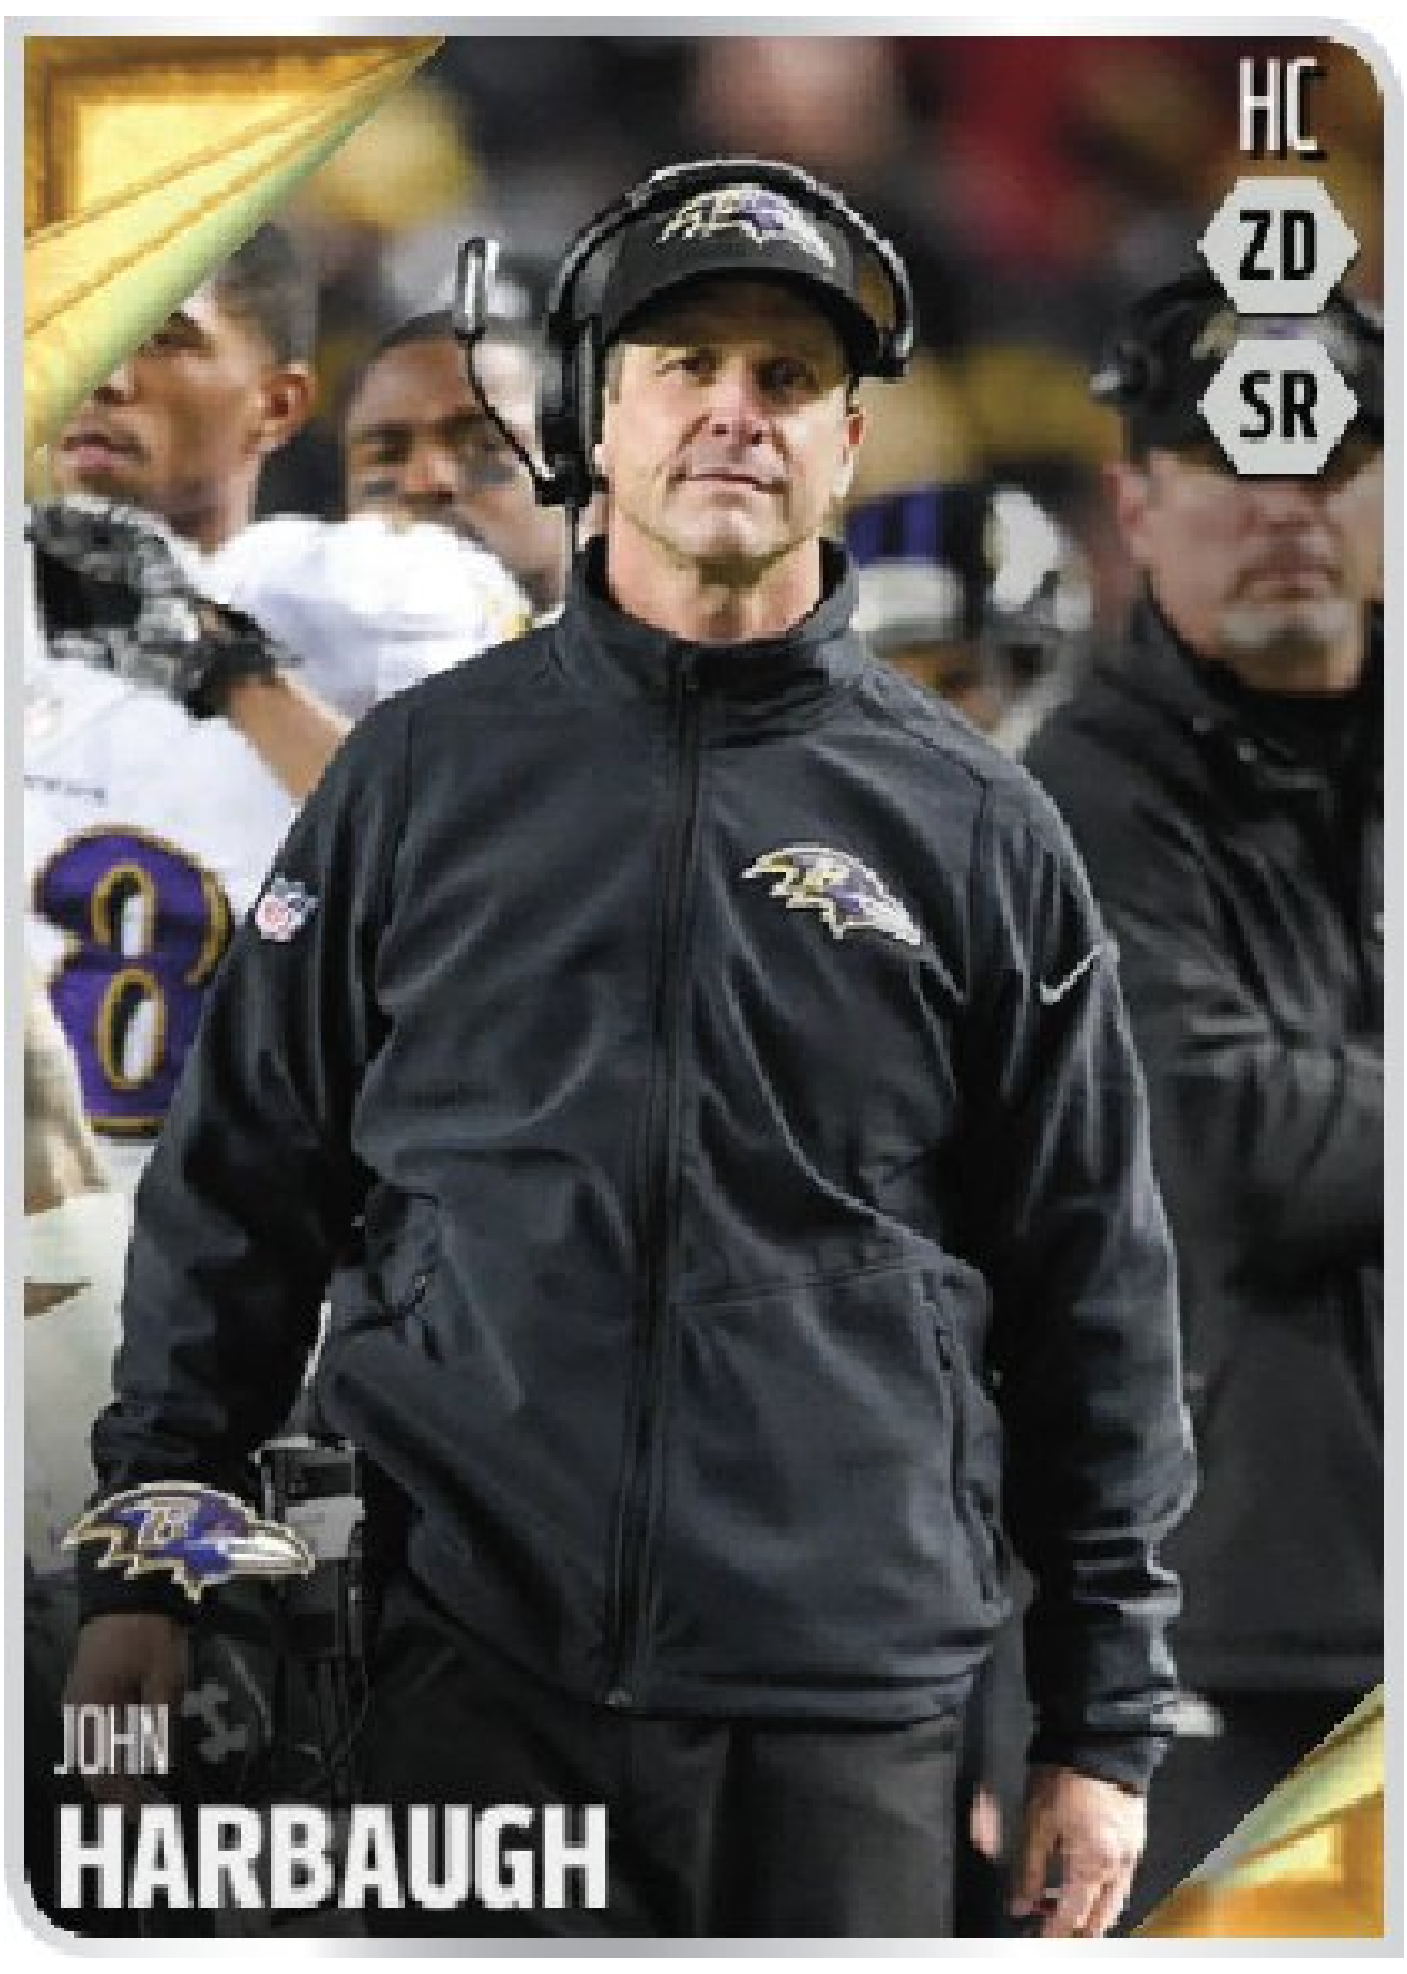
Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 46: Bear Under
- Nickel: Normal, Double A Gap, 4 D Ends

Draft Champions Mode

Baltimore Ravens





Offense

What makes the Ravens' playbook unique is its variety of "tight" or "close" Formations, where receivers line up close to the line of scrimmage. This makes it tough for man-to-man defenders to stick with them because of all the traffic in the area.

Key Formation

I-Form Close is an example of a tight formation that can burn heavy man-to-man coverage with plays like Mesh..

Key Player

WR with 90+ Route Running

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Deuce Wing, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Bunch Ace, Tight Doubles, Doubles, Y-Trips TE Slot, Trio
- I-Form: Pro, Close, Pro Twins, Tight Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight
- Weak: Pro, Tight Twins
- Gun: Doubles, Y-Trips HB Wk, Bunch Wk, Spread Y-Flex, Y-Trips Open, Trips Y-Flex Tight, Flip Trips Raven, Empty Base Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- WR (SPD, RTE, CTH)
- HB (ELU, CTH, SPD)
- QB (THP, DAC, SAC)

PRO TIP

The Ravens have plenty of tight options from shotgun sets, too, if you aren't a fan of under center or didn't get to solidify your offensive line.

Defense

The Ravens' mixture of Formations allowing their LBs to get in great matchups is second to none. Get comfortable with all of the 3-4 fronts, including the Bear, to keep your opponents off-balance.

Key Formation

The Nickel 3-3-5 is an ideal formation to be balanced against any offensive attack and lineup. It requires drafting an extra CB, but if he can be physical in the run game, you will feel comfortable stopping the run from a passing set. With a solid LB holding things down in the middle, you can send pressure from the edges!

Key Player

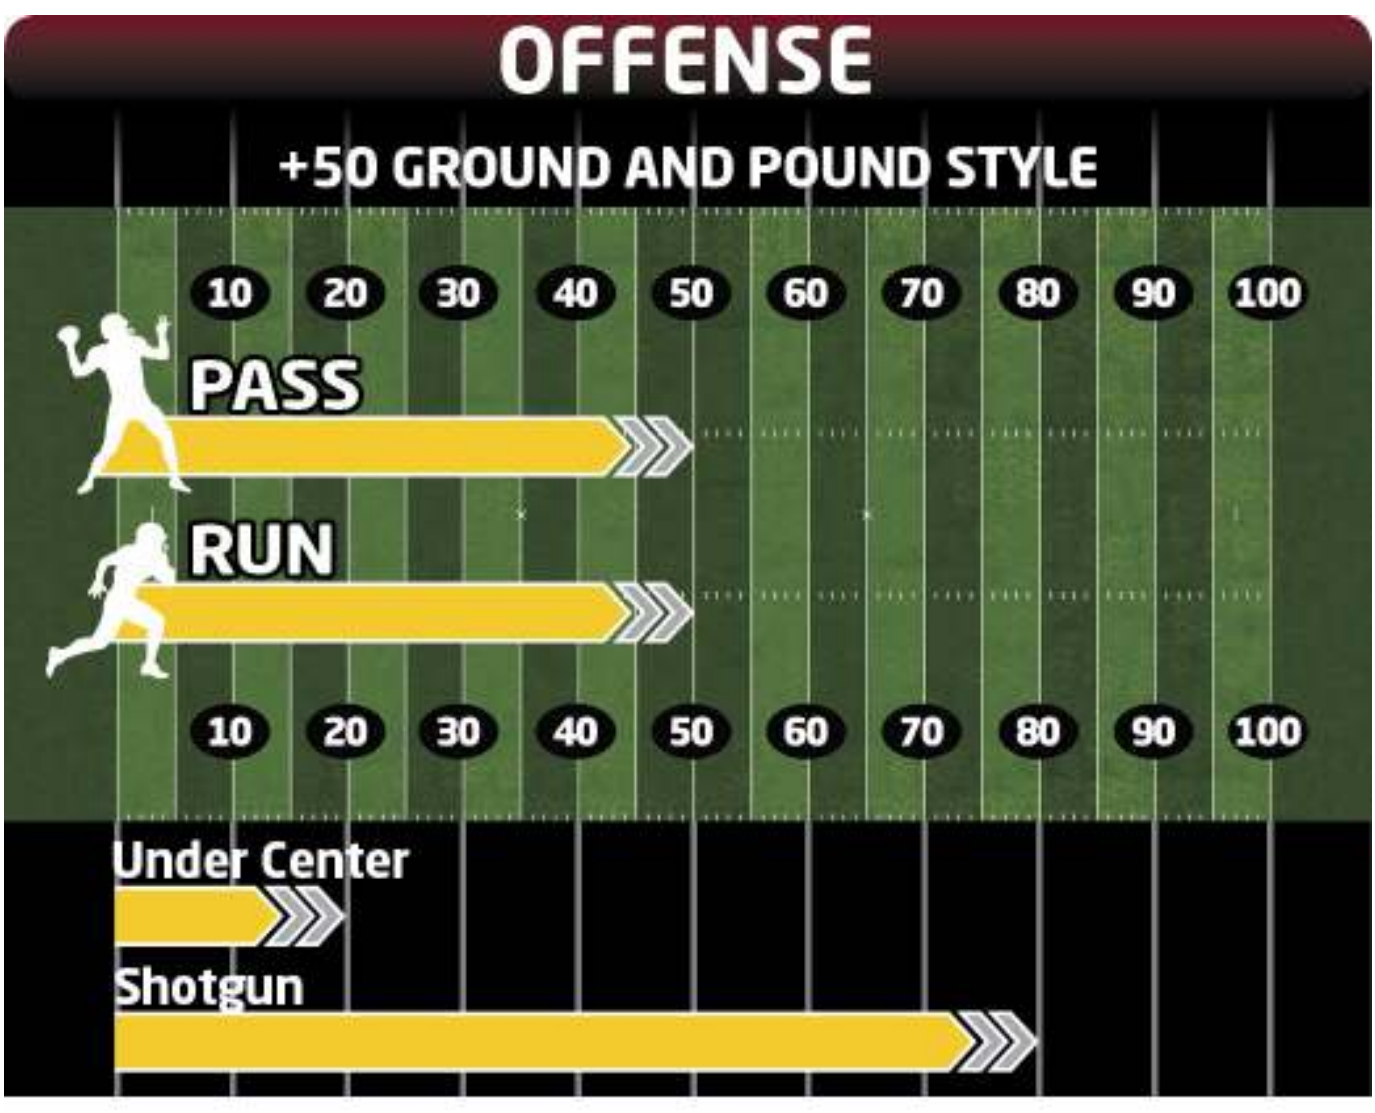
CB with 85+ Press and 80+ Man and Zone Coverage

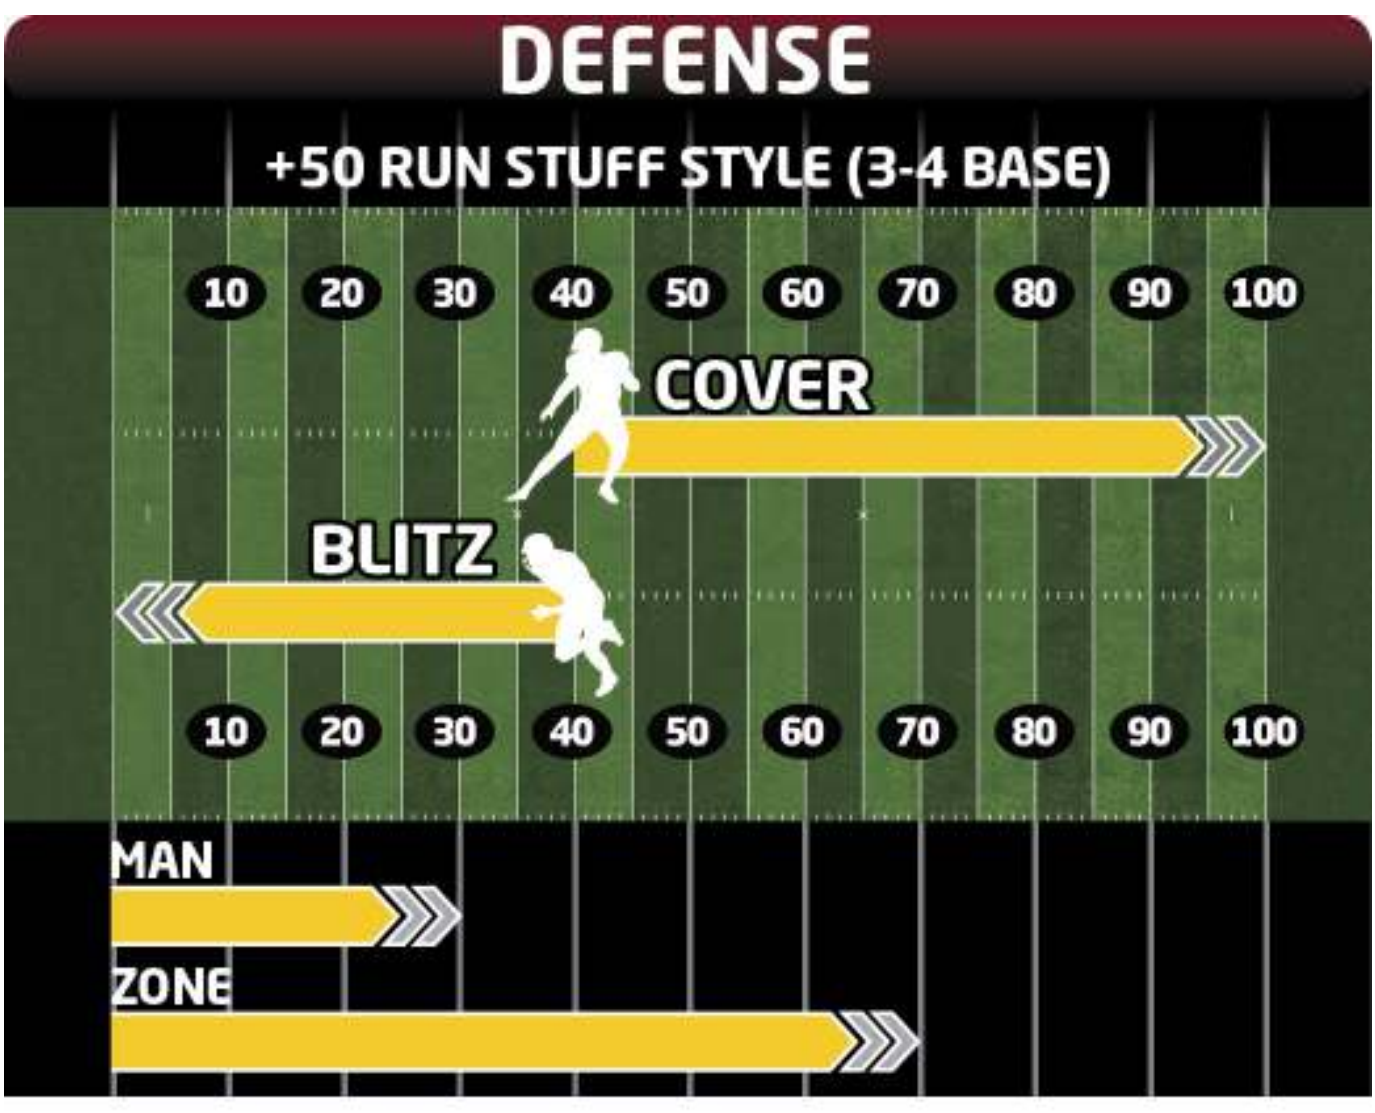
Formations

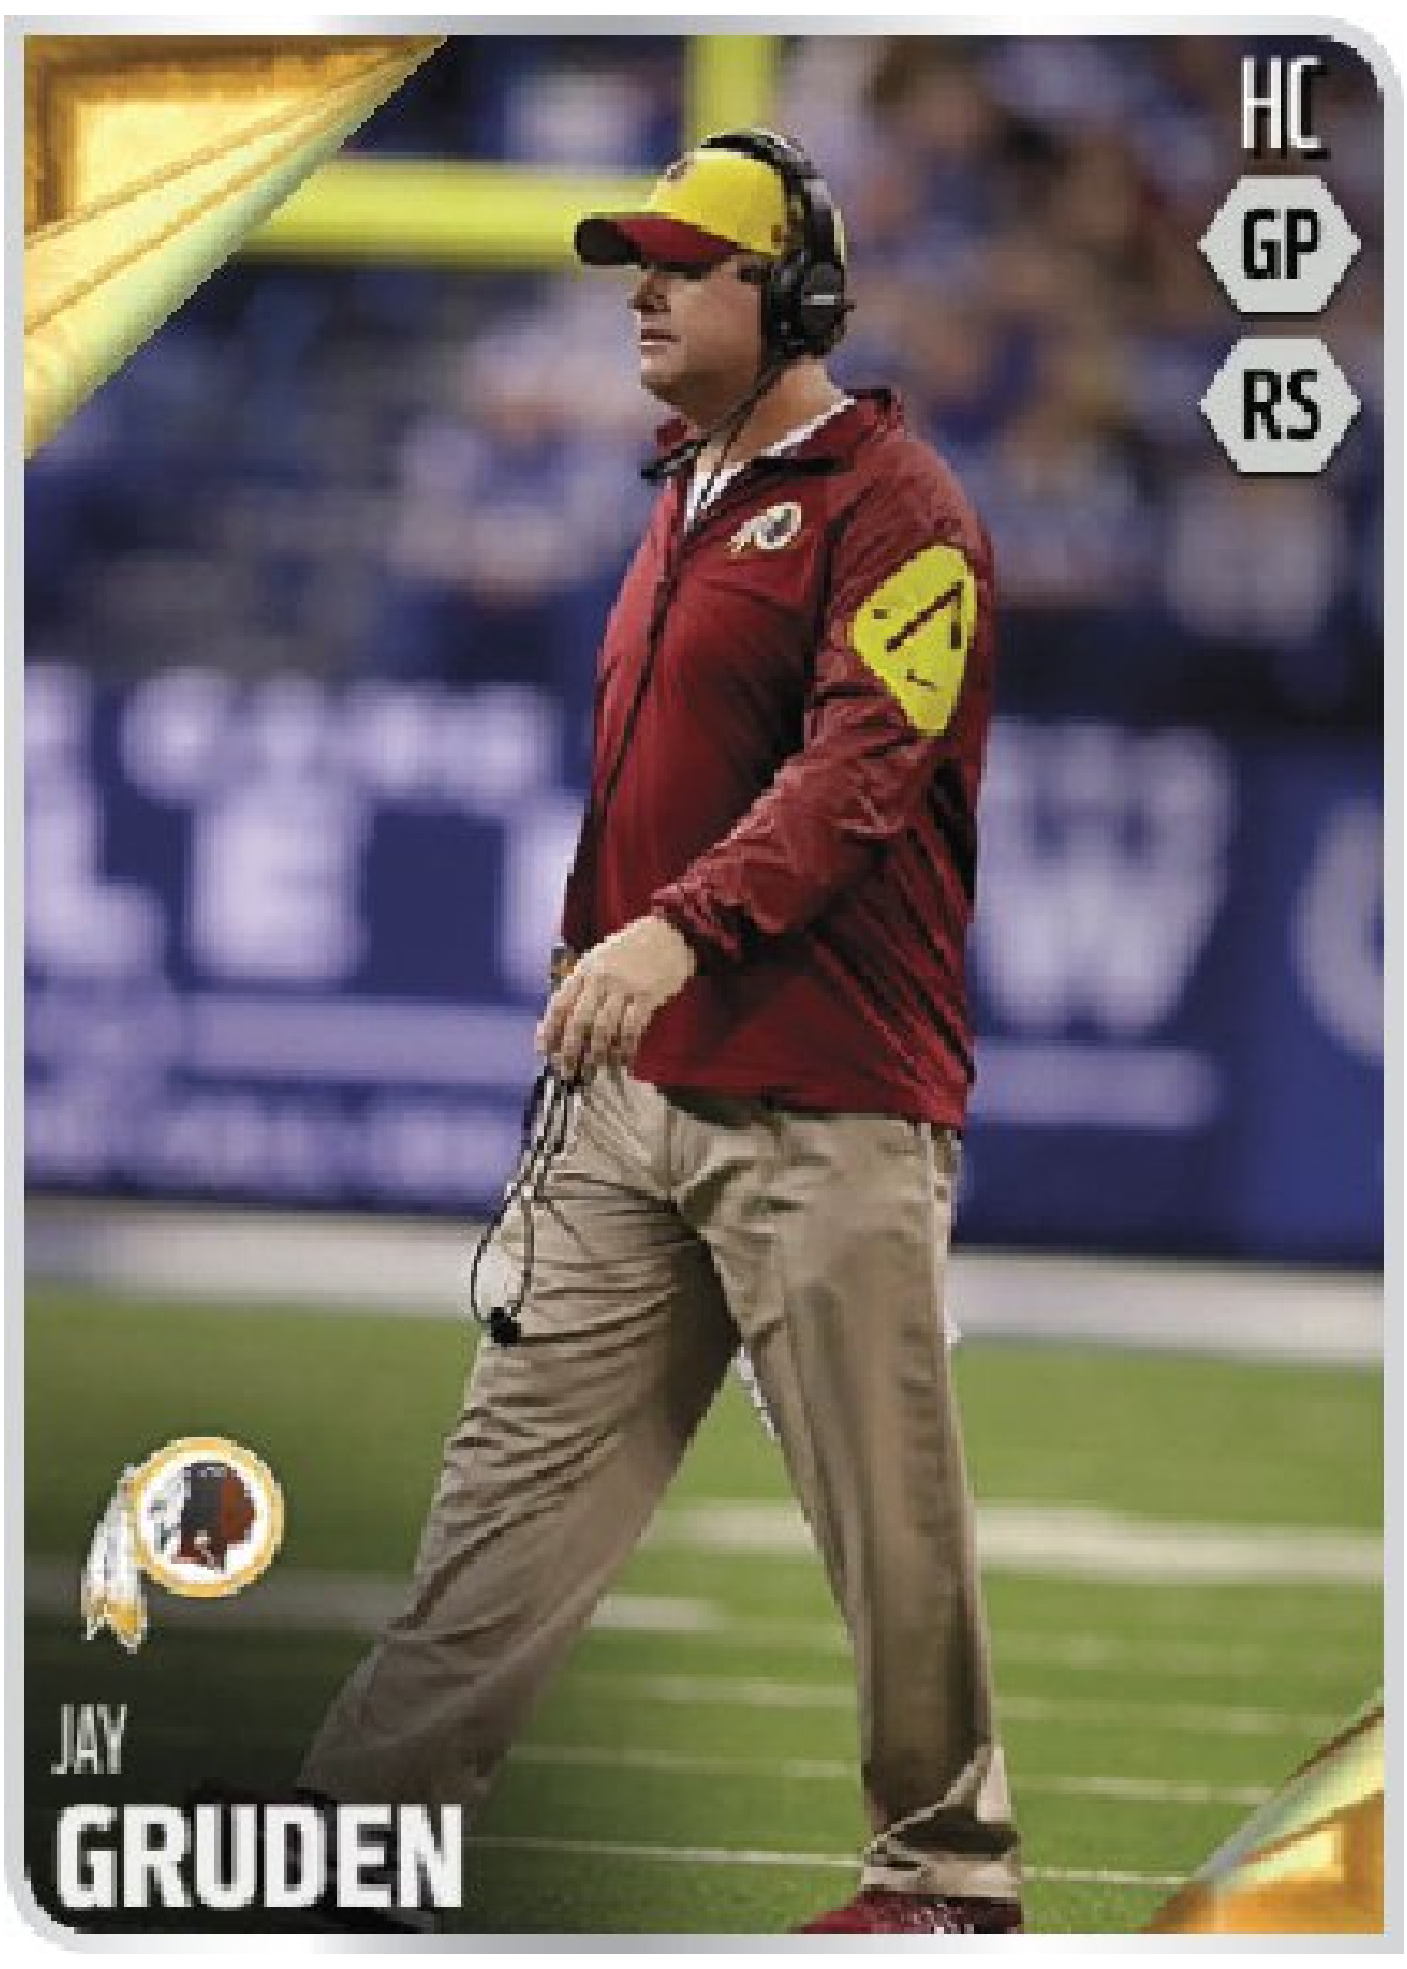
- 3-4: Odd, Predator, Over Ed, Even, Bear

Draft Champions Mode

Washington Redskins







Offense

The Redskins' playbook is one of the most versatile in Madden NFL 16. You should target a mobile QB, but if don't find any worth selecting, you can still run a scheme good enough to win.

Key Formation

Pistol Ace Wing is crucial to success with the Redskins' playbook. By mixing in the Read Option and HB Stretch runs, you can add a balanced element to your offense.

Key Player

QB with 85+ Acceleration

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Ace Close, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Doubles, Wing Trio
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro, Pro Twins
- Weak: Pro
- Pistol: Strong, Ace Wing, Slot, Slot Wing, Y-Trips, Bunch
- Gun: Split Offset, Doubles Wk, Wing Trips Offset Wk, Bunch Offset, Tight Doubles On, Snugs Flip, Dbls Y-Flex Offset, Y-Trips Open, Trips Y-Flex Tight, Trips Y Iso, Trey Open, Empty Trey Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- QB (ACC, SPD, PAC)
- HB (TRK, STR, CAR)
- WR (SPD, RLS, ACC)

PRO TIP

Make sure to check the play art on option runs before the snap — knowing which defender to "read" is important for success.

Defense

Washington has a 3-4 scheme that requires multiple LBs in most of their sets. No matter what, you can always find a spot for them: fast LBs in the middle, stronger LBs on the outside to help set the edge in the run game.

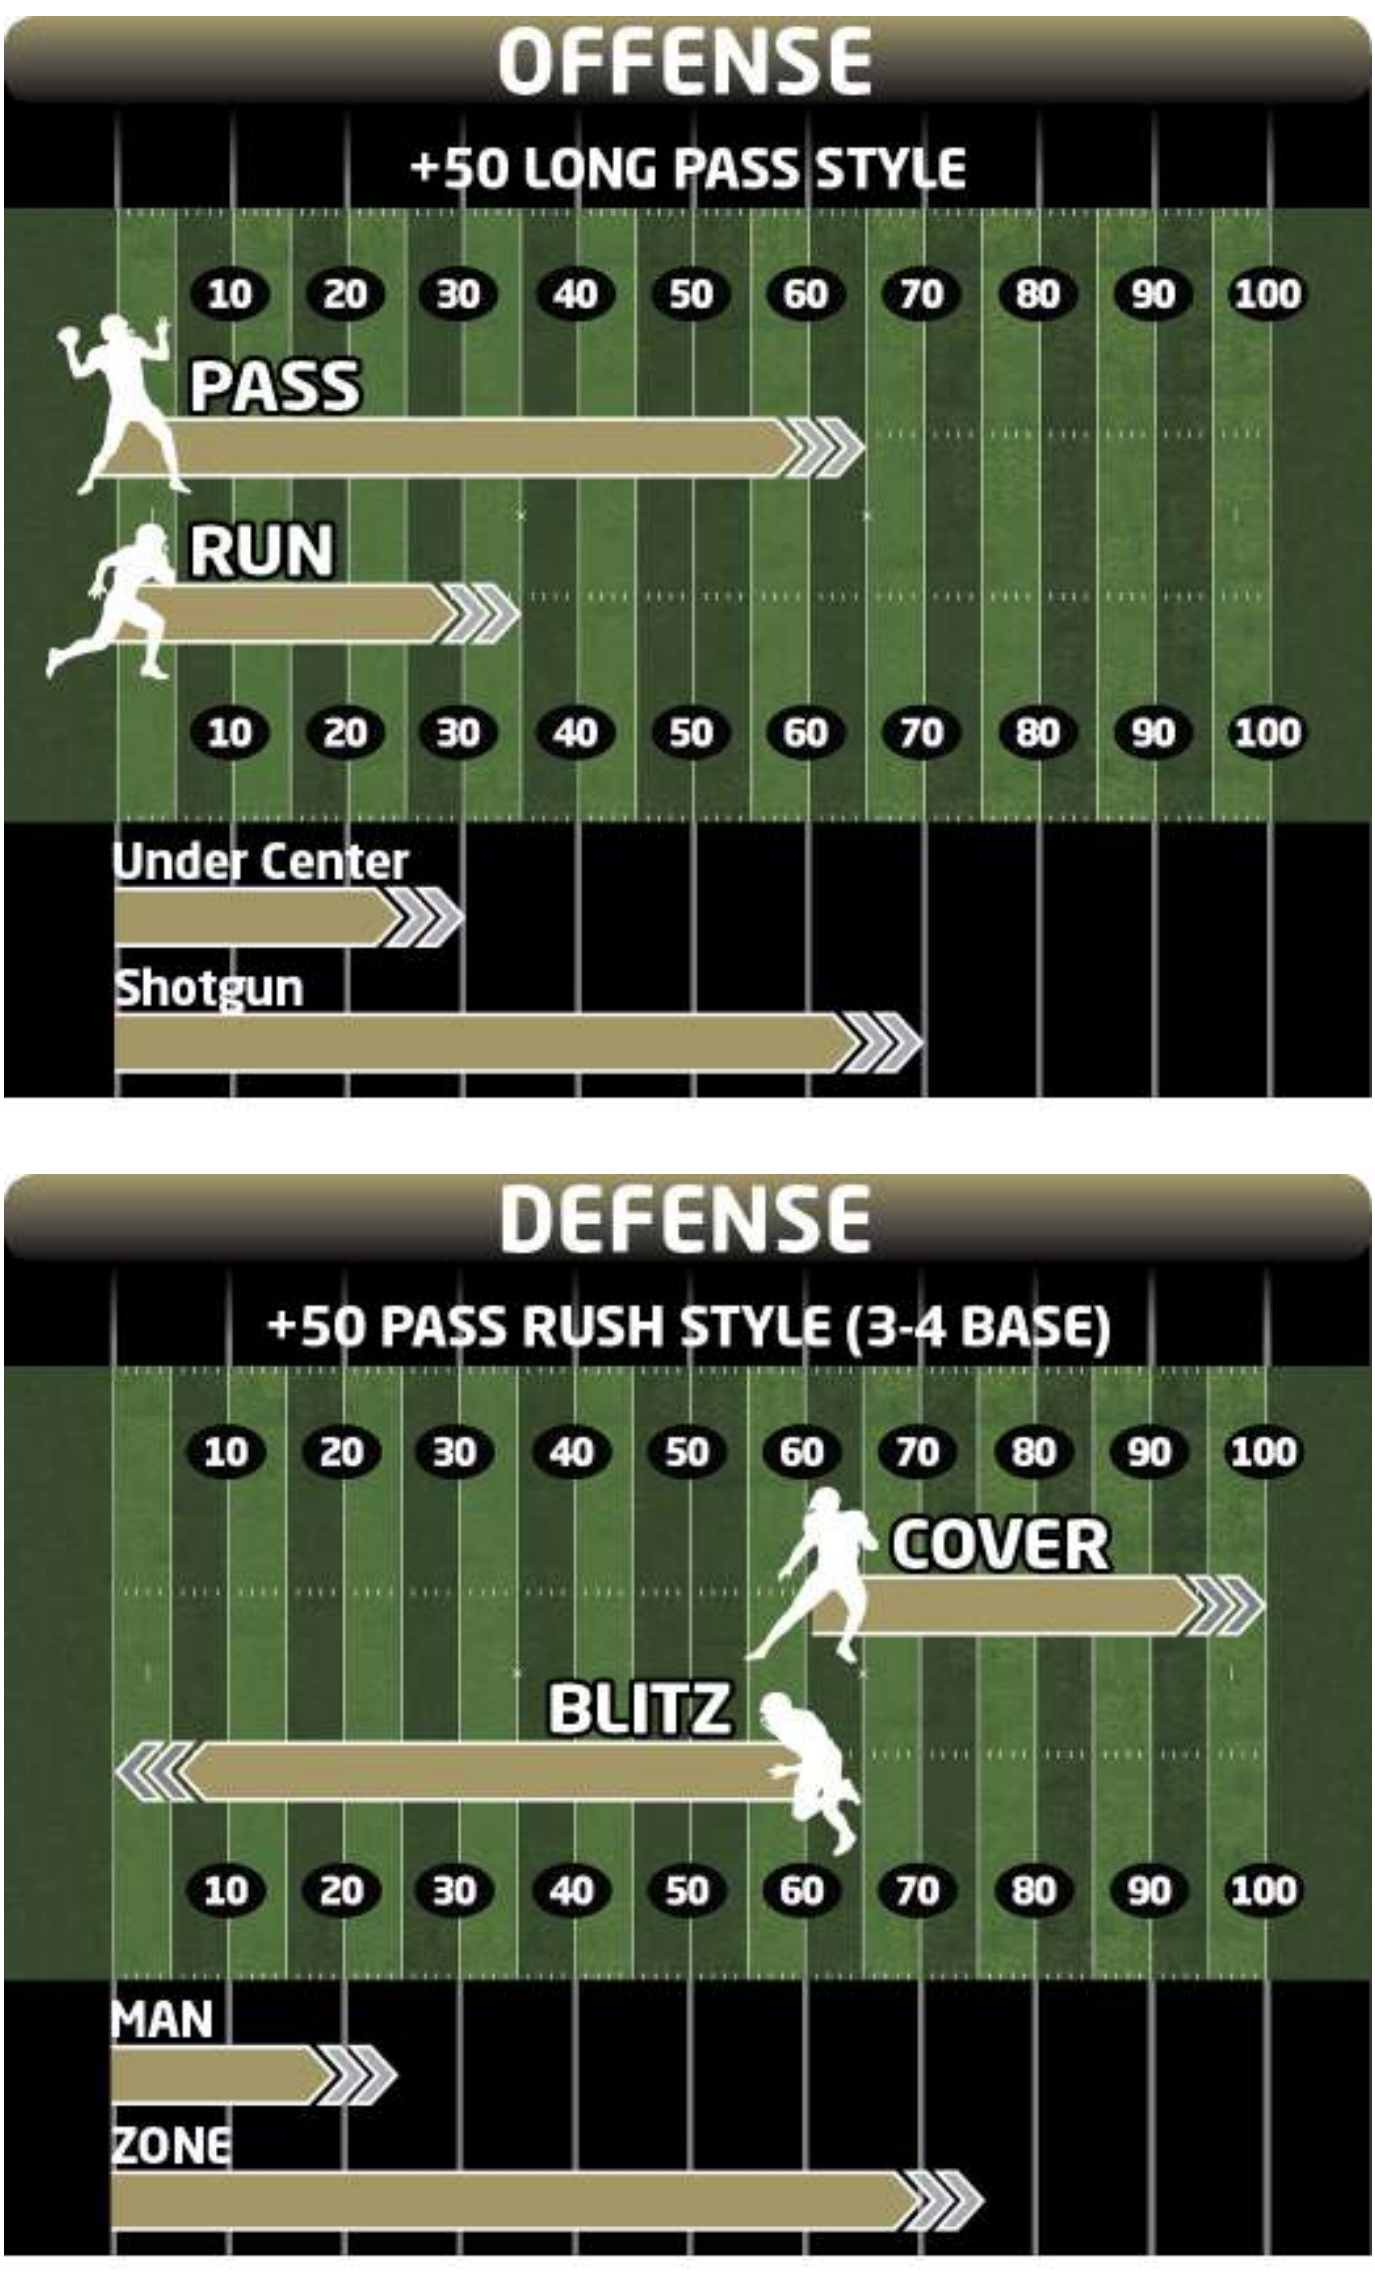
Key Formation

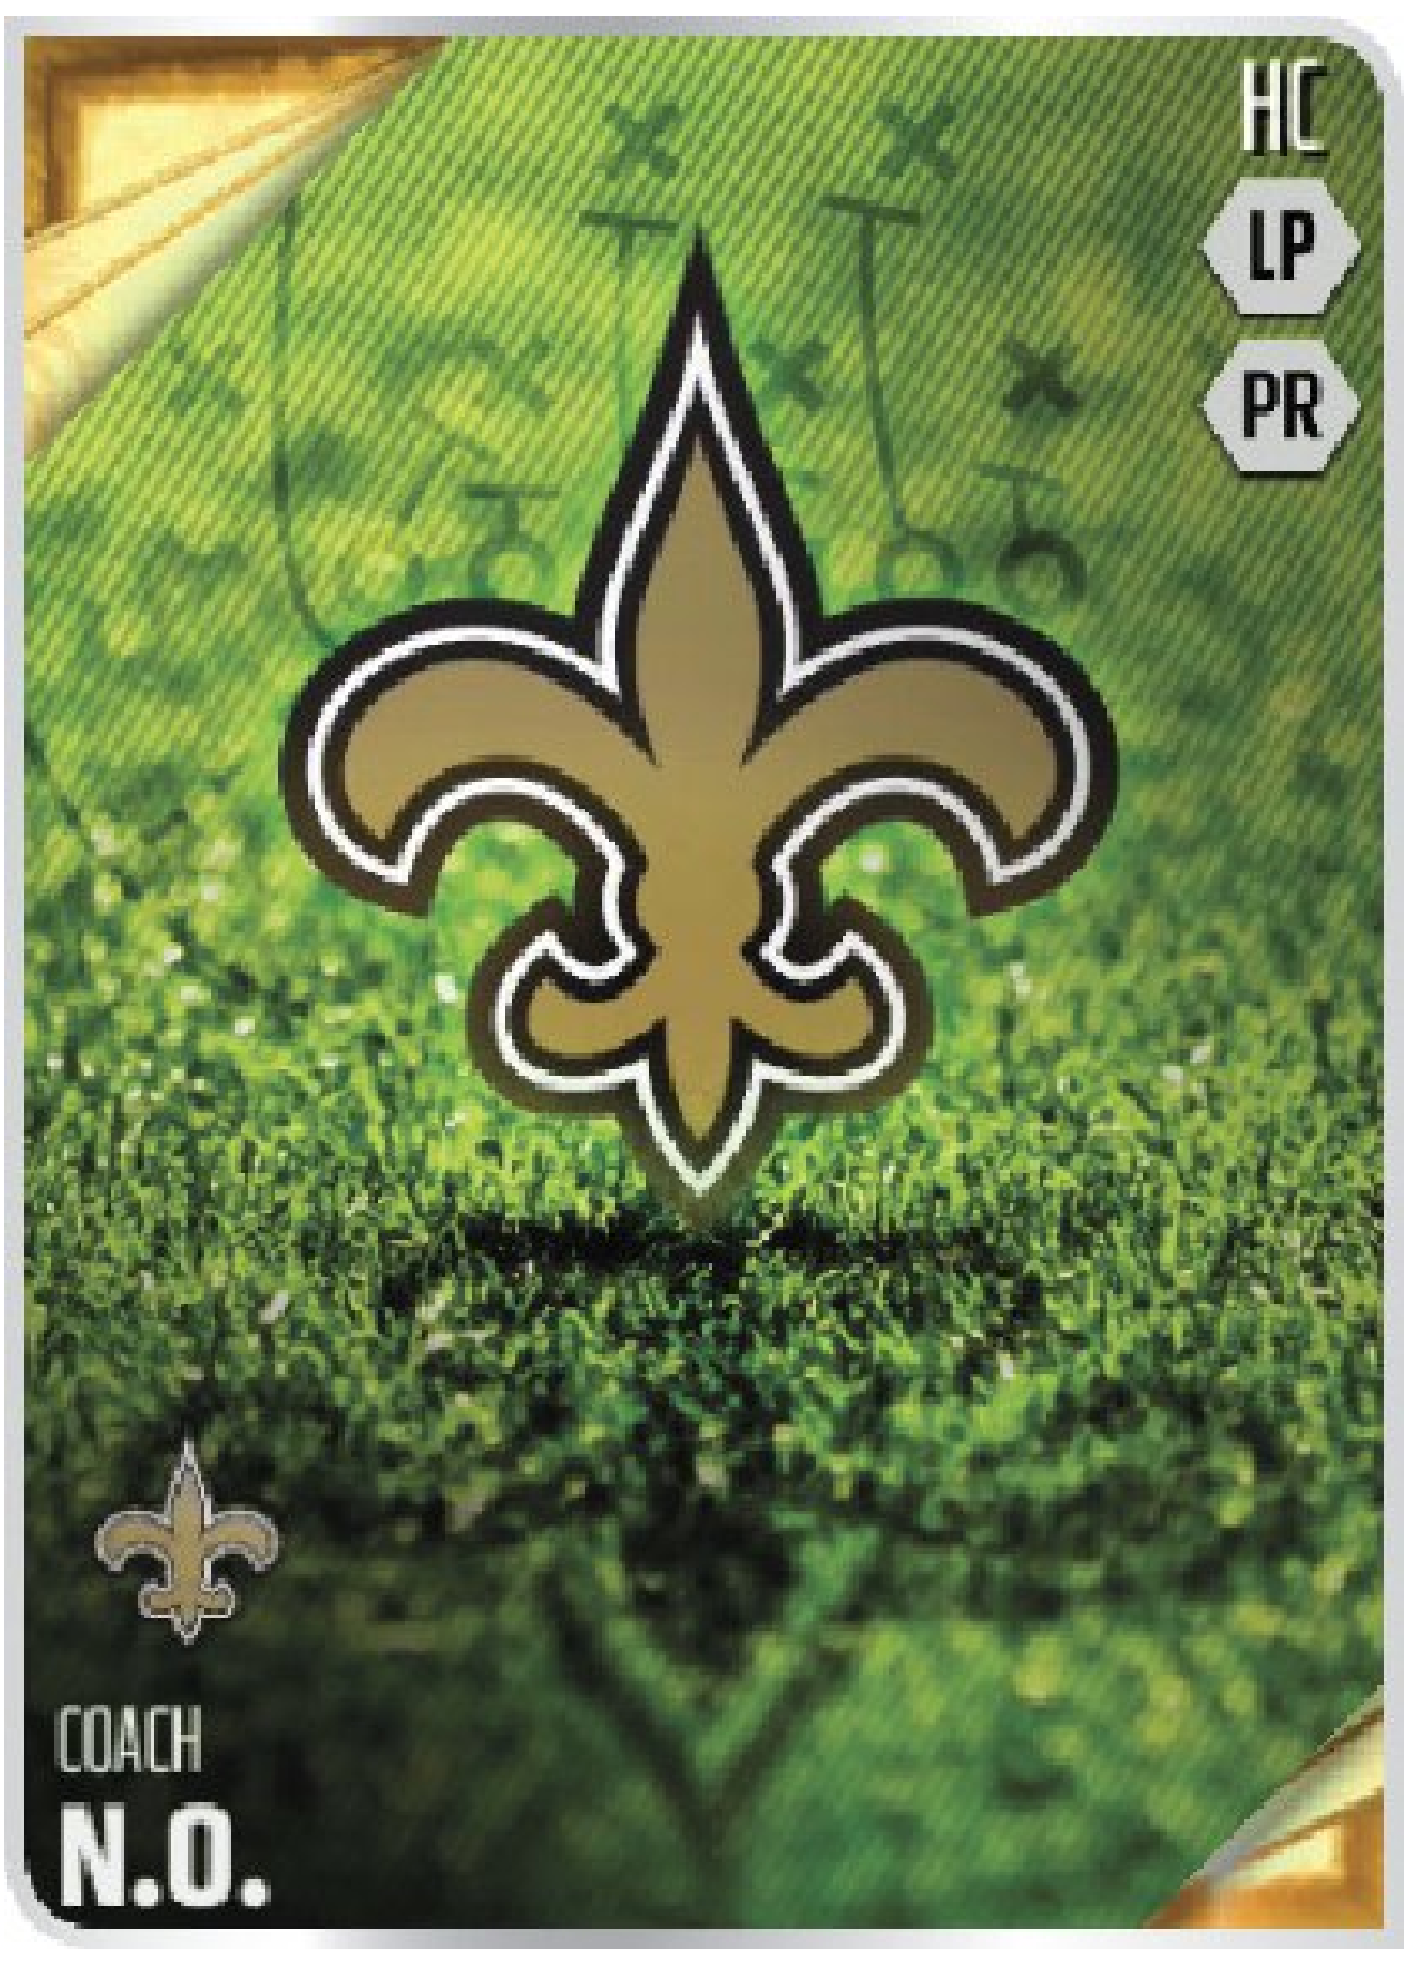
The 3-4 Odd should be a great start against most players. Use the solid zone coverage to fan out and stop those TE routes.

Key Player

Run-stuffing OLB with 85+ Strength

Formations





Offense

The Saints' playbook has some unique plays and Formations that can fool your opponent, but you can also beat your opponent by simply throwing downfield! You will need some time in the pocket, so keep linemen in mind, because a good defensive line will be a frustrating matchup.

Key Formation

Gun Tight Offset TE allows you to get the most from an elite TE, who basically can be a WR in this playbook.

Key Player

6'4" TE with 85+ Catch in Traffic

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Twin TE Flex, Bunch Base, Doubles, Snugs Flip
- I-Form: Pro, Close, Twins Flex, Tight
- Strong: Close
- Pistol: Slot Wing, Y-Trips, Bunch TE
- Gun: Split Offset, Doubles Wk, Wing Trio Wk, Tight Offset TE, DBL Y Flex Off Wk, Spread Y-Slot, Trips Y Iso, Trey Open Saint, Empty Saint, Empty Trey, Empty Y-Saints

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- TE (6'4"+ CIT, SPC)
- WR (6'3"+, CIT, SPC)
- QB (MAC, DAC, THP)

PRO TIP

The Saints' playbook is still built for big WRs and deep throws downfield, which meshes perfectly with the new catching in Madden NFL 16!

Defense

The Saints have an excellent defensive playbook built around the 3-4. This playbook won't require much blitzing if you grab OLBs with high Speed and Finesse Moves ratings; however, it has plenty of firepower if needed on passing downs.

Key Formation

Big Dime 2-3-6 is a great formation to build towards in the draft. If you come up a piece or two short, you can go to the 3-3-5 or 1-4-6.

Key Player

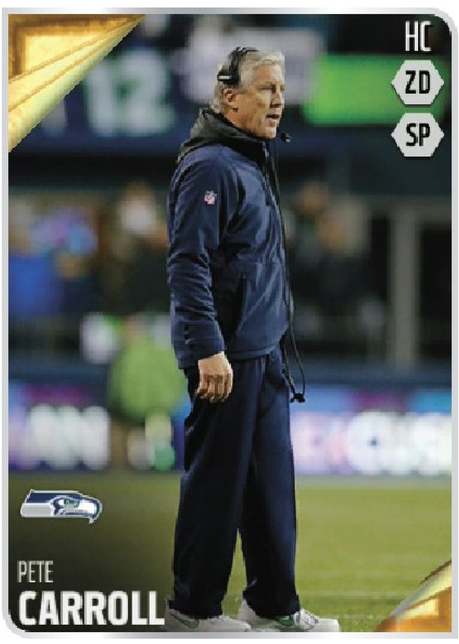
OLB with 87+ Finesse Moves

Formations

- 3-4: Odd, Predator, Over, Even, Bear

Draft Champions Mode

Seattle Seahawks



Offense

For players who want a power-run-style offense without sacrificing the shotgun Formations, Seattle is a great selection.

Key Formation

Gun Ace Offset can be an every-down formation if you establish the run game from shotgun and learn to use play action. The Read Option in this formation really adds another dimension if you grab a mobile QB in the draft.

Key Player

While a back with 90+ Trucking is ideal, the real key is a QB who has 80+ Speed and will force the defense to commit a defender to slowing him down.

Formations

- Singleback: Deuce Wing, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Flex, Bunch Ace, Hawk Doubles
- I-Form: H Pro, H Slot, H Tight, H Twin Pair
- Strong: H TE Flip, H Slot Flex, H Pair TE
- Pistol: Strong Slot, Ace, Doubles Flex Wing
- Gun: Split Hawk, Ace Offset, Ace Twins Offset, Doubles Wing Offset, Doubles Wing Wk, Y-Trips Hawk, Wing Offset Wk, Trio Offset, Bunch Wk, Tight Slots, Double Stack, Spread Y-Slot, Trey Y-Flex, Trips Y Iso, Empty Hawk

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (TRK, STR, CAR)
- QB (SPD, PAC, SAC)
- C (STR, RBK, IPB)

PRO TIP

Picking up a QB who has some speed can really frustrate opponents who think they have the HB stopped only to see the QB keep the ball on a read.

Defense

The mix of coverages in the Seattle playbook is outstanding if you score a rangy FS. Otherwise, find a defensive line that can overwhelm the offensive line with speed.

Key Formation

The 46 Bear Under is a great way to test your opponent's commitment to the run game early.

Key Player

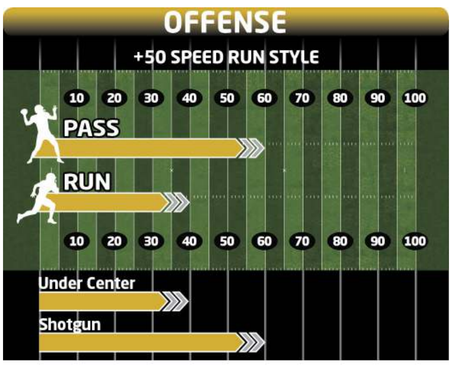
OLB with 90+ Acceleration

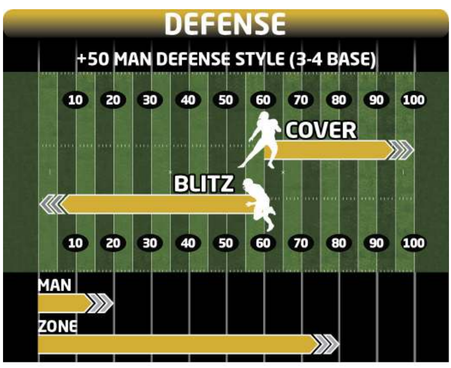
Formations

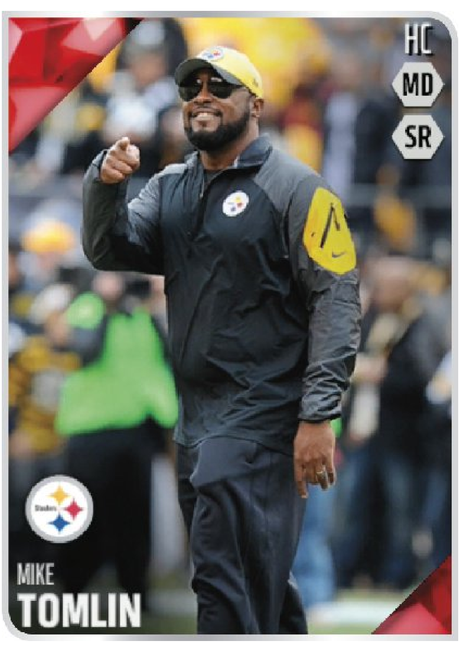
- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9
- 46: Bear Under
- Nickel: Normal, Double A Gap, Wide 9

Draft Champions Mode

Pittsburgh Steelers







Offense

The Steelers' offensive playbook is one of the best schemes for balanced players who love the short passing game. Even if you don't land a big WR, you can still have plenty of success with the concepts and RAC move.

Key Formation

Singleback Pitt Doubles is a solid formation that's tough for defenses to line up against. The key is using your TE as a run blocker early and then a safety valve on third down.

Key Player

WR with 87+ Route Running and Release

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo, Ace, Ace Pair Flex, Bunch Base, Pitt Doubles, Y-Trips
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close
- Weak: Pro
- Pistol: Slot Wing, Y-Trips
- Gun: Split Close, Doubles, Y-Trips Wk, Wing Trio Steeler, Trio, Bunch Wk, Tight Doubles On, Snugs, Spread Y-Slot, Trips HB Wk, Empty Trey, Empty Steeler
- Wildcat: Normal

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- WR (SPD, AGI, RTE)
- HB (TRK, SPD, CTH)
- TE (CIT, RBK, PBK)

PRO TIP

The Steelers' playbook has added some new pistol Formations this season, so don't forget to try them out!

Defense

Pittsburgh has built their defensive scheme around the 3-4 for multiple seasons. Aim to get some strength and block-shedding on the defensive line, but don't worry about generating pressure there, as it will mainly come from your LBs.

Key Formation

Nickel 2-4-5 Prowl is a solid formation that could confuse the offense and won't let any drafted LBs go to waste.

Key Player

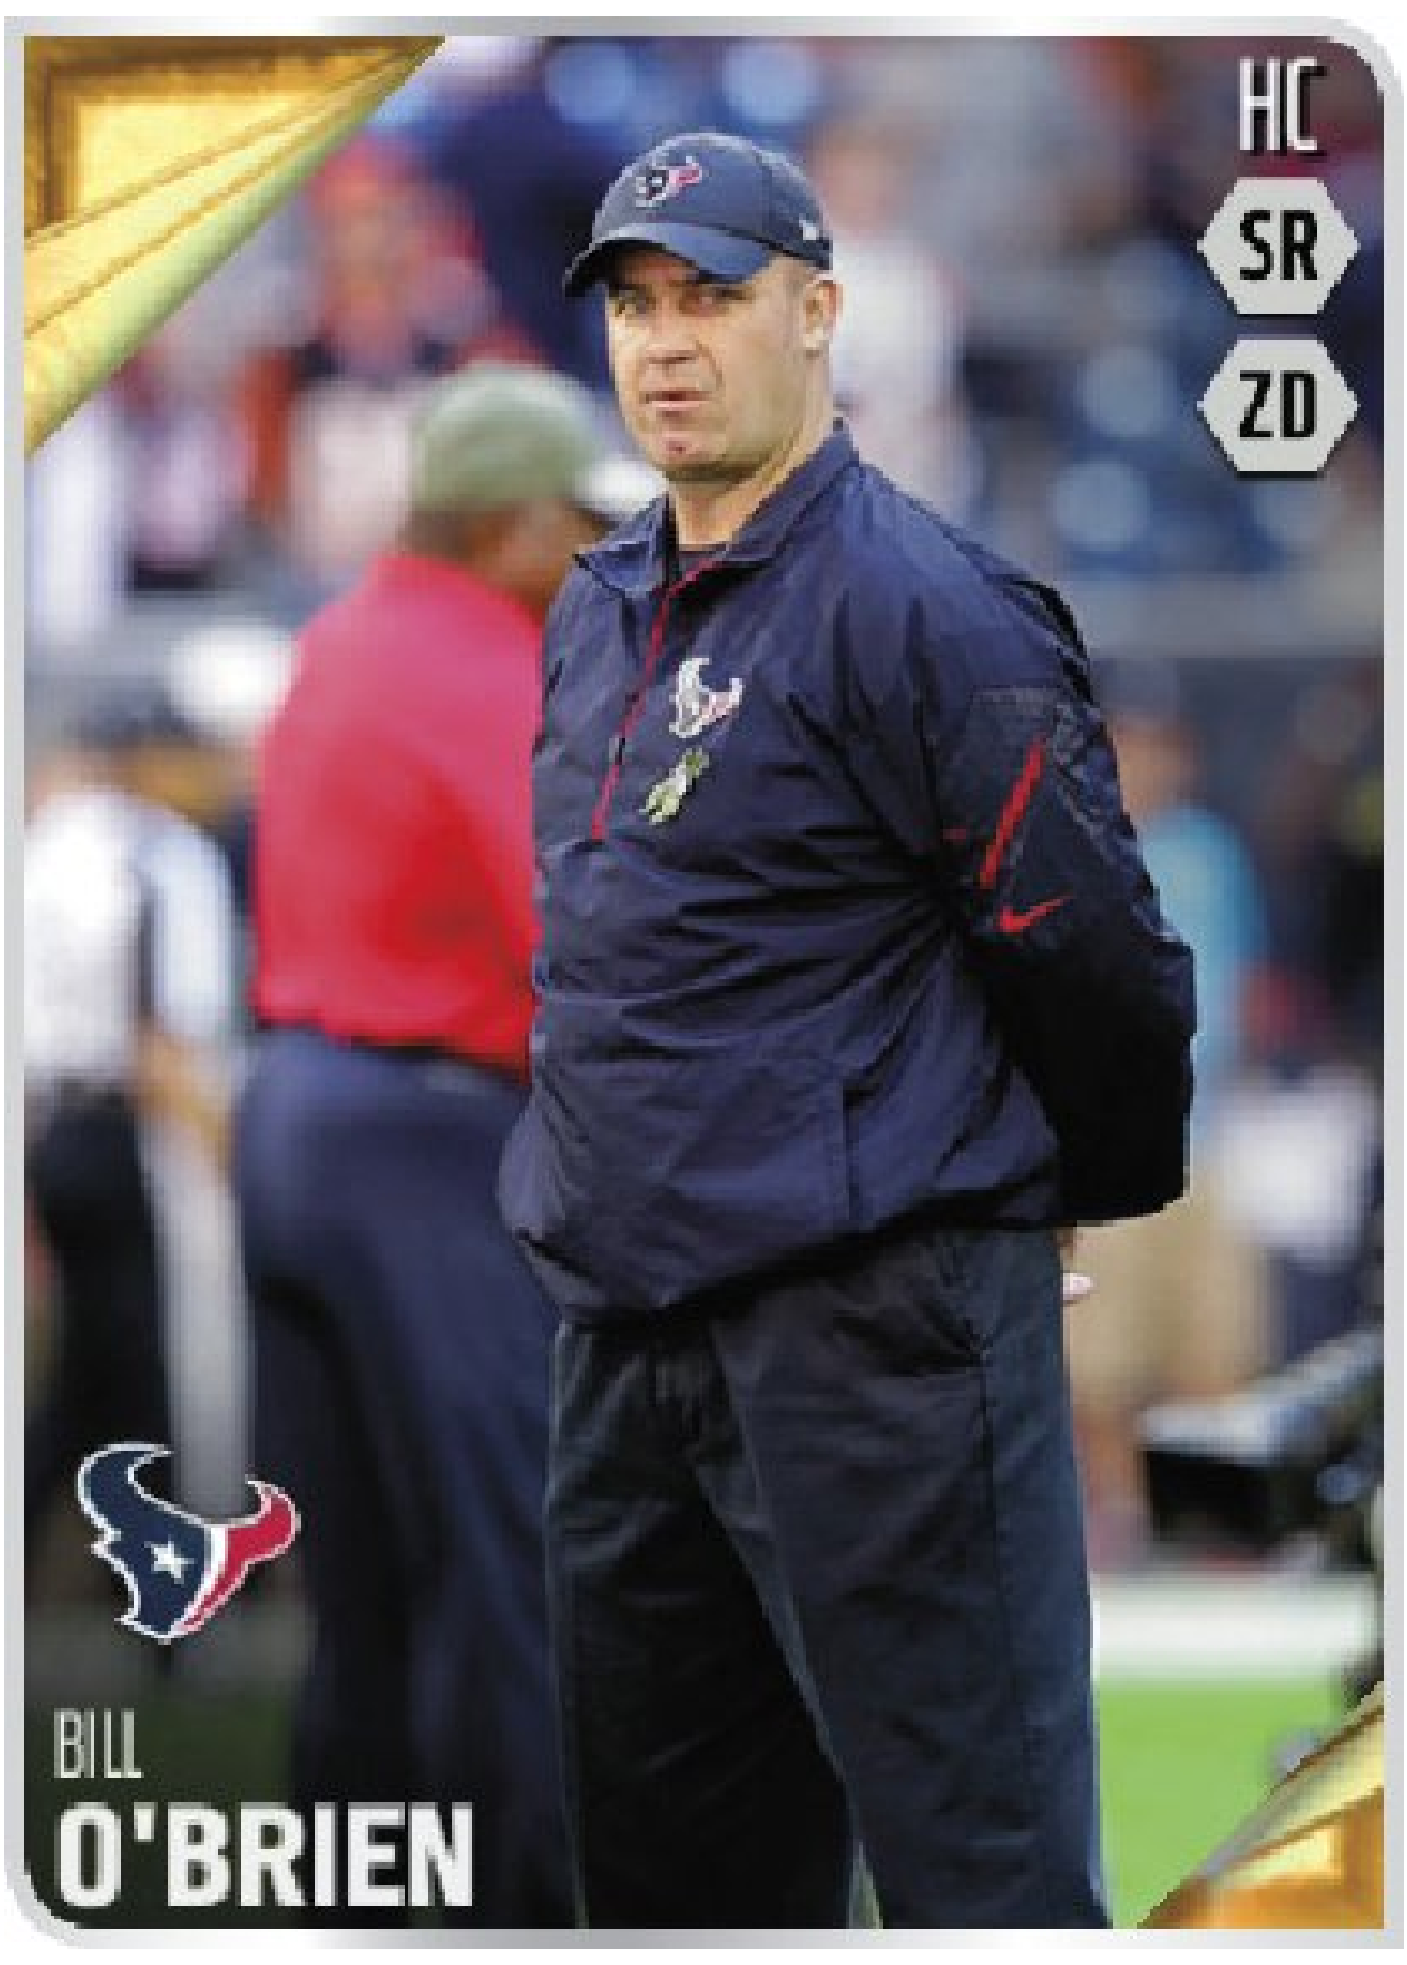
SS with 85+ Play Recognition

Formations

- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over, Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Houston Texans



Offense

The Texans' offense has some different run plays that will really benefit a patient player who can make good cuts at the line of scrimmage. Consider beefing up one side of your offensive line to run behind on most of your play calls.

Key Formation

Gun Tight Doubles On is the formation you should try when you need a first down conversion. If you keep yourself in manageable situations with the run game, there are multiple ways to move the chains.

Key Player

HB with 90+ Ball Carrier Vision

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Z, Ace, Ace Twins, Bunch Base, Tight Doubles, Doubles, Y-Trips Texan
- I-Form: Pro, Tight Pair
- Strong: Pro
- Weak: Pro Twins
- Gun: Split Texan, Ace Pair Flex, Doubles, Y-Trips HB Wk, Wing Trips Wk, Trips TE, Bunch Wk, Tight Doubles On, Snugs Flip, Normal Y-Slot, Empty Texan, Empty Y-Flex, Empty Base

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (SPD, TRK, BCV)
- RG (RBK, IPB, STR)
- WR (SPD, SPC, RTE)

PRO TIP

This playbook has some nice rollout plays that allow you to attempt deep throws. If you an elite WR appears after you secure your HB, go for him!

Defense

The Texans' entire defense is built around versatility in their front seven to create an intense 3-4 scheme. The great news is that no matter who you draft, you can always use packages and substitutions to get your talent in a spot to make plays!

Key Formation

The 3-4 Under is an excellent base formation that can stop the run and bring pressure off the edge if the offense tries to fool you with play action.

Key Player

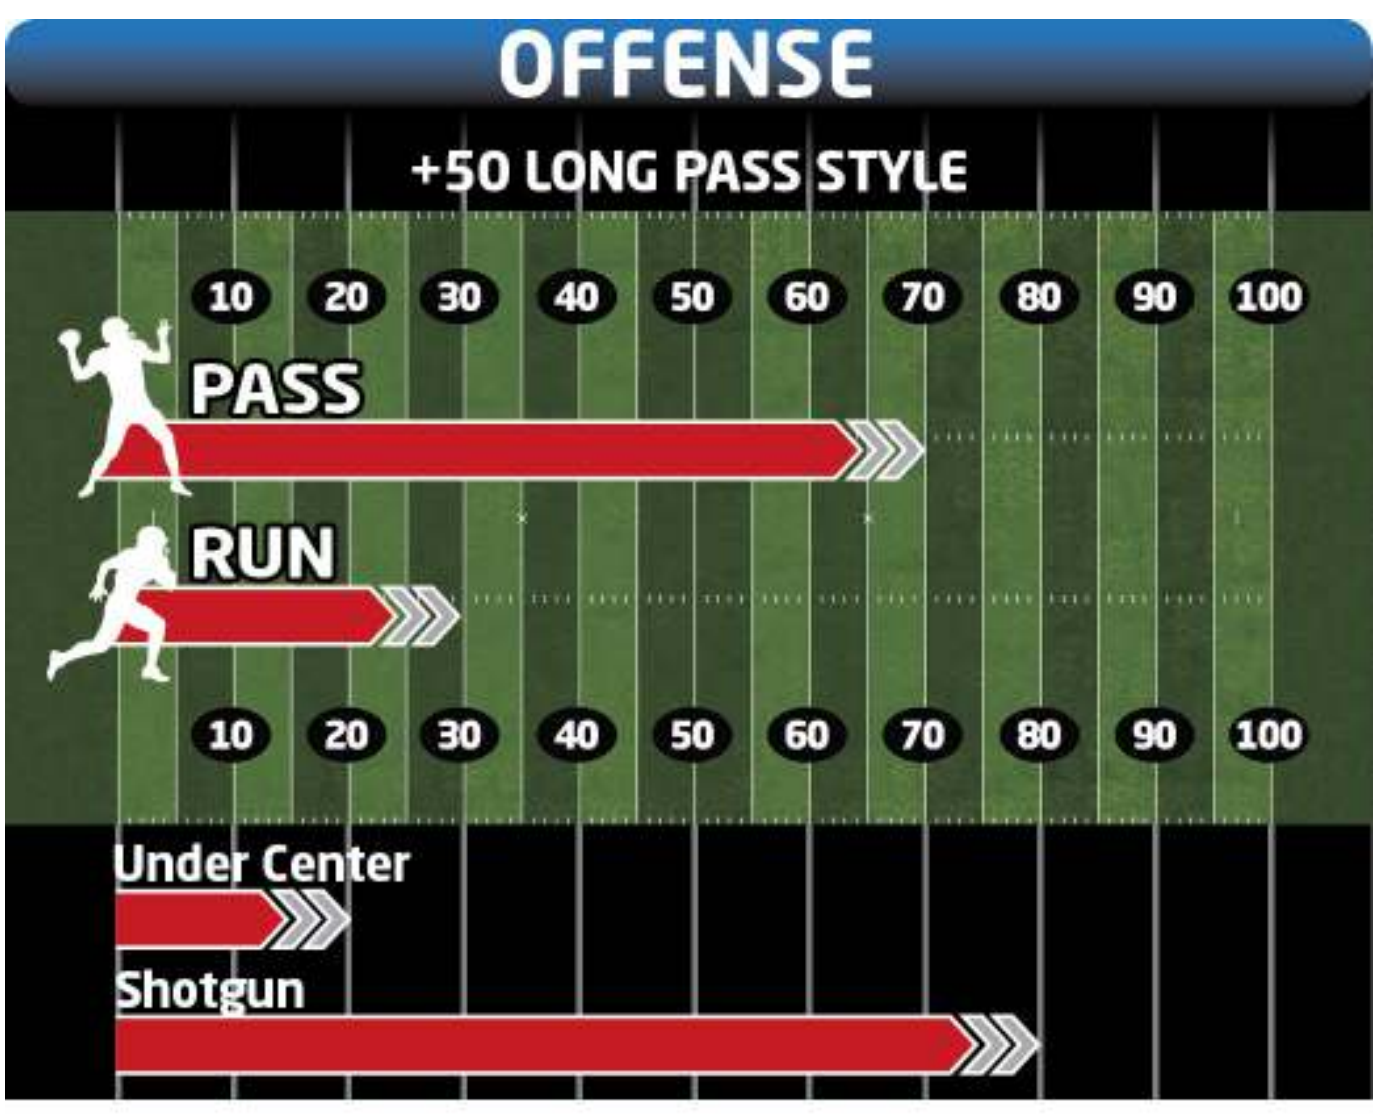
DT with 75+ Speed and 80+ Acceleration

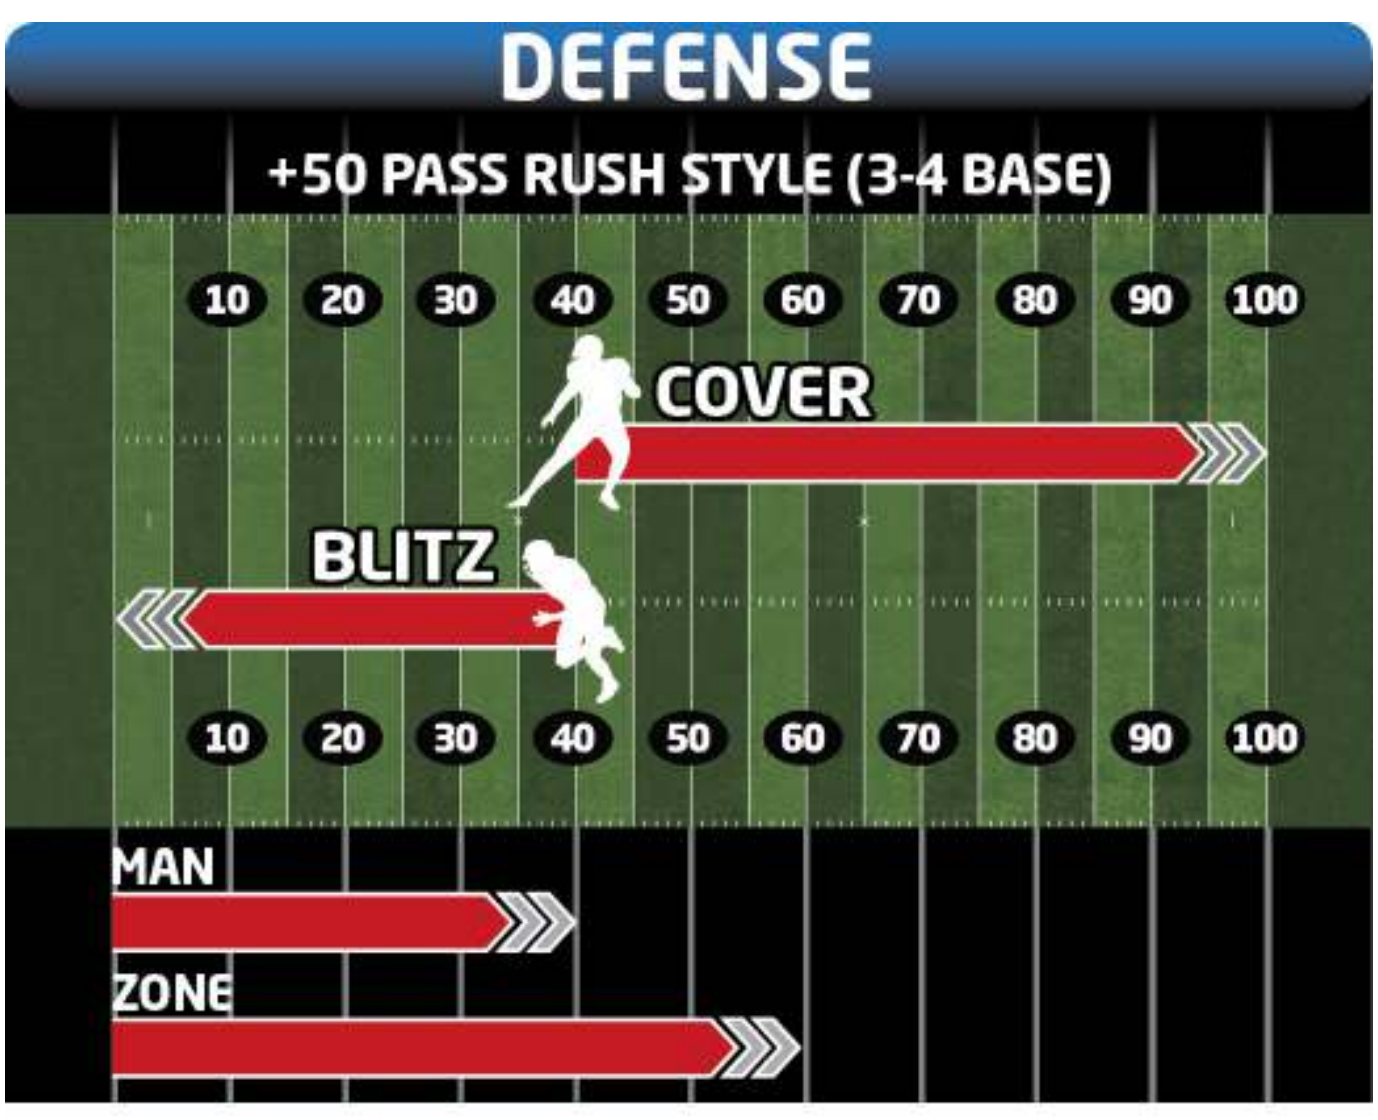
Formations

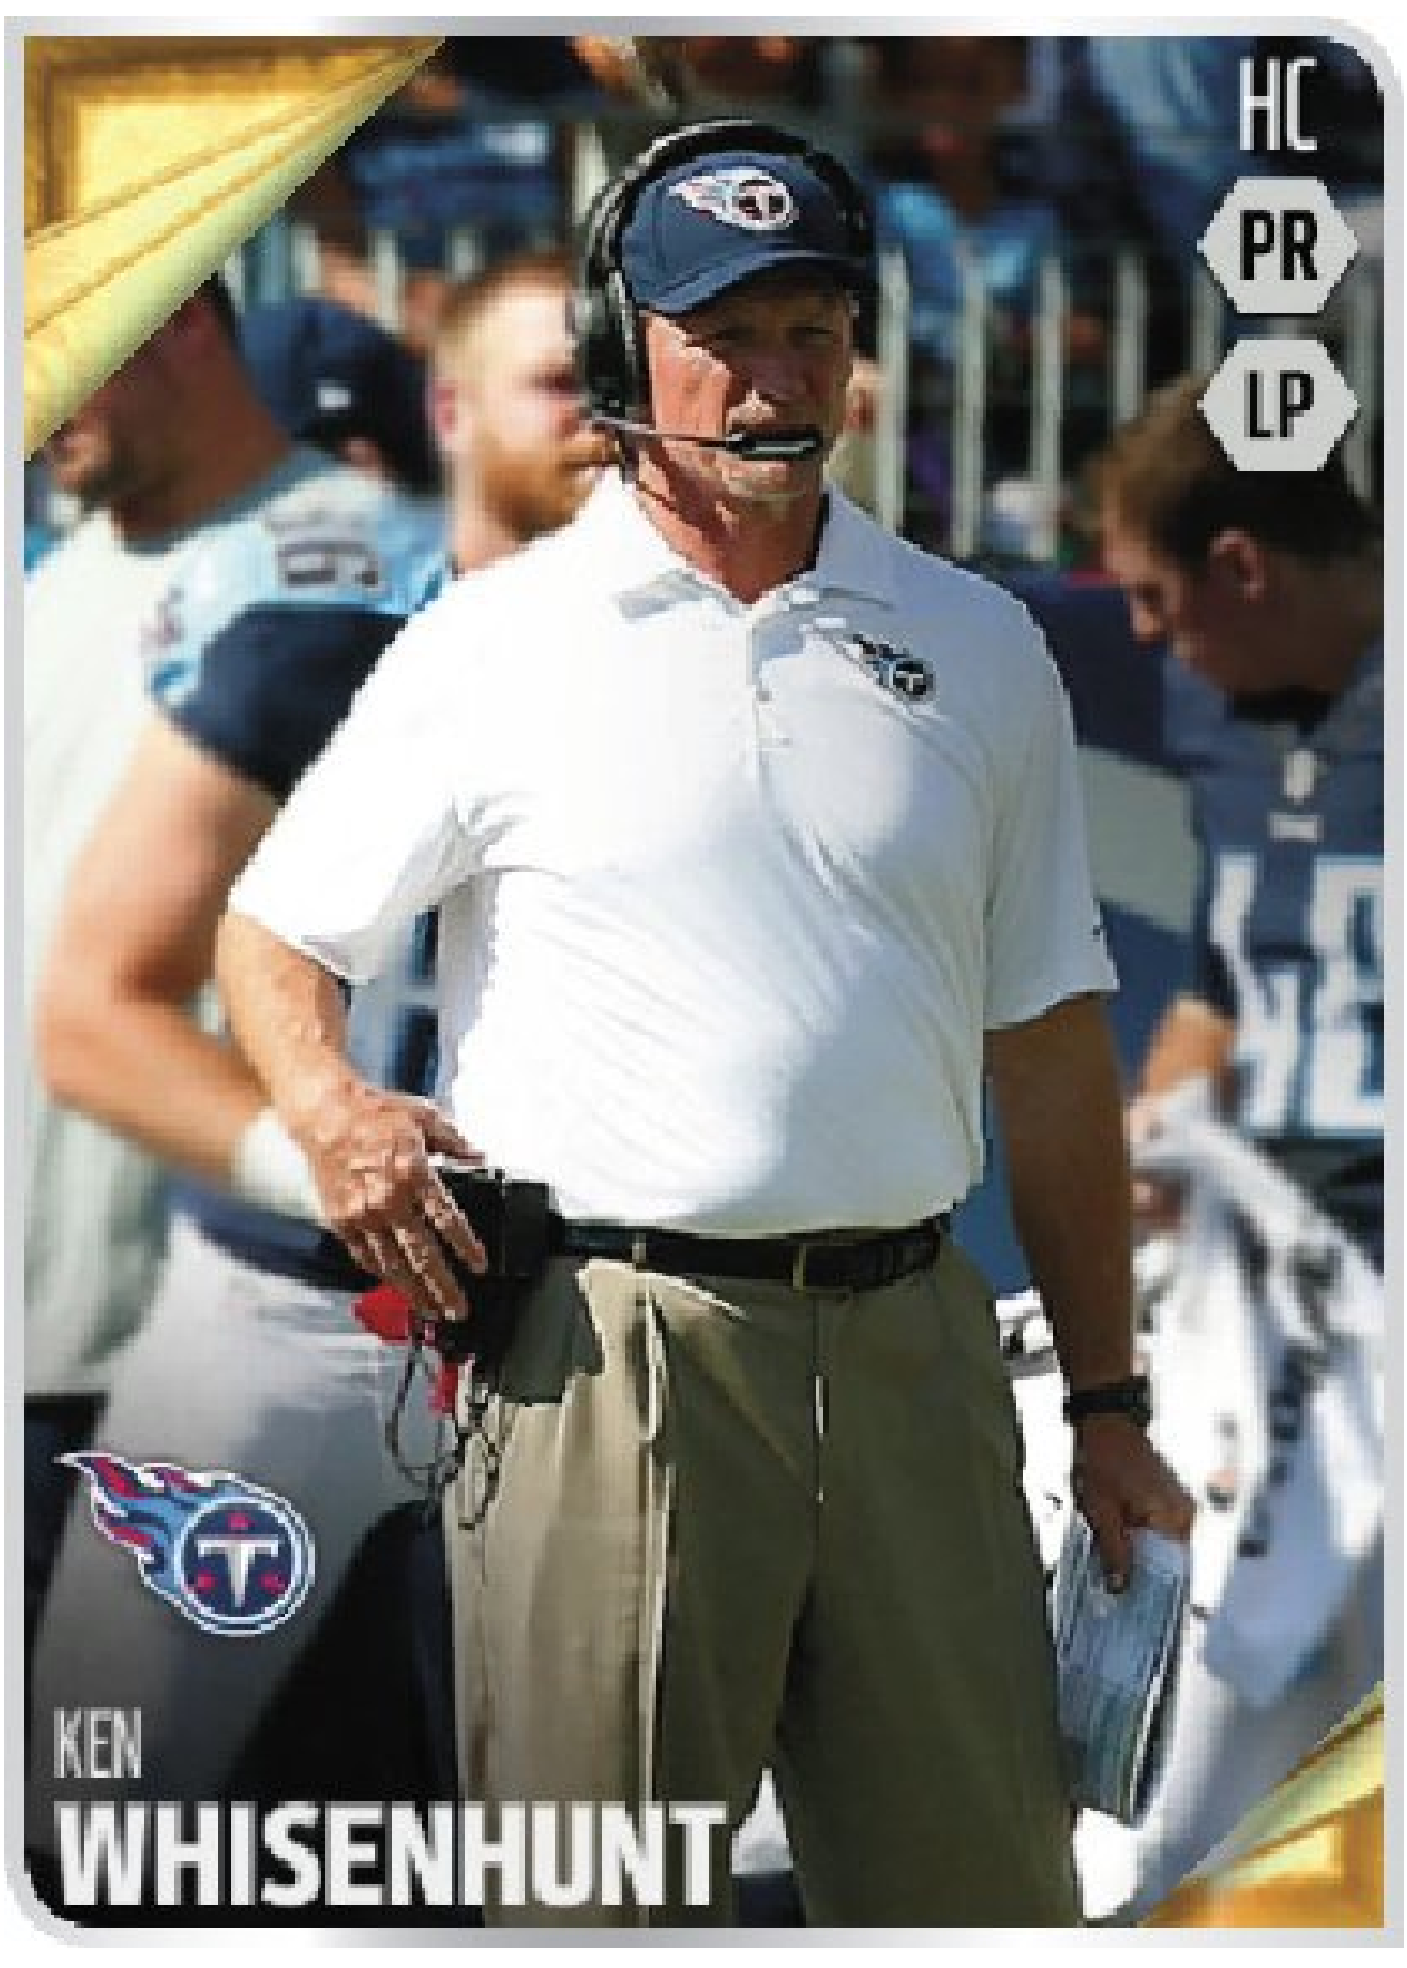
- 3-4: Odd, Under, Over Even, Solid

Draft Champions Mode

Tennessee Titans







Offense

The Titans' playbook is a solid way to test your opponent's pass defense. If you can come out early and spread them out, you will see your ground game open up in the second half.

Key Formation

Singleback Wing Trips Open is one of the few under-center Formations that have enough versatility to run all game. Pound the ball up the middle and then use quick throws to get it out in space.

Key Player

TE with 75+ Run Block

Formations

- Singleback: Ace Wing, Ace Close, Ace Twins, Pair Tight Twins, Ace Pair Twins, Bunch Ace, Doubles, Wing Trips Open
- I-Form: Pro, Pro Twins, Tight, Tight Pair
- Strong: H TE Flip, Tight Pair
- Weak: Close, Tight Pair
- Pistol: Y-Trips
- Gun: Doubles, Doubles Wk, Y-Trips HB Wk, Wing Trips Titan Wk, Trips TE, Bunch Wk, Tight Flex, Double Stack, Dbls Y-Flex Offset, Y-Trips Open, Trey Y-Flex, Trey Open, Empty Base Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- WR (SPD, RTE, CTH)
- QB (SAC, MAC, ACC)
- TE (RBK, STR, CIT)

PRO TIP

The Titans' playbook is another that benefits from having two TEs available, even if the second one is mainly a run blocker.

Defense

Tennessee boasts a 3-4 defensive front that is built around strong defenders on the line. If you get a few options at LB, aim for whoever is the strongest of the bunch.

Key Formation

The Big Dime 2-3-6 Will can give you some flexibility depending on how your draft ends up. As long as you get one strong defensive end or tackle, you will be set.

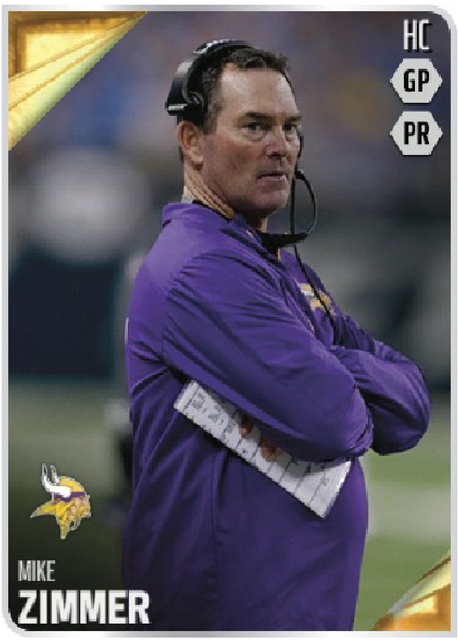
Key Player

CB with 80+ Zone Coverage

Formations

Draft Champions Mode

Minnesota Vikings



Offense

The Minnesota offensive scheme is built around an elite HB who takes pressure off the QB and allows him to make short throws. If the defense over-commits, having a WR with blazing speed will pay dividends.

Key Formation

Gun Split Viking is a formation that you can live in all game long. Learn to run all the different shotgun runs in this formation, and use it to set up the play action.

Key Player

HB with 90+ Speed

Formations

- Singleback: Jumbo Pair, Ace Close, Ace Pair, Ace Pair Twins, Bunch Ace, Tight Doubles On, Doubles, Y-Trips
- I-Form: Pro, Twins Flex, Tight Pair
- Strong: Close, Pro Twins
- Weak: Pro
- full house: Normal Wide
- Gun: Split Viking, Ace Twins Offset, Doubles Offset Wk, Dbls Wing Offset Wk, Y-Trips Offset, Y-Trips Wk, Wing Trips Vikes Wk, Trips TE Offset, Dbls Y-Flex Offset, Doubles Flex, Trey Y-Flex Wk, Trey Open, Empty Bunch, Empty Base Flex

OFFENSIVE Draft Targets

- HB (SPD, TRK, CTH)
- WR (SPD, ACC, SPC)
- TE (RBK, CIT, RTE)

PRO TIP

Being creative with screens and handoffs is a great way to get the ball in the hands of playmakers, no matter where they line up.

Defense

The Minnesota defensive scheme is a solid 4-3 book that doesn't require elite players up front to get the job done. Focus on getting solid depth and strength up front, but don't be afraid if a superstar isn't available.

Key Formation

Dime 46 Normal is a unique formation that can give your opponent a different look than they are used to seeing.

Key Player

FS with 88+ Speed

Formations

- 4-3: Stack, Under, Over, Over Plus, Wide 9

Connected Franchise Mode
Choosing a Path

No matter what role you want to play in Connected Franchise Mode this season, the first thing you need to do is to select a team. Check the lists in this chapter to find teams that fit into different categories and match your play style. You can always choose your favorite team, which is a great way to play, no matter what their ratings.

- Player: Selecting a player allows you to focus on controlling just one player. You choose the team you want to play on and focus on earning XP to upgrade your ratings. You can choose an active player or create your own. When creating your own you start as a rookie and choose your position, player type, and backstory.

- Coach: Playing as a coach gives you control over your entire team and allows you to sign, trade, and draft players. You will be responsible for offense and defense as you look to earn XP and progress and develop your players. Players can choose an active coach and take over their default traits, or they can create their own coach, which starts you as a rookie coach and allows you to choose your team.

- Owner: For players who want to control every aspect of their franchise, playing as an owner is the only way to go. Owners get to set all the prices off the field and still manage and coach the team on it. You can continue the legacy of a current owner or create a new one and start as a rookie. Creating a new owner allows you to choose a backstory that will affect your finances, team happiness, and fan happiness.

TOP 5 POSITION TYPES

Choosing a player can be an exciting way to experience Connected Franchise Mode. While it may be hard to compete against other humans who are controlling all aspects of their team, it can certainly be fun. It doesn't take as much planning week to week, and you can build up your player quickly since you are focusing mainly on him. Keeping in mind some of the gameplay features this season, here are our top recommendations for crafting player types.

5 ROUTE RUNNER WR

✔ Good Route Running

✔ Good Agility

✘ Decent Speed

✘ Decent Acceleration

✘ Poor Jumping

✘ Poor Size

Player Example: Odell Beckham Jr., Giants

Man-to-man defense is much tighter this year and will require a wide receiver with good route running to shake loose. Make sure to master the new run after catch (RAC) option, which will turn those short slants and drags into potential huge gains downfield. Until you boost your player's Catch in Traffic rating, work on the conservative catch on plays in traffic over the middle or near the sideline. Use the conservative catch to protect those crucial third-down catches and become your QB's go-to option on clutch downs.

4 STRONG ARM QB

✔ Great Arm Strength

✔ Good Deep Accuracy

✘ Poor Short Accuracy

✘ Poor Medium Accuracy

✘ Decent Awareness

Player Example: Matthew Stafford, Lions

Going downfield in Madden NFL 16 is completely different with a receiver who has the ability to get up for an aggressive catch. Passing accuracy is also very important, so a QB with a strong arm can really deliver some explosive plays. Make sure to use the new shot plays and rollouts to give your QB extra time for routes to develop downfield. Focus on building up short and medium accuracy for the long term. Consider a West Coast QB if you enjoy rollout plays, but be wary of going downfield until you upgrade his throwing power.

3 RECEIVING HB

✔ Good Catching

✔ Good Agility

✔ OK Route Running

✘ Decent Awareness

✘ Poor Trucking

✘ Poor Vision

Player Example: Shane Vereen, Giants

Catching the ball is more fun this year, and having a reliable option out of the backfield makes everything better. Work on your elusiveness to break more tackles in the open field. If you want a more balanced player who can be a threat in the running game, go with a speedy HB and upgrade his catching. Master the patience of a screen pass and waiting for your blockers to get out in front before accelerating.

2 PLAYMAKER FS

✔ Good Speed

✔ Good Acceleration

✔ Good Play Recognition

✘ Decent Man Coverage

✘ Decent Tackling

✘ Decent Zone Coverage

Player Example: Eric Weddle, Chargers

Defenders in Madden NFL 16 now have tools to go up and attack the ball at the highest point too. Learn how to judge the timing of whether to play ball or to play man and you will really benefit your overall defense. Develop your zone coverage to help knock out passes when playing defenses like Cover 2 man and Cover 2 zone. Pass rushing is as fun as ever, so if you aren't comfortable controlling a safety, go for a pass rusher, depending on what scheme your team runs.

1 RED ZONE THREAT WR

✔ Good Catch in Traffic

✔ Good Jumping

✔ Good Spectacular Catch

✘ Decent Speed

✘ Decent Catching

✘ Decent Agility

Player Example: Mike Evans, Buccaneers

With all the new catch mechanics in Madden NFL 16, no player benefits more than a big tall WR who can go up and make aggressive catches. If you focus on the Catch in Traffic rating, your player will be a favorite target of QBs even when seemingly covered. The timing should be easy to learn, and by holding the new aggressive catch buttons, you should see some spectacular catches and great WR/DB interaction. Consider a possession WR if you want to be slightly more balanced and like to work the sideline and middle of the field on routes.

4 SAN FRANCISCO 49ERS

- Offensive Scheme: Power Run
- Defensive Scheme: Base 3-4
- CPR Overall: 86
- Offense: 83
- Defense: 89

The 49ers have always been known for having a solid O-Line and can now add Jonathan Martin to the mix. Martin is a former 1st round pick who was a bit of a disappointment in Miami. Martin's former coach, Jim Harbaugh, is now in San Francisco. Harbaugh is a big fan of Martin and will get the most out of him. Martin will be a huge improvement over Anthony Davis. Davis is a bust. Martin is a former 1st round pick

RT	Zach Strief	Marcel Jones	—	—	—

The draft started out nicely with Calvin Johnson still being available late in the first round. Although he is nearing the end of his prime, his size is exactly what our scheme calls for. He was selected over younger talent like Odell Beckham Jr., who was still available. We were surprised to see Le'Veon Bell still available but it seemed that the computer was undervaluing him; Bell is so multitalented that it was like getting two picks in one. QBs went super fast, and we didn't have the chance to get a top-tier player, so we didn't mind waiting. Instead we will try to harness the ability of RGIII and brought in a strong-armed backup just in case. Our offensive line is extremely young and strong up the middle, as that is where our main run attack will go. We picked up a great run-blocking TE along with a sure-handed pass catcher for third downs. We selected Emmanuel Sanders for his ability to run after the catch and turn shorter passes into big gains. We closed out our WR corps with a rookie to develop heading forward who can play special teams for now.

Defensive Lineup

POS.	1	2	3	4	5
LE	Larry Webster	Michael Buchanan	—	—	—
RE	Dante Fowler Jr.	Randy Gregory	Vic Beasley Jr.	—	—
DT	Henry Melton	Isaac Sopoaga	—	—	—
LOLB	Thomas Davis	Jordan Zumwalt	—	—	—

ROLB	Justin Durant	Tavares Gooden	LaMarr Woodley	—	—
CB	Brandon Browner	Trae Waynes	Tharold Simon	Pierre Desir	Zack Bowman
FS	Harrison Smith	LaRon Landry	Dashon Goldson	—	—
SS	Donte Whitner	Deone Bucannon	—	—	—
K	Randy Bullock	—	—	—	—
P	Chris Jones	—	—	—	—

Our defense got a scheme in the second round with FS Harrison Smith, who is a big player with a zone coverage skill set. From there we wanted to fill out our defense and went with LB Thomas Davis. He is a bit on the older side but has proven to be a great player, especially in zone. We reached a bit early for CB Brandon Browner, but we loved his size and skill set. We will need to work on his penalty trait. We loaded up great young depth at CB with size and zone as the focus. Our LB corps finished out nicely with some solid veterans with high play recognition and some young stars in waiting. On the defensive line we went for one anchor with Isaac Sopoaga and one DT who can rush the passer. We loaded up with rookies at RE. All have different skills, and the smart bet is that at least one will hit! We looked for a speed rusher off the LE that we could drop into coverage, and he will be a key to our success.

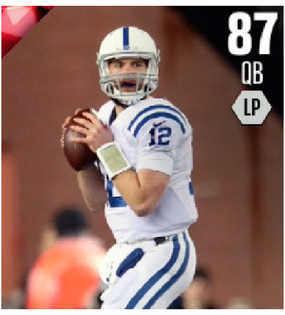
Top 5 Quarterback Items in MUT

Finding an accurate passer in Madden NFL 16 is crucial, especially with all the new upgrades to the passing game. By finding an elite passer early, you will be able to quickly gain confidence in your passing game and start moving the chains. QBs have more tools than ever before, and WRs are bigger weapons than ever before.

5 ANDREW LUCK



Style: Long Pass

Andrew Luck is one of the rising stars in the league and continues to lead his team deeper into the playoffs each season. There isn't a throw he can't make on the field, and his accuracy allows him to fit it into questionable windows at times. Russell Wilson is the only other elite QB who can come close to matching Luck's blend of speed and throwing power.

TIP

Luck can use his speed as a threat in the red zone.

4 BEN ROETHLISBERGER

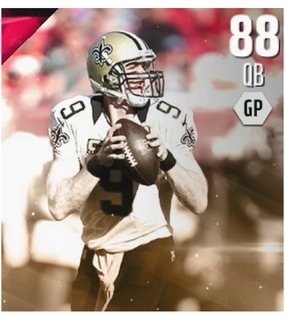
Style: Short Pass

Big Ben is one of the best pocket-passing QBs in the league. Take advantage of his excellent strength by hanging tough in the pocket and waiting for your receivers to get open. Make sure to try a few shots downfield each game, because his arm has the range.

TIP

Big Ben can shrug off would-be tacklers and keep plays alive in the pocket.

3 DREW BREES



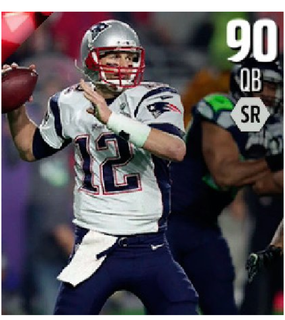
Style: Ground and Pound

Brees may not have the throwing power of some of the younger QBs in the league, but his accuracy keeps him in the top 5. Aside from Peyton Manning and Tom Brady, there are no other pocket passers who can deliver throws that allow receivers to turn upfield and pick up yards after the catch. If you learn the throws Brees can and can't make he will be a star for your team.

TIP

Trust Brees to throw into tight windows in the intermediate area of the field. He is that good.

2 TOM BRADY



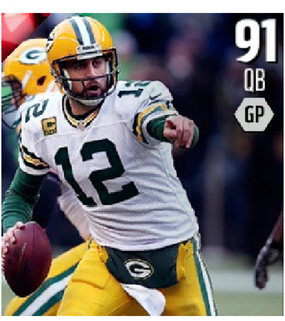
Style: Speed Run

Tom Brady proved last season that, despite his age, he remains a top 5 QB. Brady still has a big arm when he needs it, but he is much better off in the intermediate passing game. Brady will rarely miss short throws, which is something very important to success in Madden NFL 16.

TIP

Brady is excellent at throwing accurate passes to RBs coming out of the backfield.

1 AARON RODGERS



Style: Ground and Pound

Rodgers has slowed down a bit but remains the best all-around passer in the game. His ability to zip passes into tight windows looks simple but can't be replicated by average QBs. If you have Aaron Rodgers, there is simply no type of offense you can't run and no throw you can't make.

TIP

Rodgers can make all of the new QB passing mechanics this year look simple.

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Halfback Items in MUT

Most players utilize a run-first offense early in the season while they are still looking to build confidence in their passing game. This year, both power backs and elusive backs can be effective with the right play calls. Consider grabbing a backup who is a solid receiver for third downs. However, if you get one of these elite backs, you should let him carry the load for the offense.

5 JAMAAL CHARLES

Style: Short Pass

Jamaal Charles is an excellent back, and not just because of his breakaway speed. Charles also has excellent hands out of the backfield and is one of the best route runners in MUT. If he gets matched up against a linebacker, he will win almost every time.

TIP

Charles is an absolute burner who can break a big play any time he touches the ball!

4 ADRIAN PETERSON

Style: Speed Run

Adrian Peterson can defeat tacklers with both power and elusive moves, which makes him one of the most versatile backs in Ultimate Team. To prevent fumbles, make sure to cover up the ball, and avoid taking unnecessary hits.

TIP

Peterson is very balanced between power and elusiveness, so defenders rarely bring him down on the first attempt.

3 LE'VEON BELL

Style: Ground and Pound

Bell is a powerful runner with a great arsenal of moves to defeat tacklers. While most power runners tend to be straight-ahead-style players, Bell can quickly cut and change lanes. He also is an every-down back, which provides great value to any team.

TIP

Bell proved he belonged in the top 5 last year with an excellent all-around season.

2 DEMARCO MURRAY

Style: Long Pass

Murray has such a tremendous blend of power and speed that not only can he knock over tacklers, but also he can run right past them! Murray is another rare combo player who has hands to go along with his power and is a very valuable back to an offense.

TIP

Murray is an every-down back.

1 MARSHAWN LYNCH

Style: Short Pass

Lynch is the best trucking back in the game and should be used to build a power run offense! While Alfred Morris, LeGarrette Blount, and Eddie Lacy are all solid trucking backs, Lynch is simply head and shoulders better. He will convert consistently in short yardage to keep the chains moving for your offense.

TIP

Lynch is an incredibly powerful back and should be trusted with every snap at the goal line.

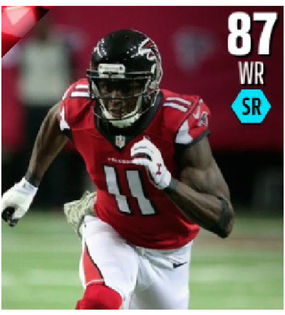
Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Wide Receiver Items in MUT

A dominant WR is a real force in Madden NFL 16, especially with all the new catching mechanics. Those elite-level players can ball your QB out on a bad throw and make some spectacular plays. Continue to feed these players the ball until the defense commits to double-teaming them. They may be covered, but they are always open!

5 JULIO JONES



Style: Speed Run

Julio Jones is capable of making every catch type look routine. With a great blend of size and speed, Julio is like a combination of A.J. Green and the more powerful Demaryius Thomas. Jones has everything in one package and can beat nearly any DB one-on-one.

TIP

Jones is the perfect option for players who want to use a speed-run style. Try pairing him with QB Tom Brady.

4 ODELL BECKHAM JR.

Style: Short Pass

Odell Beckham Jr. exploded onto the scene last season and quickly showed off his top 5 talent. Odell Beckham Jr. is an all-around talent and has the added bonus of making highlight reel plays for your offense. If you want spectacular catches, this is your receiver.

TIP

Odell Beckham Jr. may not be the tallest WR in the game, but his Spectacular Catch rating makes him play big!

3 CALVIN JOHNSON

Style: Ground and Pound

Johnson has one of the biggest bodies in all of Ultimate Team and can consistently make an aggressive catch downfield. There is no single defender in the game who isn't a mismatch, so adding Megatron to your lineup will pay off big.

TIP

Megatron is still the most dominant force when throwing downfield into coverage.

2 DEZ BRYANT

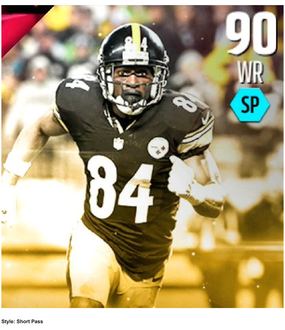
Style: Long Pass

Dez Bryant has turned into a red zone machine who is able to hang onto balls in traffic. Bryant is our favorite midrange receiver because he consistently fights defenders for catches and hangs onto them.

TIP

Bryant has a knack for finding the end zone and should be trusted on fade routes.

1 ANTONIO BROWN



Style: Short Pass

Brown is an excellent choice for the top receiver spot because he really benefits from the new RAC (run after catch) move in Madden NFL 16. Brown can run any type of route, so making sure to use all the different types of catches will ensure he earns his number one spot.

TIP

Brown is one of the must-have players if you struggle to beat man coverage; his route running is excellent.

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Tight End Items in MUT

Tight ends in Madden NFL 16 are some of the biggest and fastest players in the game. Use them to give your scheme a new level of options and deception. Will you keep your TE in to block or split him out wide in the red zone to use his size advantage? By moving these stars all over your formations, you can truly attack the defense anywhere.

5 JULIUS THOMAS

Style: Long Pass

Thomas is an excellent option in the red zone because of his size. His ability to out-jump defenders gives him a big advantage. Thomas should get separation from most defenders unless you split him out wide against a great press corner.

TIP

Thomas can out-jump defenders, so don't worry about throwing it to him when he is one-on-one.

4 GREG OLSEN

Style: Short Pass

Olsen is one of the best options in the game for players who can't grab Rob Gronkowski. Olsen can block and run every route that his peers can. He will also hang onto passes in traffic and has the size to steal even a bad throw from the QB away from the defense.

TIP

Olsen is a very well-rounded TE who can break big gains after the catch.

3 JASON WITTEN

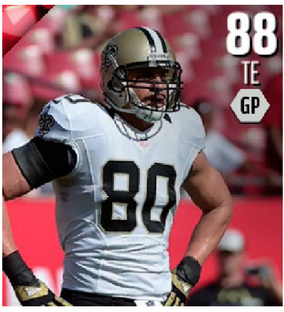
Style: Speed Run

Witten is a perfect option for players who like to use their TEs as reliable options on third down. Witten won't burn past too many defenders, but his ability to hang onto passes is extremely valuable for certain offenses. He has a big frame and can shield defenders away; especially on low throws.

TIP

Witten is an excellent safety valve who has been converting big third downs for a long time.

2 JIMMY GRAHAM



Style: Ground and Pound

Graham is hands down the biggest and best receiving option in Ultimate Team, and he will really benefit from the offense's ability to throw high-point passes. Graham can line up anywhere in a formation and win a matchup against any type of defender. Make sure to use aggressive catches to get big over the defense!

TIP

Graham is basically a WR, and many playbooks have formations where you can split a TE out wide to get a mismatch.

1 ROB GRONKOWSKI

Style: Long Pass

Gronk is the best TE in Ultimate Team because he can simply do it all. He is a beast when it comes to run blocking but can also run crisp routes even with his incredible size. He has the speed to attack the seam and the size to pull aggressive catches down over defenders.

TIP

Gronkowski is once again a force in the red zone — throw to him unless he is in double or triple coverage!

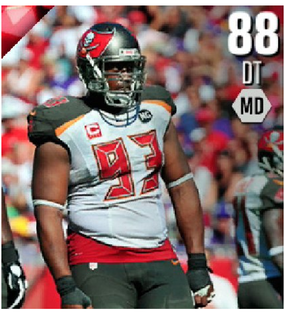
Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Defensive Linemen Items in MUT

Defensive linemen are often overlooked in MUT, but their ability to get pressure on the QB can make defending the passing game so much easier. Keep an eye out for players who have the strength and block shedding to stop the run, as they can be tough to find. While most players have one skill, the best of the best are all-around forces that the offense must pay attention to on every snap.

5 GERALD MCCOY (DT)



Style: Man Defense

Gerald McCoy is prototypical 4-3 defensive tackle who has enough strength to stop the run but also can get after the passer. These types of players are extremely rare, so hang onto them and understand their value. McCoy is so good that he can even play in a 3-4 defense if needed.

TIP

McCoy is one of the best defenders in MUT at rushing the QB from the interior of the line.

4 ROBERT QUINN (RE)

Style: Run Stuff

Quinn has a rare combination of size and power that allows him to attack any tackle in the game. He is capable of bringing down not only QBs with his great pursuit, but also ball carriers. Make sure to keep Quinn in a 4-3, where he will really excel at rushing off the edge.

TIP

Quinn is one of the most powerful rushing ends.

3 CAMERON WAKE (LE)

Style: Run Stuff

Cameron Wake is perfect for 4-3 teams that want to get after the passer all game long. Wake has an array of pass moves and can even slide inside and still get pressure on passing downs. Try switching up his assignments to take advantage of his elite athletic ability.

TIP

Wake is so talented that he can drop into coverage and take away an offense's first read.

2 NDAMUKONG SUH (DT)

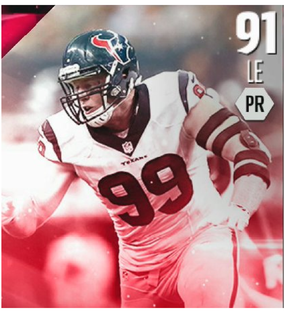
Style: Zone Defense

Suh is an ideal defensive tackle in the 4-3 and will easily clog up rushing lanes. Where he becomes a nightmare for the offense is on third and long, where he can use his elite pass-rushing moves to get after the QB. Suh will consistently destroy even elite interior linemen.

TIP

Suh is so strong that he can play any position on the defensive line in a 3-4 scheme, too.

1 J.J. WATT (LE)



Style: Pass Rush

Watt is hands down the best defensive item in Ultimate Team due to his ability to play any position on the defensive line. Watt can terrorize defenses from a 3-4 or 4-3 look and has the quickness to get pressure from the inside or the outside. He is a great run stopper and can even score off turnovers.

TIP

J.J. Watt can dominate at any position on the entire defensive line.

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Linebacker Items in MUT

Finding a great LB who can control the middle of the defense or rush off the edge is imperative to building a great defense. Make sure to determine if you have a 3-4 or 4-3 defense, because it will impact the number and type of players you need. OLBs are some of the most versatile players in the game because they can rush the passer, drop into coverage, or even drop down to defensive end. You can never have enough studs at the LB position in Madden NFL 16.

5 TERRELL SUGGS (ROLB)

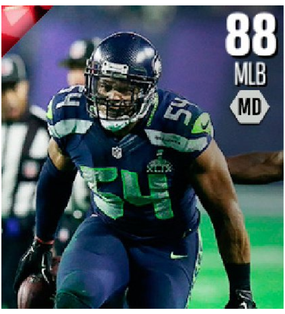
Style: Pass Rush

Suggs is not only capable of rushing the passer and delivering big hits, he also does a great job in the run game. Allow him to play the 3-4 OLB positions, and any edge runs should get bottled up before they get outside.

TIP

Suggs is the best defender at setting the edge in the run game with his strength and block shedding.

4 BOBBY WAGNER (MLB)



Style: Man Defense

Wagner is one of the fastest LBs in Ultimate Team, and he can unleash devastating hits that force turnovers. Wagner is the perfect player in a 4-3 defense to mix in man coverage and slow down routes to the TE.

TIP

Wagner has a rare blend of speed and hit power. He can force turnovers for your defense.

3 LUKE KUECHLY (MLB)

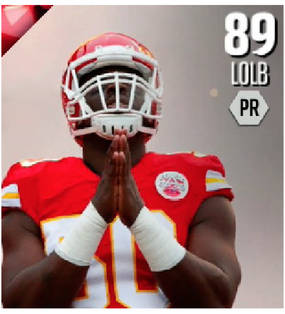
Style: Zone Defense

Kuechly is one of the smartest defenders in MUT and is perfect for zone coverage. Leave him in a hook zone over the middle and allow his play recognition skill to do the work. He is a sure tackler and will lock down anything that comes through his area.

TIP

Kuechly is the ultimate set-it-and-forget-it LB. His play recognition is outstanding.

2 JUSTIN HOUSTON (LOLB)



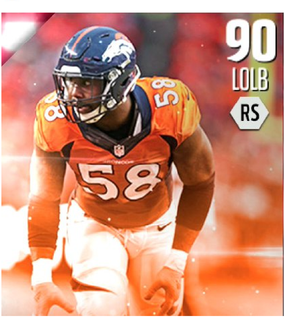
Style: Pass Rush

Houston is built to rush the passer from the 3-4 defense. However, he is so talented and strong that even a 4-3 defense could use him at defensive end to get pressure. No matter what defense you like to play, unleashing him at the QB is a smart idea.

TIP

Houston can be a one-man pass rush for your defense, so don't worry if it takes a ton to get him on your team.

1 VON MILLER (LOLB)



Style: Run Stuff

Miller has excellent pass-rushing moves to go along with his speed and hit power. Miller is the best because he can drop into coverage or rush the passer and the offense can't key on him! Miller is so excellent that either a 3-4 or 4-3 defense will work for him.

TIP

Miller is an excellent pass rusher, but he can also cover most TEs pretty consistently.

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Cornerback Items in MUT

Cornerbacks have an all-new value in Madden NFL 16 because now they can become playmakers and knock the ball away from receivers. An elite CB who can take away a number one WR on his own will make your entire defense better. Look for players who have a high Man Coverage or Zone Coverage rating depending on what style you want to play. Interceptions should be on the rise this season, and finding a CB who can get into position will be a big bonus.

5 PATRICK PETERSON

Style: Man Defense

Patrick Peterson is one of the most athletic CBs in the game, and he has the size to match up with nearly any receiver. Players who like to play man defense can look for him to be a lockdown player. If you like to mix it up a bit more, go with the more balanced but smaller Joe Haden.

TIP

In addition to being an excellent defender, Patrick Peterson is dynamic on special teams as a returner.

4 CHRIS HARRIS

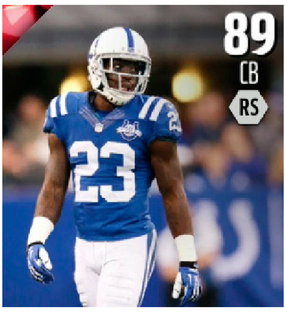
Style: Pass Rush

Harris is the perfect option to match up against smaller receivers who try to use great route running to get open. If you place Harris in the slot on man coverage, he will completely lock down any quick passes over the middle and frustrate your opponent.

TIP

Harris is a lock-down man defender who won't give much separation to receivers on their cuts.

3 VONTAE DAVIS



Style: Run Stuff

Davis is one of the most physical secondary players in Ultimate Team. While he isn't enormous, his ability to press receivers at the line lets him match up with bigger players. His Man Coverage rating will have him knocking passes out of receivers' hands all game.

TIP

Take advantage of Davis's ability to jam receivers at the line of scrimmage.

2 RICHARD SHERMAN

Style: Man Defense

Sherman is always one of the most popular players in MUT because of his ability to stop bigger WRs from catching balls downfield. He often turns into a playmaker of his own and can even turn defense into offense with interceptions.

TIP

Sherman is the CB you need to shut down big WRs who want to go for aggressive catches.

1 DARRELLE REVIS

Style: Zone Defense

Revis is extremely balanced and can play nearly any type of coverage for your defense. Take advantage of his ability to get up at the line and slow down receivers. Mix in plenty of man coverage to get your value.

TIP

Revis can stick with nearly any WR on his own all game long!

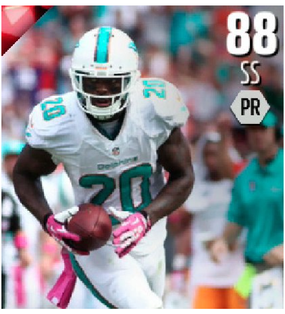
Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Safety Items in MUT

Knowing what to look for in a safety can completely change the way you play defense in Madden NFL 16. A great coverage safety can quickly cover ground and make plays that will frustrate the offense. A hard-hitting safety can drop down into the box and make the offense think twice about running the ball. Use these players to disguise your defense and force turnovers, which will have you winning more games.

5 RESHAD JONES (SS)



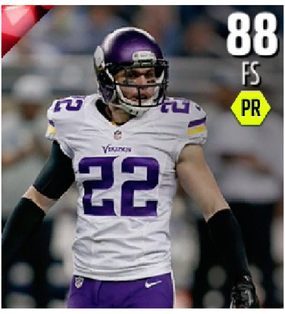
Style: Pass Rush

Jones's stock has been climbing consistently in Ultimate Team, and now he has cracked the top 5 with a great ability to be a stout defender in the run game. Jones has a good combination of pursuit and hit power that leads to him being a sure tackler.

TIP

Jones is a solid all-around talent who can be moved around before the snap to take advantage of his abilities.

4 HARRISON SMITH (FS)



Style: Pass Rush

Smith is a very young talent who is quickly getting lots of attention. Smith is the perfect safety for Cover 2 man defenses because he has great zone coverage and the size to get over and help his corners.

TIP

Smith has premiere size, which is crucial to building a great MUT secondary.

3 EARL THOMAS III (FS)

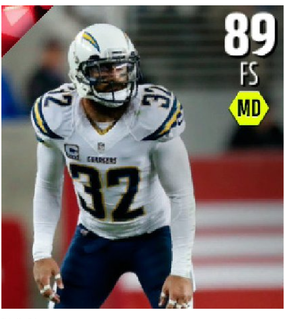
Style: Run Stuff

Thomas is an ideal safety for defenses that like to play a Cover 3 or commit their strong safety up in the box to stop the run. Thomas has the speed and ability to recognize plays as they are happening, which helps him play almost like two defenders in one.

TIP

Thomas is one of the quickest defenders in MUT, and his ability to break up and intercept passes is legendary!

2 ERIC WEDDLE (FS)



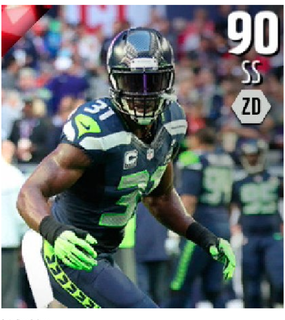
Style: Man Defense

Weddle doesn't have the best size, but he always seems to be around the ball making plays. You can rely on Weddle no matter what type of defense you want to play, and he will show up game in and game out. He may not have the hit power, but he is a sure tackler at the free safety spot, which can be rare.

TIP

Weddle is another player who has the play recognition to be in the correct spot at nearly all times.

1 KAM CHANCELLOR (SS)



Style: Zone Defense

With his size and hit power, Chancellor is one of the most intimidating players in Madden Ultimate Team. He is basically like an extra LB up in the box, but he can also match up with most TEs in the game and can slow down routes over the middle.

TIP

Chancellor is the perfect player to run Cover 1 Robber coverage with.

MUT Offensive Style Builds: Ground and Pound

GENERAL STRATEGY

For players who love a power running attack, the ground and pound is a great style. Focus on building a strong offensive line with great run blocking to counter the strength and block shedding of a defensive line. Pick up a halfback whose trucking is better than his elusiveness, and learn to time your ability to break tackles with the right stick. Focus on building more of a between-the-tackles run game as opposed to heading outside. Learn to control the clock and cut down on turnovers to maximize your winning.

GENERAL STRATEGY

The speed-run style is perfect for a player who prefers to run outside the tackles and can make moves in the open field. While you won't have the consistency of a ground-and-pound attack, you can break off big runs that will frustrate opponents who can't contain you. MUT Offensive Style Builds: Short Pass

GENERAL STRATEGY

Players who want a balanced attack that is slightly in favor of passing the ball should look to build a short-pass style. If you throw quick routes to your backs and slot receiver, you can decrease how much you need to rely on the run game. Be sure to take the open read when it comes available, rather than waiting to go downfield. By making the smart consistent throw, you can limit your turnovers and keep the chains moving.

Top 5 Ways to Maximize Your Coins

Earning coins is one of the keys to building your ultimate team. Think about what your goals are when you start saving up your coins. Are you looking to be a head-to-head player or grind out solo challenges vs the CPU? Are you mainly into MUT for the collecting aspect and want to complete sets? Your focus will change your path slightly, but it doesn't change the fact that having more coins is always better than having fewer coins. By keeping a solid reserve of coins available, you will always be ready to pounce on deals and keep building your stack.

5 GRIND OUT SOLO CHALLENGES

New players are always looking for the quickest ways to earn coins, and solo challenges are a great place to start. There are plenty of great challenges that match your skill level early in the game and allow you to start building up to bigger rewards. Take a day or two and work on completing as many as you can; the sooner you get them done the more valuable the rewards will be. You should be able to get your time for each game down to a science and really maximize your coins.

TIP

Playing head-to-head seasons is a great way to earn coins, too. The rewards get bigger the higher you climb.

4 PLAY THE PROMOS

There are always great opportunities to build up your coins during promo events when new items come onto the market. Often you get rewards that go into sets, but instead you could flip yours for coins, especially if the reward doesn't interest you. Consider what the best path to making coins is and try to capitalize.

TIP

If a reward is a player who doesn't fit your team, you can always auction him on the market!

3 PULL PACKS

Opening packs is one of the best parts of building your ultimate team. The more packs you open, the more chances you have to get back valuable items that you can either use in your lineup or sell to the highest bidder at the Auction House. Manage your binder and try to get your value back from nearly all the items you pull (not just players). By spending some time checking the market, you can find some players who return more than you expect! Use all the filters available when searching to find the best deals, and then consider flipping your purchase for coins if you find a great deal.

TIP

Check the bundle topper to see if it is something you can use for your team or on the market.

2 PLAY THE WAITING GAME

For most player items in MUT, the longer you wait to pick them up on the market, the less they will cost. Over the course of a season, new content comes out each day that can lower the price of older items. Be patient and figure out the true positions, ratings, and players that are worth spending on for your scheme. If you really value QB items, consider getting the latest and greatest item, but know that you will likely spend some extra coins to get it on day 1. This also goes for players you test out and don't want to keep, so make sure to post them back as soon you know they aren't a fit for your lineup to get as much value back as possible.

TIP

It can be tough to keep up with the newest cards for a whole season, but you can look for similar items that may be a week or two older to save coins.

1 BE READY FOR SETS

The wealthiest players in MUT are the best at managing their binder and being ready for new sets to drop. They keep track of all the content in a notebook or online and are ready to strike while the values are at their peak. Consider holding onto and waiting to sell certain items in your binder when they are at their peak value, like in a set. By keeping an eye on the market each day, you will start to learn how things fluctuate each week, and you can quickly get well onto your way to becoming a MUT millionaire.

TIP

Keeping an eye on social media can be a great way to hear about the newest sets and items in MUT!

Top 5 Solo Challenge Tips on Offense

Often, the team with possession last is the one that wins the game. This can be a stressful way to take on solo challenges, but it can make them go by quickly. Smart players learn to maximize their possessions: They like to kick off and score before the half, and they are always looking to win on a field goal. Here are the best ways to increase your win percentage in solo challenges, to beat them faster, and to make more coins.

5 FIND A PLAYBOOK

Madden NFL 16 has no shortage of great playbooks, so finding one to fit your style should be easy. Most playbooks cover all the basic concepts, so it really comes down to what players you have and what formations you are comfortable using. Head into practice mode with a new book just to check out all your options before starting. Find plays for each situation and develop some formations you are comfortable running and passing from. Against the CPU, quick audibles and hot routes are very valuable, so learn to use them.

TIP

You shouldn't be changing your playbooks more than once per week. When you find a good one, dig deep and stick with it.

4 GO MOBILE

One of the toughest things for the CPU to defend is a dual-threat QB who can beat the defense with both his arm and his legs. If you have a chance, get a mobile QB even just as a backup and put him in him to fool the defense. Poor decisions can lead to turnovers with a mobile QB, so be smart. Turnovers are one of the quickest ways to lose challenges, but with a smart game plan, you can eliminate opportunities to lose possession!

TIP

Using your QB's legs in the red zone can be a great way to surprise a defense!

3 TAKE THE POINTS

If your drive doesn't end with a TD, taking the points is the smart option on anything over fourth and inches. While it can feel frustrating to get stopped or to not score a TD, taking the points is consistently the smartest move when taking on the CPU. The earlier in the game you get on the scoreboard, the better the position you will be in. If you are consistently stalling in the red zone, work on some new plays in practice mode for those specific situations.

TIP

Learn whether you can rely on your defense or if you need to go for it on 4th and short to win.

2 FIND A MISMATCH

Depending on your opponent in the challenge, their lineup will have certain strengths and weaknesses. Find any advantage that you have and look to exploit it. If you have a dominant offensive line or a big tall WR, look to get them in good situations to make plays. Every team is different, so taking a second to look for your opponent's best players with the matchup stick before the snap can be a very wise move.

TIP

Take a look before the snap to see if you have an advantage at the WR position.

1 CHEW THE CLOCK

Pounding the rock is an excellent way to defeat the computer in solo challenges. Not only does it cut down on the risk of turnovers, but it keeps the clock moving and limits possessions. Use the Cover Up button to help prevent your HB from fumbling, especially at the end of games or when running up the middle. Consider keeping a good trucking HB with high carry skills on the bench to ice the game. Using the Chew Clock option at the play-calling screen can make those seconds tick off and help the coins rack up.

TIP

Winning is the only thing that matters; win quickly rather than by 100 points!

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Solo Challenge Tips on Defense

Defense not only wins championships in Madden NFL 16, it also can help you win solo challenges with ease. Having a stout defense that can get a well-timed sack and stop the run is the key to completing solo challenges quickly. Here are our favorite ways to lock up on defense and earn more coins to build our ultimate team.

5 USE FORMATION SUBS

It will cost you coins in the long run to keep additional players on your roster, even on the bench. A big key to fielding a great team is to get value from every position. Aim to build your lineup to fit your most important defensive set and then use formation subs at the play-calling screen to fit players in. For most solo challenges, you shouldn't need to have a full roster of backups to defeat the computer consistently. You can pay up front for a highly rated player who can do it all or pick up two lower-rated players who can each do one thing well and then sub them in to maximize their ratings.

TIP

Build your defense around your favorite formation and use it on over half your play calls.

4 FIND A USER DEFENDER

Look for a big, fast defender with poor play recognition to user-control on your defense. By taking control of him, you can react to plays quickly once you read what the opponent is doing. This is a great way to take a lower-rated player and increase his level of play. This should help you save coins in one area so that you can spend them on a position like CB to match up with an opponent's number one wideout.

TIP

You always want to user-control the most vulnerable area of your defensive play call!

3 STUFF THE RUN

Stopping the run on early downs is crucial to getting the offense in a bad situation on third and long. If you don't have a solid run-defense formation that you are comfortable with, you will be vulnerable to play-action passes. Make the computer run everything inside by spreading your defensive line in early downs. Their best runs will come if you lose containment to the outside, so protect there early. If you get them to a short-yardage situation, then look for the up-the-middle run. Keeping the ball in your possession during solo challenges really speeds them up, and stopping the run is important.

TIP

Run-committing is rarely needed, but it can be a big win on third and short if it forces a punt.

2 LEARN CONCEPTS

Keep an eye on the game situation and formation that the computer is calling to give you some potential information about what play they are looking to call. On third and short, they are more likely to call a concept like stick, where you will want to be ready to jump underneath and shade your coverage down. On third and long, they are more likely to use a verticals concept, so you want to protect the deep middle, especially to the TE. You will start to recognize patterns after seeing just one route on a play, and that will let your user get into a good position. Every playbook shares similar concepts — the difference is the formation!

TIP

Using coverage shading before the snap is extremely important when playing the CPU and using zone coverage.

1 GET A BLITZ

Getting the opponent to third and long is the key to winning solo challenges. It will make them one-dimensional and force them to pass the ball, which allows you to blitz. Learn how to sneak a slot CB in on a blitz off the edge, and the QB can either dump it off for a short gain or hold the ball and take a sack. This can also lead to turnovers, which is the quickest way to get a victory.

TIP

Make sure to have a secondary blitz call that can get in when an opponent blocks the HB!

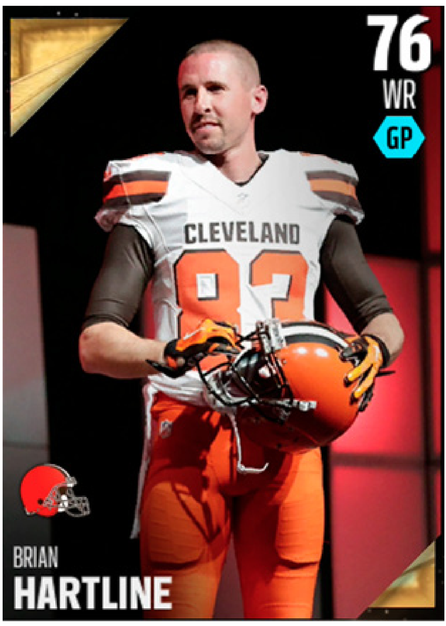
Top Offensive Budget Items in MUT

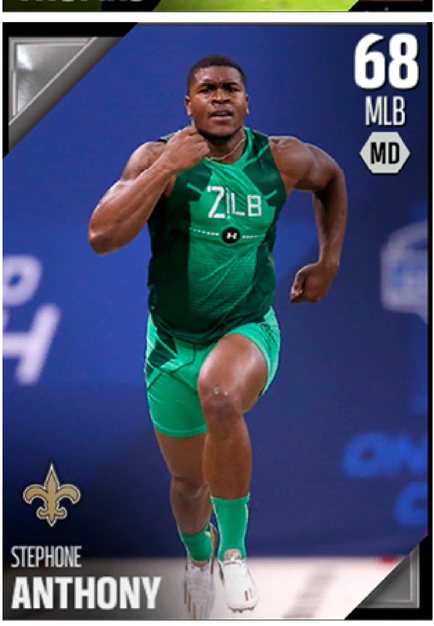
Early in the season, coins and elite players are at a premium. The key to getting ahead is to find some lower-rated players who can perform at a high level when placed into the right lineup and scheme. Here are some of our favorite offensive players if you are looking to build up your budget offense. Use these players to their strengths and they should deliver you plenty of wins early in the season to get your team on the right track.



Madden Ultimate Team

Top Defensive Budget Items in MUT

Defense is often the side of the ball that is overlooked in Ultimate Team, as most players will try to light up the scoreboard first. The good news is that there are plenty of great value players on defense that can deliver results if fit into the right scheme and playbook. Make sure to find a good playbook and think about where you struggle. If you can't stop the run, find some strong defensive linemen to help out. Once you realize that two players can be as good as one if you're willing to make some adjustments and try new formations, you will be ready to win games with your budget lineup!



Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Offensive Playbooks in MUT

Working with a playbook that fits your offensive scheme is one of the biggest ways to improve your game in Madden Ultimate Team. Determine if you are a run-first or pass-first player and how your current team is made up. If you pull a big WR and a strong-armed QB, switch to a book that has some great plays for your playmakers. If you have a specific playbook you like that is run-heavy, consider selling those players and investing in your offensive line and an elite HB.

- Honorable Mention: Saints, Buccaneers, Ravens

5 NEW YORK GIANTS

TIP

The Giants' offensive playbook got an overhaul and now features some great passing formations.

- Styles: Long Pass, Speed Run
- Key Run Set: Singleback Ace
- Key Pass Set: Gun Trio Offset

The Giants' playbook is excellent for players who have three receiving options and love to pass the football. Check out some of the new formations that feature players in the flex. This will make it easier to pass-block and give you the time you need to look downfield. Work screen passes into the mix to maximize your scheme.

TIP

Using formation subs at the play-calling screen is one of the keys to getting your playmakers good matchup advantages.

4 PHILADELPHIA EAGLES

- Styles: Speed Run, Short Pass
- Key Run Set: Gun Ace Twins Offset
- Key Pass Set: Gun Flip Trips Eaglet

Philadelphia is an excellent playbook for gamers who want to pass the ball short to set up the run game inside. Drill the defense with quick throws to the outside to show them the flats must be covered. Once you get them thinking outside, mix in some inside zones to gash them up the middle. As long as you can handle shotgun formations, this playbook has it all.

TIP

The Eagles' 23 shotgun formations are the most of any team; you must be confident from these formations to win!

3 SEATTLE SEAHAWKS

- Styles: Ground and Pound, Short Pass
- Key Run Set: Gun Doubles Wing Offset
- Key Pass Set: Gun Wing Offset Wk

Seattle's playbook has great versatility for running the ball depending on if you prefer to run up the middle or outside. They also can succeed with running the ball from under center, pistol, and shotgun. Work on getting the opposing defense into tough alignments, and then use a mobile QB as a backbreaker to take the ball outside. You also have some good formations to take big shots downfield, but don't risk it more than once or twice per half.

TIP

Seattle can use a power-rushing attack if you are committed to the ground game.

2 MIAMI DOLPHINS

- Styles: Speed Run, Short Pass
- Key Run Set: Singleback Wing Trips Open
- Key Pass Set: Gun Bunch Open Offset

Miami has some excellent spread passing formations for players who love to use unique alignments. Call a diverse game plan to keep your opponent guessing which formation you will use next. You can keep using similar concepts over and over as long as they are coming from new formations. If you like this playbook, check out the Raiders and Vikings, too. You will have the most success with a mobile QB, so look for one in the Auction House.

TIP

The Dolphins' playbook benefits from a great wing style TE/FB who can lead-block and catch passes in traffic.

1 NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS

- Style(s): Short Pass, Long Pass
- Key Run Set: Singleback Tight Slots
- Key Pass Set: Gun Split Close Pats

The New England Patriots have some excellent formations for players who love to pass the football. If you have a big TE/WR, you will love the options on the outside for iso matchups. This playbook also does a nice job working with a WR using RAC over the middle. Keep your completion percentage high and work on short passes to move the chains.

Madden Ultimate Team

Top 5 Defensive Playbooks in MUT

The key to selecting a winning playbook is to match it to your defensive style. Think about if you would rather have a 3-4 or 4-3 base and go from there. Find a good formation that you feel comfortable using to stop the run. Consider what coverage style you like to play and how you will bring pressure on third down from your nickel and dime sets. Once you have answered these questions, picking the right defensive playbook to win you more games becomes easy! There is no problem with changing between playbooks, as many have similar concepts and can give you the edge you need.

- Honorable Mention: Bengals, Seahawks, Ravens

5 NEW ORLEANS SAINTS

- Base: 3-4
- Styles: Zone Defense, Pass Rush
- Run Defense Set: 3-4 Bear
- Pass Defense Set: Big Dime 1-4-6

The Saints' defense has a multitude of 3-4 formations that can keep opponents guessing where the pressure is going to come from. It also has some of the best passing defenses in the game if you like to have four CBs on the field at once. Keep bringing heavy pressure off the edges to get the most out of it.

TIP

Test out Cover 2 man this season and see if your opponents have what it takes to beat it consistently.

4 DALLAS COWBOYS

- Base: 4-3
- Styles: Pass Rush, Run Stuff
- Run Defense Set: 46 Bear
- Pass Defense Set: Big Dime 4-1-6

The Cowboys' playbook requires an excellent strong safety to maximize its effectiveness. If you land a great one and prefer an aggressive 4-3 style, this is the playbook to try out. Take advantage of all the unique ways to get your secondary defenders up in the box and force opponents to try to spread you out.

TIP

The 46 Bear is one of the best formations in the game for aggressive players!

3 GREEN BAY PACKERS

- Base: 3-4
- Styles: Pass Rush, Man Defense
- Run Defense Set: 3-4 Solid
- Pass Defense Set: Big Dime 2-3-6 Will

For a 3-4 player, the Packers' defense has a great mix of formations that should have them feeling comfortable. There are plenty of great nickel formations, which will get an extra CB on the field to help slow down all the new passing features. The only thing missing is the 3-4 Bear, which can be a solid formation in the red zone and on third and short.

TIP

Green Bay has the Nickel Psycho formation, which can bring heavy pressure if you have lots of LBs!

2 MINNESOTA VIKINGS

- Base: 4-3
- Styles: Run Stuff, Zone Defense
- Run Defense Set: 46 Normal
- Pass Defense Set: Nickel 2-4-5 Prowl

The Vikings' playbook is perfect for players who prefer to play heavy zone coverage from the 4-3. The 46 Normal should figure heavily in your game plan, as early offenses may struggle to spread it out. Keep switching between the Cover 2 and Cover 4 Show 2 looks to really maximize your game plan.

TIP

The Vikings have the 46 Normal formation, which can frustrate opponents.

1 PATRIOTS DEFENSE

- Base: Hybrid 3-4/4-3
- Style: Zone Defense, Run Stuff
- Run Defense Set: Nickel 2-4-5 Dbl A Gap
- Pass Defense Set: Nickel 3-3-5 Odd

The Patriots' defensive playbook is the only team playbook that has both 3-4 and 4-3 fronts. This allows you to mix up your looks and experiment with different lineups. Make sure to learn all of the nickel formations to really maximize the blitzes you can bring on third down.

TIP

If you have extra defenders at DE and LB, consider using the Patriots' playbook.

OFFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- Run Offense: Jacksonville's offense is built around the run game. They have a strong offensive line and a powerful running back in Leonard Fournette. They will look to establish the run early and often.
- Passing Game: The Jaguars have a decent passing game, but they are not as dangerous as their rushing attack. They will look to use play-action passes to keep the defense honest.
- Quarterback: Blake Bortles is a mobile quarterback who can make plays with his arm and his legs. He is not a great passer, but he is capable of making big plays when he has time in the pocket.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- Run Defense: The Jaguars have a strong run defense that is led by Calais Campbell and Yannick Ngakoue. They will look to stop the run and force the offense to throw the ball.
- Pass Rush: Jacksonville has a good pass rush that can get to the quarterback. They will look to put pressure on the quarterback and force him to make mistakes.
- Coverage: The Jaguars have a solid secondary that can cover receivers well. They will look to take away the passing game and force the offense to run the ball.

OFFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

Matt LaFleur's offense under Adam Stenavich continues to emphasize play-action and boot concepts to create clean throwing windows for Jordan Love. The scheme leans heavily on motion and misdirection to manufacture yards after the catch, with Christian Watson and Romeo Doubs stretching the vertical seam.

Green Bay's offensive line has been a strength, ranking 8th in pass-block win rate. Zach Tom and Elgton Jenkins provide versatility inside, while Rasheed Walker has settled in at left tackle after a rocky rookie season.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

Joe Whitt Jr.'s defense has transitioned to a more aggressive 3-4 front, blitzing at the 6th-highest rate in the league. Rashan Gary and Preston Smith are the primary edge rushers, while Kenny Clark anchors the middle of the defensive line.

The secondary has been the biggest question mark. Jaire Alexander's health remains a concern, and the depth behind him is thin. Watch for the Packers to disguise coverages heavily to compensate for inexperience.

OFFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- The Carolina Panthers offense will be led by quarterback Bryce Young, who is expected to be the starter for the 2025 season. Young has shown flashes of potential in his first two seasons, but he will need to improve his consistency and decision-making to be successful.
- The offensive line is a strength of the team, with all five starters returning from last season. The group has been together for a while and has developed good chemistry. They will be responsible for protecting Young and opening up holes for the running backs.
- The running back group is led by Chuba Hubbard, who had a breakout season in 2024. He is a talented runner with good vision and speed. He will be supported by Miles Sanders and Raheem Blackshear.
- The receiving corps is a mixed bag. Adam Thielen is a veteran leader who can still be a reliable target. Diontae Johnson is a talented receiver who has been inconsistent in his career. Jonathan Mingo is a young receiver who has shown potential but will need to develop further.
- The tight end group is led by Tommy Tremble, who is a solid blocker but has not been a consistent receiving threat. Ian Thomas is a backup who can provide some depth.
- Overall, the Panthers offense has the potential to be a good unit, but it will need to improve in several areas to be successful. The offensive line is a strength, but the skill positions are a question mark. Young will need to take a step forward in his development for the offense to reach its full potential.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- The Carolina Panthers defense will be led by defensive coordinator Ejiro Evero. Evero is a young and aggressive coach who has a reputation for creating turnovers. He will be looking to build on the defense's success from last season.
- The defensive line is a strength of the team. They have a group of players who can get to the quarterback and stop the run. They will be led by Derrick Brown, who is a dominant interior lineman. He will be supported by Brian Burns, who is a talented edge rusher.
- The linebacker group is also a strength of the team. They have a group of players who can cover the run and the pass. They will be led by Shaq Thompson, who is a versatile linebacker who can play multiple positions.
- The secondary is a question mark for the defense. They have a group of players who are young and inexperienced. They will need to develop quickly in order to be successful.
- Overall, the Panthers defense has the potential to be a good unit. They have a group of players who can create turnovers and stop the run and the pass. However, they will need to improve in the secondary in order to be successful.

SEAN MCVAY'S OFFENSE

Offensive Philosophy
Sean McVay's offense is a modern-day version of the West Coast offense. He likes to use a lot of motion and misdirection to create open receivers. He also likes to use play-action passes to keep defenses honest.

Offensive Strengths
- Quarterback Jared Goff is a very accurate passer who can make all the throws.
- The Rams have a deep group of receivers, including Cooper Kupp, Robert Woods, and Brandin Cooks.
- The offensive line is experienced and has been playing together for a few years.

Offensive Weaknesses
- The Rams can be predictable at times, especially on third down.
- They have struggled against teams that can get pressure on the quarterback.
- The offense can be inconsistent, with long drives followed by three-and-outs.

Keys to Victory
- The Rams will need to establish the run game early in order to open up the passing game.
- Goff will need to be efficient and avoid turnovers.
- The offensive line will need to protect Goff and create running lanes.

OFFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- Pittsburgh's offense operates primarily from 11 personnel (3 WR, 1 TE, 1 RB) and will spread defenses out to create mismatches in the passing game.
- Ertz is the clear target hog and the focal point of their entire offense. Not only is he a matchup nightmare for linebackers in coverage, but he's also a reliable blocker in the run game. Expect him to be involved early and often.
- Pittsburgh's offensive line has been a strength for years and they return four starters from last season. They'll look to establish the run with Conner and Harris to set up play-action opportunities.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- Pittsburgh's defense is built around T.J. Watt, who is a disruptive force on the edge. He'll be lined up all over the formation and will test your offensive tackles' ability to handle multiple looks.
- Cam Sutton, Joey Porter Jr. and Patrick Peterson anchor the secondary and are all capable of locking down their assigned receivers in man coverage.
- The Steelers will blitz at a high rate and will bring pressure from all angles. Quarterbacks will need to get the ball out quickly or be prepared to take some hits.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- Run defense has been solid all preseason, ranking 5th in the league in yards per carry allowed (3.8).
- Brandon Harris struggled at times during the preseason, throwing two interceptions and completing just 56% of his passes. He has shown flashes of potential, but will need to be more consistent to keep the defense honest.
- The offensive line has been a strength, allowing only one sack in the preseason. They will need to continue to protect Harris and open up holes for the running game.
- Tyreek Hill is a dynamic playmaker who can take the top off the defense. Defenses will need to be aware of his speed and ability to make plays after the catch.
- The Chiefs have a deep and talented receiving corps, with Hill, Travis Kelce, and Mecole Hardman all capable of making big plays.

DEFENSIVE SCOUTING REPORT

- The Vikings defense has been impressive in the preseason, ranking 3rd in the league in yards per game allowed (280.3).
- Linebacker Eric Kendricks is a tackling machine, leading the team in tackles in each of the last four seasons. He will be a key player to watch on defense.
- The defensive line has been disruptive, with Danielle Hunter and Everson Griffen combining for 4.5 sacks in the preseason. They will need to continue to put pressure on the quarterback to force mistakes.
- The secondary has been solid, but will be tested by the speed of the Chiefs' receivers. They will need to be disciplined in their coverage assignments to avoid giving up big plays.
- Cornerback Xavier Rhodes has been a shutdown corner in the past, but has struggled with injuries in recent years. He will need to stay healthy and perform at a high level for the defense to be successful.

Head-to-Head Scoring Format

All NFL.com Fantasy Football leagues feature head-to-head scoring. As in the games that take place across the NFL each Sunday, your team will be matched up against another team within your league. Similar to an NFL game being decided on the field with the team scoring the most points earning a win, your fantasy matchup behaves accordingly.

Based on your NFL-Managed league scoring settings, your team will earn points based on the actual statistics and results played out in the NFL that week. If your team earns more points than your opponent, you earn a win in the league standings. Fewer points? Take a loss. And if your game ends in a tie (you guessed it) it's a tie in the overall standings.

NFL-Managed Draft Types

Live Online Draft and Autopick Draft are the only draft types used in NFL-Managed Leagues.

Live Draft

The Live Online Draft feature allows you to select a full fantasy team, live, round-by-round in an interactive environment. The draft client features comprehensive stats, analysis, and chat functionality, all packaged in a user-friendly interface. In this draft application you can rank your players in real time, adding them to a queue that will update as players are taken by other teams in the league. You can search for players or filter the available players by position so that you can make fast, easy, and informed decisions to fill out your roster. When you have found the perfect selection, click “Draft Now” and the player you selected will be assigned to your team. You can track all of the action by round and by individual team, all in one place inside the draft application.

Autopick Draft

The Autopick Draft operates based on NFL.com fantasy experts’ default rankings or a team owner’s established pre-rankings. This draft type is an excellent choice for beginners as well as for leagues that can’t agree on a live draft time. In an Autopick Draft, players are assigned to your team automatically. NFL.com helps you fill your roster, either by going strictly off your Pre-Rank Draft list and Excluded Players list or by selecting the best available player at an open position of need on your roster. Select a day and time for your Autopick Draft, and that is all you need to produce a league full of fantasy teams for owners to manage as they see fit.

TOP 5 Must-Have Players

5 DEANDRE HOPKINS (WR), HOUSTON TEXANS

Hopkins is entering the season when he could potentially explode into a superstar and household name. Since veteran WR Andre Johnson left in free agency, Hopkins will have all the opportunities he can handle. All signs, including his 74 catches last season, point to him being able to handle it, and he just needs to increase his TDs to make him a must-have fantasy asset.

4 RUSSELL WILSON (QB), SEATTLE SEAHAWKS

QB Russell Wilson added a new weapon in the off-season in TE Jimmy Graham, who is looking to rebound with a big season. Wilson now has some excellent threats in the red zone and should see his passing totals increase. Wilson has slowly developed from a QB who can manage games to one who can fully take them over. The Seahawks still have all the pieces, and Wilson also racks up yardage with his legs, which is a bonus. If you don't land Luck, Rodgers, or Romo, Wilson is a great option.

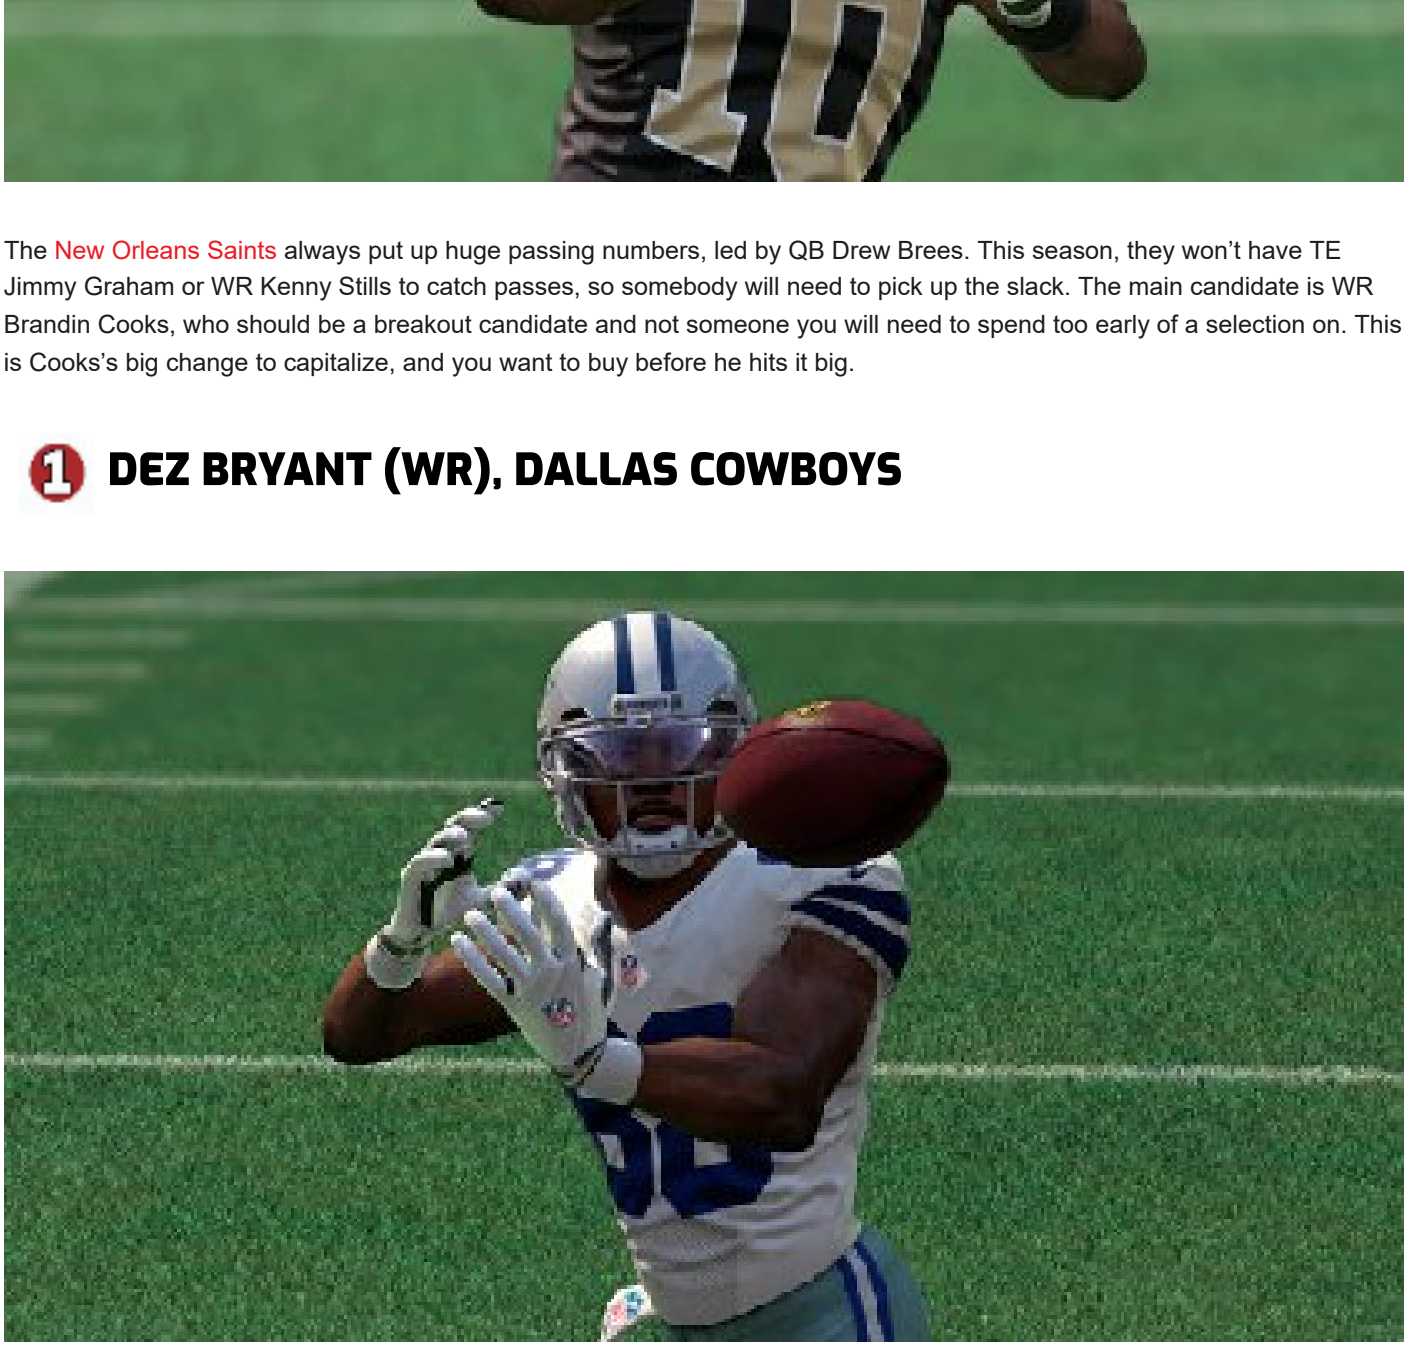
3 JULIO JONES (WR), ATLANTA FALCONS

Julio Jones had an excellent rebound season last year and proved he is worth your consideration as a top fantasy wideout. His pairing with QB Matt Ryan makes him a consistent option, and he should get more chances to cash in on TDs this season. When selecting Jones, you should expect over 100 catches once again and hopefully double-digit scores to make it really pay off.

2 BRANDIN COOKS (WR), NEW ORLEANS SAINTS

The New Orleans Saints always put up huge passing numbers, led by QB Drew Brees. This season, they won't have TE Jimmy Graham or WR Kenny Stills to catch passes, so somebody will need to pick up the slack. The main candidate is WR Brandin Cooks, who should be a breakout candidate and not someone you will need to spend too early of a selection on. This is Cooks's big change to capitalize, and you want to buy before he hits it big.

1 DEZ BRYANT (WR), DALLAS COWBOYS



The Cowboys' secret ingredient is their offensive line, as it makes everything so much easier. It creates big holes in the running game and also gives QB Tony Romo time to create in the pocket. While most defenses can't cover Dez Bryant, no defense can cover him when he has time to get free downfield when a play breaks down. He has the full trust of his QB in the red zone, and his ability to consistently haul in touchdowns makes him a must-have player.

Fantasy Football
TOP 5 Sleepers

5 DAVANTE ADAMS (WR), GREEN BAY PACKERS

The Green Bay Packers always seem to sneak a sleeper player onto this list, and with good reason. QB Aaron Rodgers can seemingly turn any player into a star. Last season, Jarrett Boykin came up a little short of expectations, but WR Davante Adams showed some flashes. This could be his year to explode and help out this already-loaded WR corps. While Jordy Nelson and Randall Cobb will always be the main targets, Rodgers and the Packers' offense put up plenty of passing stats to go around.

4 BISHOP SANKEY (RB), TENNESSEE TITANS

Sankey was listed on most sleeper and top rookie lists last season but never quite became a top performer. This year, his competition in the backfield is gone and the job will be his to win. With a year under his belt, this could be the season that Sankey lives up to his projections from last year. The best part is that the expectations have calmed, and he should be available for a reasonable value.

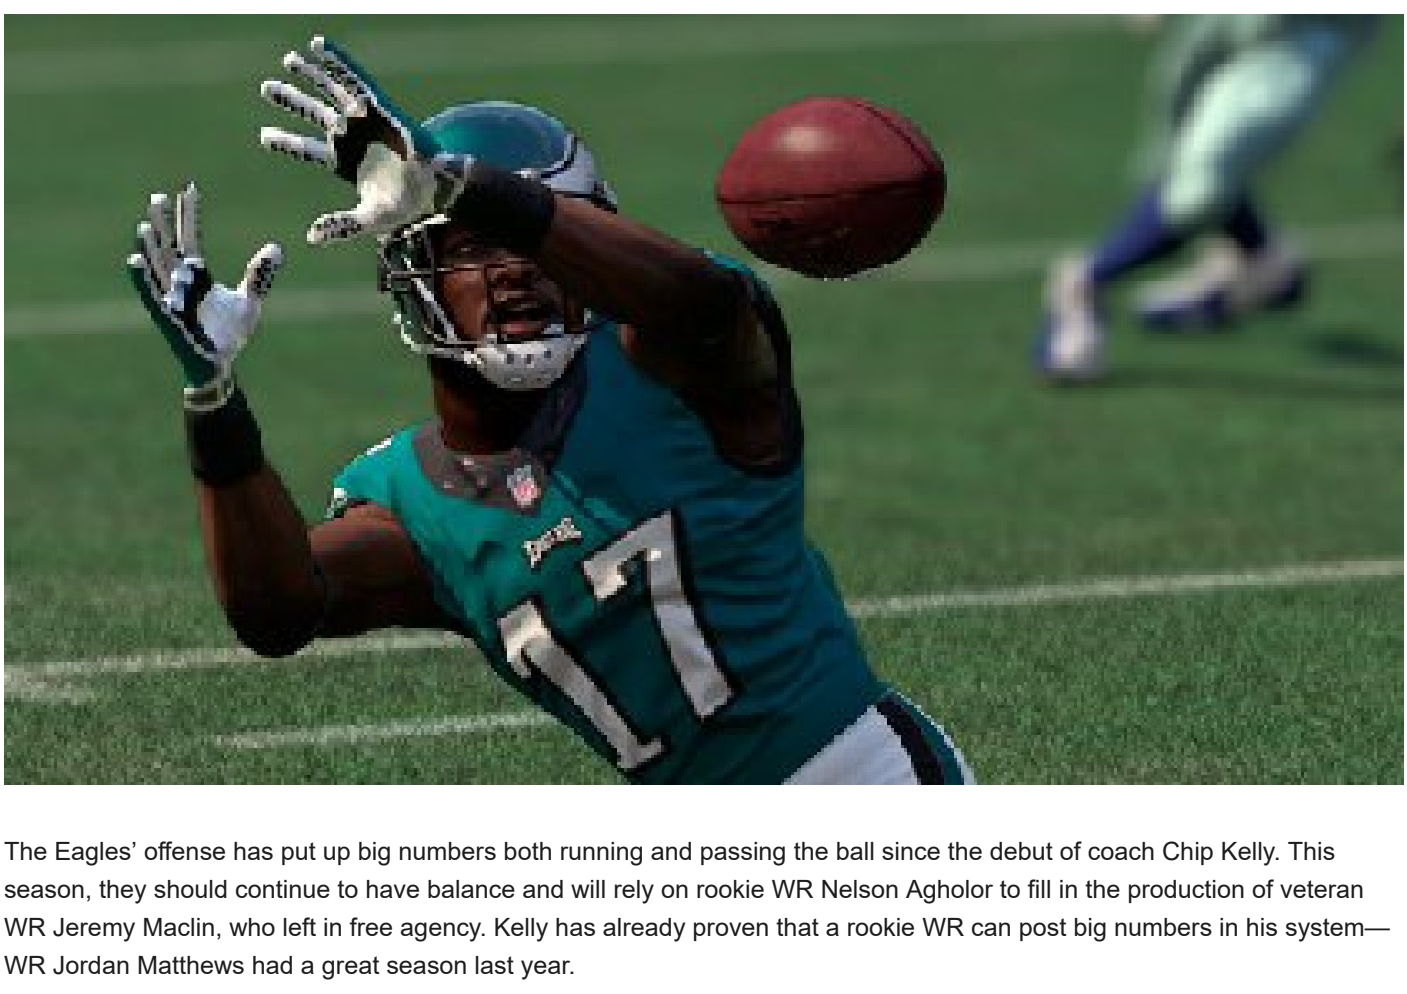
3 TEDDY BRIDGEWATER (QB), MINNESOTA VIKINGS

During his rookie season, QB Teddy Bridgewater showed excellent promise even without star HB Adrian Peterson in the lineup. Bridgewater got plenty of experience and proved he could consistently complete passes and keep drives going. With more time to develop this off-season, Bridgewater and the Vikings should continue to improve, and the numbers could be solid with a full season of games. While Bridgewater may not crack the top 5 quite yet, he should be pretty consistent and should be a great player against the right defense.

2 MARTAVIS BRYANT (WR), PITTSBURGH STEELERS

Martavis Bryant is another talent that we projected for a stellar rookie campaign last year. While he got out of the gate slowly, he rewarded owners by proving he could make huge plays and find the end zone. This year, a full season should really amplify those numbers, and while defenses will be more aware of him and his big frame, Pittsburgh has too many weapons to focus only on him. Expect Bryant to be the benefactor of stellar WR Antonio Brown lining up next to him.

1 NELSON AGHOLOR (WR), PHILADELPHIA EAGLES



The Eagles' offense has put up big numbers both running and passing the ball since the debut of coach Chip Kelly. This season, they should continue to have balance and will rely on rookie WR Nelson Agholor to fill in the production of veteran WR Jeremy Maclin, who left in free agency. Kelly has already proven that a rookie WR can post big numbers in his system—WR Jordan Matthews had a great season last year.

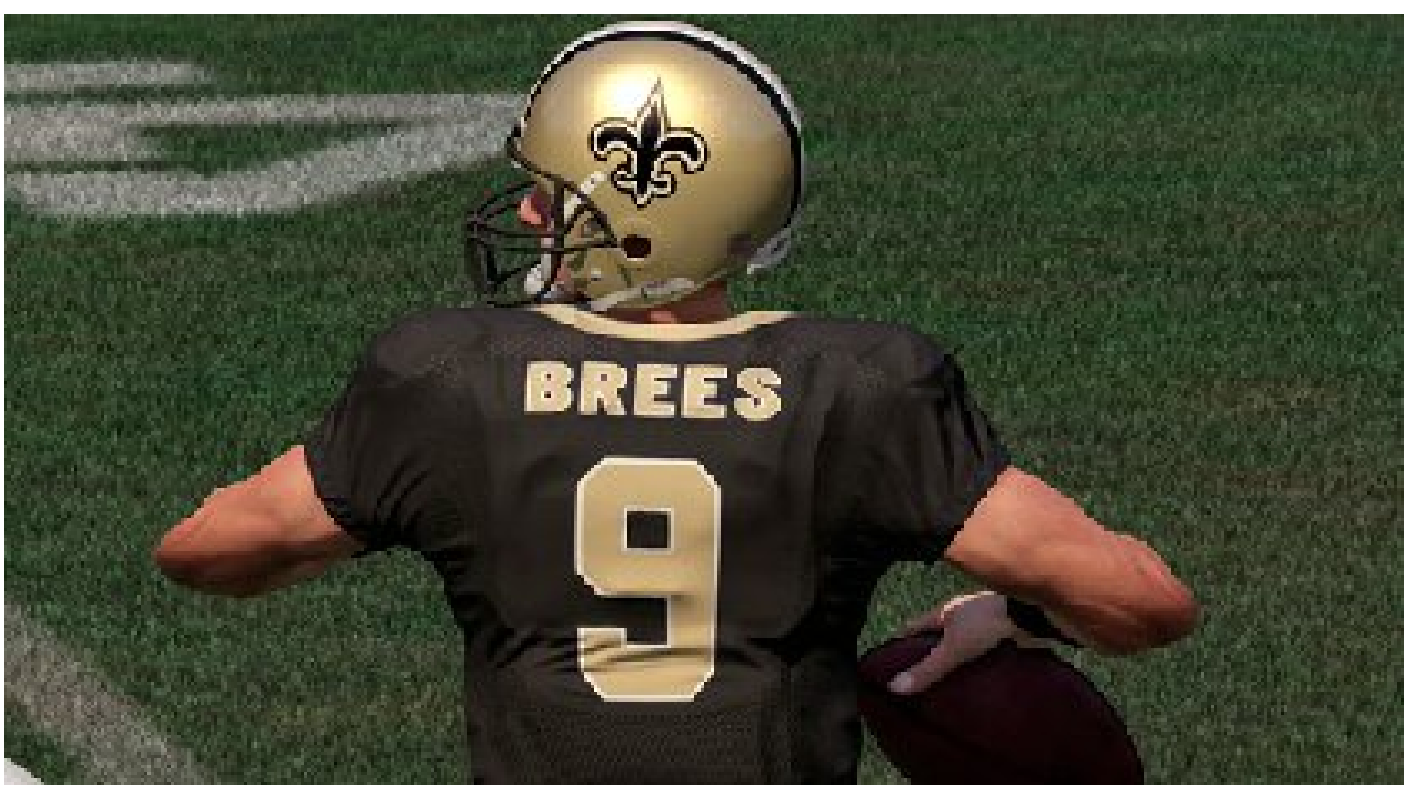
Fantasy Football

TOP 5 Overrated Players

5 DREW BREES (QB), NEW ORLEANS SAINTS



Drew Brees has been a top fantasy QB for what feels like the last decade. The Saints' QB has always put up huge numbers in a pass-heavy scheme that can turn seemingly average players into stars. While the yardage and completion percentage was there last season, the TD/INT ratio approached a more mortal 2/1. Brees also lost his main red zone target in TE Jimmy Graham, which could also hurt his numbers. Don't take Brees off your board, but don't select him based on past performance only.

4 LESEAN MCCOY (RB), BUFFALO BILLS

McCoy was good but not great in his first season after winning the rushing title. Now, he will be taking handoffs in Buffalo rather than Philadelphia and must prove he can get back to that level of performance. Buffalo needs to show they have a QB who can take the pressure off the run game; otherwise, yards may be tough for McCoy. Let someone else draft McCoy, and once he gets settled in the scheme, look for a mid-season trade if you think he is going to hit his stride.

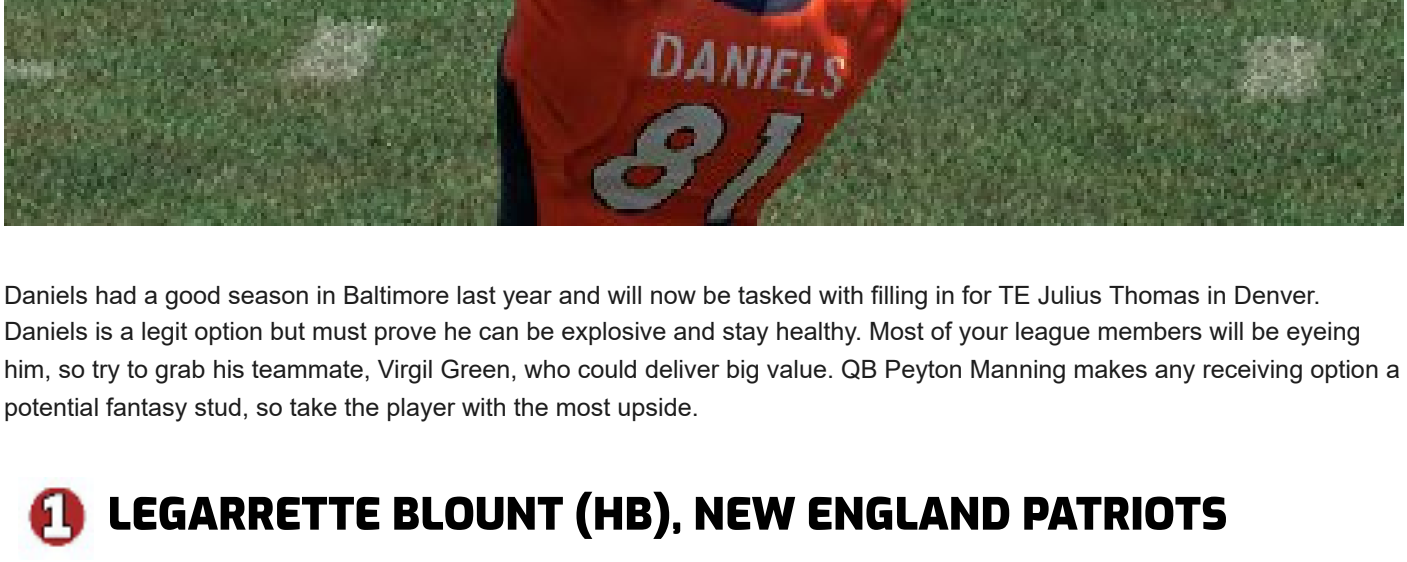
3 DEMARCO MURRAY (RB), PHILADELPHIA EAGLES

Murray delivered a monster fantasy season last year and should be high atop most draft boards. The key will be staying healthy and learning to fit in a new scheme, because he left Dallas for Philadelphia. Dallas has an excellent offensive line, so it will be interesting to see if Murray can deliver another huge season. Philly has some great depth in the backfield and a versatile scheme, so don't expect him to carry the full load again this season.

2 OWEN DANIELS (TE), DENVER BRONCOS

Daniels had a good season in Baltimore last year and will now be tasked with filling in for TE Julius Thomas in Denver. Daniels is a legit option but must prove he can be explosive and stay healthy. Most of your league members will be eyeing him, so try to grab his teammate, Virgil Green, who could deliver big value. QB Peyton Manning makes any receiving option a potential fantasy stud, so take the player with the most upside.

1 LEGARRETTE BLOUNT (HB), NEW ENGLAND PATRIOTS



Blount delivered big-time performances for the Patriots last season in some crucial games. Although he should be the option for the Patriots on running downs, nobody can be certain how many attempts that will deliver. New England is known for keeping a good rotation of backs and picked up some good pass catchers to fill in for Shane Vereen, who left during free agency and was a staple on third down. Blount is best when he is under the radar, so only grab him with the right expectations.

Fantasy Football
TOP 5 Rookies

5 KEVIN WHITE (WR), CHICAGO BEARS

Kevin White is in an excellent position from a fantasy football perspective. He is a talented rookie who will get a chance early with the departure of WR Brandon Marshall. However, defenses will mainly be worried about his teammate, WR Alshon Jeffery. This could mean big numbers if QB Jay Cutler, who still has a big arm, can get the offense back on track.

4 T.J. YELDON (RB), JACKSONVILLE JAGUARS

The Jaguars made Yeldon their second-round pick and hope to pair him with QB Blake Bortles to help turn the franchise around. While the Jaguars do have a solid stable of backs, Yeldon has the talent to get the bulk of the carries during his rookie season. In a point-per-reception (PPR) league, Yeldon should be even more valuable, as he should be an every-down back who can catch some passes out of the backfield.

3 JAMEIS WINSTON (QB), TAMPA BAY BUCCANEERS

Winston was the number one overall selection in the draft and is the top QB on our list. His big arm fits perfectly with his big targets on the outside, including WR Mike Evans. During his rookie season, Evans was a TD scoring machine in the red zone and should give Winston a big target that he can trust. The Bucs may not make a playoff run, but they should certainly be more competitive this season, and Winston will be a big part of it.

2 MELVIN GORDON (RB), SAN DIEGO CHARGERS

Gordon was the top back in college football last season and even finished second for the Heisman trophy. The Chargers moved up two spots in the draft to select him, and they will need him to deliver after losing RB Ryan Mathews in free agency. San Diego has an excellent leader at QB in Philip Rivers, who always has the Chargers near the top of the rankings. Look for Gordon to get off to a good start, because he is going to a team that consistently wins more than half its games.

1 AMARI COOPER (WR), OAKLAND RAIDERS

Last season, rookie WR Odell Beckham Jr. exploded on the field and even onto the cover of Madden NFL 16. While it is hard to imagine another rookie WR making those incredible plays, the statistical production is possible. Amari Cooper joins the Raiders, and although they don't have an explosive offense, they do have a young QB who needs to find a go-to option at receiver. Oakland struggled to run the ball last season, so they will need the passing game to help take the pressure off. Keep an eye on this combo early in camp to see if they can develop some chemistry that could lead to numbers like Bills' WR Sammy Watkins posted last season.

Overview

Many players watch football on Sunday and quickly learn the rules and strengths of the players. Madden NFL 16 is the most authentic simulation of football action, and there is plenty to learn even for a veteran player. Start with the basics and quickly add a few new adjustments to your game each week. Keep this page as a reference to make sure you understand the basics of football. The Skills Trainer is your best friend when it comes to learning all the mechanics in Madden NFL 16. There is also a list of full list of controls for each situation in the Game Settings menu.

A Gap — The gaps in the offensive line between the center and the guards are the A gaps. There is one to the right and one to the left. The fastest way to the QB is through the A gap since it's right up the middle.

Aggressive Catch — This catch mechanic allows computer players to go up and attack the ball at its highest point. It can be triggered manually by using (Xbox) or (PS) when the ball is in the air; you do not need to be clicked on the receiver.

Audible/Audibling — The act of coming to the line and then changing your play. If you call something in the huddle and get to the line of scrimmage and realize the defense is doing something different than you expected, you want to call an audible. This allows you to change your play to something you think will work better. You can set up to five audibles before the game to make sure you are ready for any situation.

B Gap — The gaps in the offensive line between the guards and tackles are the B gaps. There is one on each side of the line, and the B gap is the second quickest way to get pressure (after the A gap).

Blitz — On offense, the defense may look to blitz you by bringing more defenders towards your QB than you can block. On defense, you blitz by rushing more players at the QB than your opponent can block. This leaves your coverage vulnerable, but you may force the offense into a bad decision or get a sack.

Block a Halfback — Blocking a halfback is done by putting a player behind the line into a blocking hot route. This will help if you sense a blitz coming at your offense and want your HB to stay in and block.

Blue Route — This is a "block-and-release" route, which tells your offensive player (whose route is blue) to help block before releasing out on his route for a pass.

The Box — The area on defense before the snap where the defensive line and LBs line up. Looking at "the box" can help you decide if the defense is defending a run and has "eight defenders in the box" or not.

Bunch Set — Three players stacked tightly together on one-half of the field makes a bunch set. A bunch is great for flooding certain areas of the field. An example is Ace Bunch.

C gap — The C gap refers to the offensive line and is just outside of either tackle. It can be thought of as "the edge"; however, if a TE lines up there, it becomes another gap like the A or B gap. This is the slowest way to get pressure on the QB and generally is where offensive lines want to allow rushers.

Check Down — To dump off a short pass to the halfback or last option on a play, especially after seeing that your other options are covered.

Chew Clock — This setting in the play-calling screen allows you to run off additional seconds on the clock in between snaps. This speeds up the end of a game when the score isn't close.

Clicking onto a Player — This is the act of switching your player mid-play to control someone close to the action. "I clicked onto the WR and tried to make the catch."

Concept — A specific set of routes that work together to beat a specific defense. For example, a mesh concept is having two crossing drag routes on a play.

Conservative Catch — A catch mechanic that allows a receiver to focus on catching the ball and securing it rather than picking up more yards after the catch. This is a smart idea on the sideline and near the back of the end zone.

Depth Chart — The area of the game where you set your lineup. Access this by pressing the Pause menu to set which players play where.

Draw — This is a run play that pretends the offense is passing. The QB drops back and the receivers start to run routes. Once the defense is fooled, the QB hands off to the running back, who looks for open running lanes.

Dropping a Lineman — Placing a defender on the line of scrimmage into a zone assignment. This is most common with a zone blitz play.

Empty Set — A common formation with an empty set is Gun Empty. The backfield is "empty" because there are five WRs in on the play.

Flat — The area of the field near the sideline in line with the line of scrimmage. The most common term is a "pass to the flat," which means a short pass to the halfback who is running towards the sideline from out of the backfield.

Flood — When you send more receivers into a certain area of the field than the opponent has coverage. One example is Four Verticals against a Cover 3 defense. You have four receivers downfield and the opponent only has three defenders deep — therefore one must be open.

Formation — The formation is how players line up before the snap of the football. There are offensive formations and defensive formations. Singleback and Gun are offensive formations, for example.

Horizontal Passing Concepts — Attacking the field with a short-to-medium passing game that uses safe throws to keep the chains moving. This offense lacks the big plays of a vertical passing game but should yield a higher percentage of completed throws. The mesh concept is a horizontal passing concept.

Hot Route — Before the snap, you can change any of your players' route assignments to one of eight pre-set routes based on his position. If you read that the defense is weak in a certain area, call a hot route or use multiple hot routes to create a new play on the fly.

Hurry-Up Offense — After a play you can call your players back to the line of scrimmage without going back to the play-calling screen. The last play you called will be selected, and the defense won't be able to substitute. This up-tempo offense can be used to tire out the defense and keep them off balance. It is also known as a no-huddle offense.

Juke — Use the right stick to have your offensive player make a move to fake out the defender.

Line of Scrimmage — A line parallel to the yard lines where the ball is spotted right before it's snapped. The linemen blocking the defense take their places along this line.

Motion a WR — Before the snap, you can highlight an offensive player (WR, TE, or HB) and have him move to a new position. When the blue circle is underneath him, use the D-pad to move him to a new position. This can create new formations and forces the defense to watch where you move your player.

Option Run — A play where the QB can either hand off the ball to his teammate or keep it for himself depending on what he sees with the defense. Also known as Read Option.

Packaging — Using packages at the play-calling screen with the right stick can sub specific players into the game for special situations. For example, the Dual HB package will take out the FB and place another HB into the game at his position.

Pistol — This is a unique formation where the QB takes a shotgun snap but the HB still lines up behind him. You'll find the Pistol in the Redskins' playbook, for example.

Play-Action Pass — Play action involves faking a handoff to the back to try to fool the defense into thinking it's a run. The QB still has the ball and looks to throw.

Play Ball — This defensive mechanic allows the defender to try to play the ball at its highest point. This can force a knockout and is the best way to go for an interception.

Play Man — This defensive mechanic allows the defender to play the receiver as he is catching the ball to improve the chance that he can knock it out or force a drop.

Press Coverage — When press coverage is called, your defensive back will stand close to the WR and play physical at the snap. This forces the receiver to use his hands to get off the jam at the line and can throw off timing with the QB. The danger is that if the WR can get free, he will often get good separation from the defender. This is also known as bump-n-run coverage.

Quick Audible — Before the snap, you can quickly audible to another play if you read that the defense is weak against something. You can call a quick pass, deep pass, play-action pass, or run from any formation by using the right stick in a specific direction.

RAC — The "run after catch" mechanic allows a receiver to turn upfield as he is catching the ball to pick up as many yards as possible. It's controlled by (Xbox) or (PS).

Read Option — An option run in which the QB either hands the ball off to his HB or keeps it. The QB must "read" the defender and make a quick decision!

Screen Pass — Screen passes are most often used when facing an aggressive defense. They look to hit the HB near the flat and try to get the offensive linemen out in front to block.

Set — Once you select a formation, the set is how your players will align within it. For example, 4-3 is a defensive formation, and then Over Plus is the set.

Shot Play — This is a specific play concept that the offense calls when they want to look for a big play downfield in the passing game.

Shotgun Snap — Any formation where the QB lines up 4-5 yards behind the center, who snaps the ball to the QB in the air. This increases chances for bad snaps and most commonly is used with formations that lean heavily towards the pass. The QB catches the snap and doesn't have to backpedal, so he is all set up to throw.

Slide Protection — Before the snap, you can tell your linemen to slide left, right, or pinch into the middle. This will help them pick up blitzers if you sense them coming from a specific area.

Stiff Arm — A stiff arm is a move by the ball carrier where he puts a straight arm out to prevent the tackler from getting in range to make a hit. This is generally a more effective move for power back than for elusive backs. Make sure to check a player's Stiff Arm rating to see how effective he will be at performing the move.

Strafe — On defense, strafing will square your hips to the line of scrimmage and give you better control of your player. You will not be able to move as fast when strafing.

Strip — A tackle who is running for a ball carrier can go for a "strip," where he tries to knock the ball loose, rather than a tackle. This can force a turnover, but it can also result in a broken tackle. It is best to go for a strip only when you have lots of teammates in the area.

Swat — Having your defender try to knock the ball down rather than go for the interception. He looks to knock away the pass, which gives him more range and can be safer than trying for an interception.

Tight Set — Tight sets bring your receivers into the middle of the field rather than out wide as in most formations. This will create a lot of action in the middle of the field and force the defense to bump into each other as they try to cram into a tight area. Shotgun Tight Five is a tight set.

Trips Set — These formations place three WRs onto one side of the field. This forces your opponents to shift their attention towards that side since there are more players on that side of the field. Trips sets are great for flooding zone coverages. Shotgun Trips is one example.

Truck — A ball carrier who tries to run over a defender when being tackled is a truck. Trucking is most common with power backs, especially near the goal line.

Under Center — Any formation where the QB lines up directly behind the center and takes a handoff directly from him. This is the opposite of a shotgun snap.

Userinp/User Control — When you actively control a player during a play. Whatever player you use on defense is who you are "user-controlling." The best players believe they can make more plays than if the computer were controlling the same player.

User Catch — The act of clicking onto a WR and holding the Catch button to go after a pass.

Verticals Passing Concept — This passing concept looks to stretch the field aggressively towards your opponent's end zone. Most often the deep pass audible, by flicking the right stick right, will give you this style of play. The most common way to attack the defense is with Four Verticals, which floods coverage deep by sending all four receivers deep downfield.

YAC — Yards after catch for a receiver or yards after contact for a running back.

Zone Blitz — The art of bringing pressure from one area of the field while dropping defenders into another. This is a tactic used to confuse the offense.

Defensive Pre-Snap Adjustments

Blitz — You can make any selected player blitz by using this hot route command, a.k.a. a blitz straight down since the player's rush angle will appear straight down on the screen.

Bluff Blitz — This hot route makes your defender attack the line of scrimmage before dropping into his zone. You can fake pressure with a linebacker before he drops over the middle.

Curl to Flat — The "buzz zone" zone defender will drop 8–10 yards deep and defend the curl; if there is no route threatening that area, he will move to the flat. A buzz zone is also known as a purple zone because of the zone color.

Deep Zone — This dark blue zone will drop back and play deep assignments.

Flat Zone — This light blue zone will drop down and play the flat. It is great for guarding short-throwing offenses and players who like to dump off passes to the halfback.

Guess Play — Predict a pass or commit to a run to one side or up the middle. Use LT (Xbox) or L2 (PS) and the right stick before the snap.

Hook Zone — This yellow zone will guard a 3- to 5-yard radius around wherever it is assigned. It is great for covering the middle of the field.

Option Adjustment — Contain the QB or RB on option plays depending on your pre-snap command.

QB Contain — On running plays defensive ends in contains by using LT (Xbox) or L2 (PS) before the snap and pressing RB (Xbox) or R1 (PS).

QB Spy — A QB spy tells your defender to watch the QB and attack him if he runs past the line of scrimmage. This is a great way to stop scrambling QBs. This route also helps stop short throws right over the middle.

Shift Defense — Pinch, spread, or shift your defense in either direction with LT (Xbox) or L2 (PS) and the left stick.

Quick Adjustments — These allow you to control your secondary players without clicking onto them before the snap.

Defensive Coverage Adjustments

Base Align — This allows defenses to align their defenders in the general settings of the formation. As offensive formations change they can alter how a formation looks and plays. To prevent that from happening we use base align.

Give Cushion — If you want to play bend-but-don't-break defense, use "give cushion" coverage. This moves your defenders farther away from the line of scrimmage and puts them in a "prevent" defensive position.

Inside — Your defenders will attempt to get inside position against the receivers and jump routes like ins and slants.

Man Align — Your defenders, especially LBs and safeties, will line up closer to their assignments, which is useful on Cover 0 blitzes.

Outside — Your defenders will play the receiver outside and jump routes like corners and outs.

Over Top — Your defensive zones will stay back against the receivers. They won't get beaten deep by vertical concepts but won't be able to break down on routes as easily.

Press — This will jam receivers at the line of scrimmage. Pressing slows down offenses and allows blitzes more time to get after the quarterback. It can leave your defense vulnerable if the WR beats the press.

Protect the Sticks (Sticks) — Your defenders will keep in mind the down and distance and drop their zones to that depth. This is a great adjustment for third and long.

Quick Adjust — Allows you to make adjustments to defenders before the snap without clicking onto them.

Show Blitz — A great way to load the box up with defenders is to utilize show blitz. Most formations in the game will create a Bear front, which is great for stopping the run and blitzing your opponent.

Underneath — Your defensive zones will play underneath their targets. This is great for clamping down on the horizontal passing game.

Appendix / Glossary

Offensive Hot Routes

Remember that you can only make one hot route before getting to the line in Madden NFL 16. For all other offensive hot routes, you must wait until the QB finishes his animation before inputting another.

Check-and-Release — This blue route tells your back to help block before releasing to the flat.

Comeback — A route for outside WRs that runs about 15 yards downfield before turning around.

Curl — The WR starts out on a straight pattern and turns around sharply after 8–10 yards.

Drag — A drag runs straight across the field after a 2-yard move forward.

Fade — This route starts the WR moving a few steps towards the sideline and then runs straight downfield.

Flat — A short route by the HB that runs to the flat and gives the QB a short option near the sideline.

Hitch — Similar to the curl route but runs shorter and is only available on the inside.

In — The receiver runs straight for 8 yards before cutting 90 degrees towards the middle of the field. This is the opposite of an out route.

Option — A route by the HB that gives the player the option to sit underneath zone or continue towards the sideline against man-to-man.

Out — The receiver runs straight for 8 yards before cutting 90 degrees towards the sideline. This is the opposite of an in route.

Slant — This route starts like a streak for a few steps and then breaks sharply at an angle across the field.

Smart Route — By pressing down on the right stick, you can tell your WR to run his route to the first down marker. This is great for third-and-long plays where the standard route won’t run far enough downfield.

Smoke Screen — The WR on the outside turns towards the QB to quickly catch the pass and get upfield. This route is best against defenses that are playing far back off the receiver.

Streak — This route runs straight downfield (a.k.a. a “go” or “9” route).

Swing — The back in the backfield will swing out to the left or right.

Wheel — This route starts like a flat route but cuts upfield on a streak once it reaches the sideline.

Zig — A zig appears to start like a slant route, but the receiver pivots and cuts back to the outside towards the sideline.

Positions

Offense

Quarterback (QB) — The player who takes the snap from the lineman and either hands off, passes, or runs the ball.

Halfback (HB) — The player who usually lines up behind the QB and takes handoffs on run plays (a.k.a. RB — running back). On pass plays he can either run a route and become a receiver or stay in to help block.

Fullback (FB) — Lines up in front of the HB and looks to block players trying to tackle the HB. Can also catch and block on pass plays.

Wide Receiver (WR) — Receivers line up outside the linemen and look to get open downfield on pass plays. The QB throws them the ball and they can run after they catch it.

Tight End (TE) — Most commonly lines up outside the linemen and can either block on run plays or go out on pass plays.

Slot Receiver — This receiver lines up outside the tackles and is a receiver but lines up inside the farthest WR. These players most often run routes over the middle of the field or use their speed to get deep.

Offensive Linemen (OL) — These players block for the QB and HB. The center (C) is in the middle and snaps the ball to the QB on every play. There are guards on either side of the center (RG and LG) and two tackles (RT and LT) flanking the guards.

Defense

Defensive End (DE) — The defensive end matches up against the other team's lineman on the outside and is most known for trying to sack the QB on passing plays. You have two DEs on the field in most situations (3-4 and 4-3 defenses).

Defensive Tackle (DT) — The DT plays in the middle of the defensive line, usually closest to the center. He is mostly known for plugging up the middle and is usually one of the biggest players on the team (there's one DT in a 3-4, two in a 4-3 defense).

Outside Linebacker (OLB) — These LBs line up outside and can cover receivers or blitz on pass plays. They must tackle anything that gets past the line on a run play. You have two OLBs on the field in a 3-4 or a 4-3 defense.

Middle Linebacker (MLB) — This player controls the middle of the field for the defense. He stands behind the defensive tackle and must tackle everything that comes through the middle. You have two MLBs in 3-4 and one in a 4-3 defense.

Cornerback (CB) — These players play outside and must cover the WRs on passing plays.

Free Safety (FS) — This player backs up the cornerbacks and helps give them support in the passing game.

Strong Safety (SS) — This player helps in the passing game but can also be brought towards the line of scrimmage to help in the run game as well.

Special Teams

Kicker (K) — The kicker (or placekicker) is responsible for a team's field goal or extra-point kicks.

Punter (P) — The punter's role is to catch the ball from the long snapper and kick it downfield to the opposing team on fourth down to help his team's field position.

Long Snapper (LS) — The long snapper is a specialized player who snaps the ball to the holder on field goals or to the punter so they can set up to kick it.

Kick Returner (KR) — The kick returner catches the kickoff from the opposing team and tries to return it for as many yards as possible to set his team up with good field position.

Punt Returner (PR) — The punt returner is an elusive-style player who catches punts from the opposing team and works to get return yardage.

Third Down Running Back (3DRB) — The third-down running back is often a specialized back who is strong in the passing game as a route runner or a pass blocker against blitzes.

Kickoff Specialist (KOS): The kickoff specialist's only job is to kick the ball off to the other team. Often the kicker shares this duty, but teams will sometimes bring in a player with a stronger leg, since accuracy isn't as important in this role.
